By A. D. Richardson, New York Tribune Correspondent.
The most interesting and exciting book ever published, embracing Mr. Richardson's unparalleled experience for four years, travelling through the South in the secret service of the Tribune, at the cutbreak of the war, with our armies and fleets, both East and West, during the dirst two years of the Rebellion; his thrilling capture; his confinement for twenty months in seven different Rebel prisons; his scape, and almost miraculous journey, by night, of hearly four hundred miles. It will abound in stirring events, and contain more of the fact, incident, and romance of the war than any other work published.
Horace Greeley says:

Horace Greeley says:

The decembary bordstion to the many already in print; but not one of them will give within a similar compass a clearer, fuller, more readable account controlly from personal observation, of the nature, animus, purposes, tendencies, and instrumentaties of the Slaveholders' Rebellion than does the unpretending narrative of Mr. Richardson."

Teachers, ladies, energetic young men, and especially returned and disabled officers and solders, in want of profitable employment, will find it pecularly dapted to their condition. We have agent doubting applicant.
