By A.D. Richardson, New York Tribune Correspondent.
The most interesting and exciting book ever published, embracing Mr. Richardson's unparalleted experience for four years, travelling through the South in the secret service of the Tribune, at the outbreak of the war, with our armies and fleets, both East and West, during the first two years of the Rebellion; his thrilling capture; his confinement for twenty months in seven different Rebelly Fisons; his escape, and almost miraculous journey, by night, of nearly four hundred miles. It will abound in stirring events, and contain more of the fact, incident, and romance of the war than any other work published.

Horace Greeley says:
"A great many books will yet be written concerning this war, in addition to the many already in print; but not one of them will give within a similar compass a clearer, fuller, more feadable account, entirely from personal observation, of the nature, animus, purposes, tendencies, and instrumentalities of the Slaveholders' Rebellion than does the unpretending narrative of Mr. Richardson."
