SWAMPED IN THE FIRST DITCH.

State sovereignty is likely to get an exhaustive discussion in an unexpected quarter. The Confederate cotton-loan holders of London have some stock in the question. The unfortunates at their meeting on the 4th ultimo, with the greatest unanimity, agreed to believe that, by what they call the original constitution of the United States, each State is a sovereign State, having a right to secede from the Union, contract debts, and, though reduced to Unionism again by the force of arms, remains liable under the contract. But, as the loan with which the meeting was concerned was contracted by several of these sovereign States as constituents of a general government of the whole, the cotton bonders think it quite clear that each separate State of the overthrown Confederacy is liable for its due proportion of the loan; and they directed counsel to be employed to this point; so we shall probably be entertained by the big wigs of the English bar and bench with a general rehearsal of the resolutions of '98-9, and resolutions and speeches of Democratic conventions, and authorities pending the rebellion and reconstruction stages of our political history. There always was mischief in the famous Virginia and Kentucky resolutions, but there will be some fun in them when they are brought home to the reconstructed rebel States, who went to war upon them, by the cotton-bonders, as law and gospel for pro rata contributions to the payment of the Confederate debts. The rebel authorities are in the habit of saying that they themselves have been subjugated by superior physical force; will they now claim that their logic and their principles are in like manner conquered by force of arms? Or will they -plead that the Confederacy was a limited partnership, and consequently there is nothing liable for its debts but its assets, and so hold the holders to the letter of the bond? They will doubtless find reasons enough for non-liability, but it is a rather curious embarrassment of their situation to find them bothered with their own doctrine of State sovereignty by their dunning creditors. The bond-holders were kind enough to say that they entertain hopes from this ground of claims. They have confidence in the whole theory of the rebellion and in the justice and honor and consistency of its disciples. State sovereignty has nothing left for itself in this dilemma but to get up its best dodging logic,

COUNSEL FOR THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION. The Richmond Times, in commenting upon the movement headed by Bishop MEADE, intended to facilitate the reunion between the Episcopal Church, North and South, expresses its amazement that any members of the convention should have opposed an effort towards inaugurating "a reunion of the church upon a basis honorable the fact that the harmony of the Church had never been disturbed by the agitation of the slavery question, and that therefore it should be in a condition to set the example of the hearty renewal of all old ties, which might be more difficult of rearrangement in other of the Protestant churches in which the discussion had been maintained. The Times argues that all the prominent members of the great religious denomina tions should remember "that God in his infinite wisdom has decreed that there shall not be carved out of the United States two distinct nationalities." That the terrible experiences of the war must have "convinced every Southern man that the Union is a fixed fact." Neither the bravery of the Confederate soldiers, nor the prayers of the Southern clergy was Southern Confederaafter emposing themselves to every danger for four years, now unite earnestly and zealously in the opinion that nothing should be left undone by the South tending to promote their own happiness as citizens of the United States; that this opinion is being rapidly acted upon by the business men of every section, by the great benevolent societies and secret orders, and by the various political parties, but that "until the work of reconstruction has been consecrated by the great religious denominations of this country, the work of reunion will not be strong and complete."

The Times strengthens its argument still more by directing attention to the fact that certain persons in the North are constantly asserting that the people of the South are still bitterly hostile to the cause of the Union, and, secretly, as determined foes to reconstruction as they have ever been; and that if the Episcopal Church, South, should refuse to reunite with that at the North, it will cause endless misrepresentations, tending to the injury of the Southern people, and postpone that "purified and perfect union, that union of hearts and hands now so indispensably necessary for the safety and welfare of the weaker section."

DOES NOT ASK FOR PARDON. Some Philadelphian writes semi-occa sional letters to the London Times, no nearly so well as the regular "special correspondent" at New York, but to a certain extent readable. This gentleman lately stated that among persons from abroad who had asked President Johnson for pardon was the well-known HIRAM FULLER. In a letter dated "Grand Hotel, Paris, Sept. 9." Mr. FULLER rather indignantly says to the Times, "This statement not having the shadow of a foundation in fact, I trust you will promptly contradict it. As I have never violated the Constitution of the United States, nor my own political convictions in regard to the rights and wrongs of the individual States, I feel under no necessity of Washington," This is something in the spirit of JOHN MITCHEL's redoubted declaration as to pardon-seeking and pardonreceiving, that he did not deal in the article. If Mr. HIRAM FULLER did not violate the Constitution of the United States, he has been abominably misrepresented. The very Times in which he gives his indignant denial to "the soft impeachment," his lectures, in London, in favor of Secession, were advertised and criticised—they were dead failures, and the cruel critic attributed each fiasco to their being badly written and worse delivered." Mr. FULLER, who has an aristocratic and costly locale in the most expensive hotel in Paris, is solely known in this country, to which he belonged, as author of an inoffensive volume, entitled "Belle Brittan's Letters;" as travelling agent or guide to Dr. CHARLES MACKAY in his American tour, some years ago, and as proprietor and editor before that of the New York Evening Mirror, a journal so remarkably limited in its circulation that the Herald, (which had a long-standing paper-war with Mr. FULLER, whom it nicknamed "Colonel Pluck,") once got the town-laugh on its side by representing him as such a thorough aristocrat that he actually went to the expense of printing an

The British cotton-bonders are setting eminent legal counsel in hot pursuit of the doctrine that the Confederacy was a de facto Government, and that the United States Government, as its successor, and having succeeded to its estate, is consequently liable for its debts. Of course, they will get an opinion, learned, lengthy, and logical; but if these same cotton bond ers have any fancy for trying their claim upon its merits, we think that the following case would be a better presentment of the points at issue: John Bull, at the request and on the behalf of a party of greatly aggrieved and desparately exasperated subjects of Brother Jonathan. having put himself to the pains and expense of heating a poker red hot, and said poker having been heated with the sole intention of being plunged into Jonathan's bowels, the aforesaid Jonathan's repugnancy and resistance alone having defeated the intention—the question now stands, should not the above-mentioned Jonathan pay for heating the poker? If the decision should be against the complainants under this form of action, they will still have the liberty to sue out a writ of replevin for the property exchanged for the bonds. [Large amounts of this property can still be found in the possession of the United States Government, in the shape of captured cannon, muskets and other material of war, together with any quantity of bullets and various other missiles lodged in the bodies of slaughtered Yankee soldiers. Surely there does exist an unsettled account between consignors and consignees for these last-mentioned goods, wares and merchandise.

Public Entertainments. CHESTNUT-STREET THEATRE.—Miss Western has left us, and the "French Spy" has given way to a "grand legendary, mysterious, ro-mantic drama, in five acts, entitled 'The Angel of Midnight.'" What's in a name? Surely, with such a title, this drama must succeed. Miss Josephine Orton, who, by the by, is a very good actress and quite pretty, appears in the principal rôle. The play is cast to the full extent of the stock company, and will be put upon the stage in the usual fine style of the Chestnut. The performance concludes this evening with the farce of "Family Jars." Saturday afternoon next, at the usual family matines, the spectacular drama of the "Sea of Ice" will be given. Dumas' "Monte Christo" s underlined, and will shortly be produced. ARCH STREET THEATRE.—The engagement of Mr. Edwin Adams closed on Saturday night. Mr. Adams on that evening appeared in one of his best parts—Robert Landry, in the play of the "Dead Heart." The position of this gentle. man among our young tragedians, is honora-ble and well won. This evening Mrs. F. W. Lander, formerly Miss Jean Davenport, appears as Advienne, in the play of "Adrienne, the Actress." Mrs. Lander's reappearance upon the stage in this city, on the 6th of last May, is an occasion well remembered. We doubt whether actor or actress ever received such a welcome as was then given her. We can do no better than to reprint the following, which appeared editorially in the Press at that time:

"Five or six years ago, when Jean M. Davenport retired from the stage, she left no successor. The place has remained vacant. None of the many popular actresses who have won fame and fortune succession. The condition of the stage seems to give new inspiration to her profession. Mrs. Lander has not lost in the interruption of her professional life any of the beauty and grace of her art, but has seemed rather to have gained dramatic force and passion."

"Adrienne, the Actress," will be repeated tomorrow evening. For Wednesday the sensation drama of "Charlotte Corday" is announced. Friday evening "Masks and Faces. nounced. Friday evening "Masks and Faces, or, Peg Woffington." Monday "Joan d'Arc." Mrs. Lander's engagement is positively limited to twelve nights.

WALNUT-STREET THEATRE.—The fourth week of Mrs. D. P. Bowers commences this even-ing. She appears as Kathteen, in the drama of "Peep O' Day." An engagement has been made with the well-known actor, Mr. John McCullough, who takes the rôle of Harry Kavanaugh. Mary Grace will be personated y Miss Effie Germon, and Barney O'Toole by Mr. Barton Hill. THE AMERICAN THEATRE.—Miss Kate Fisher.

with her horse Wonder, still continues at this theatre. Saturday evening she appeared as Jack Sheppard, in the play of that name. We have seen much better Jack Sheppards, yet Miss Fisher, for so portly a lady, did quite well. For this week a new drama is announced— "Philadelphia by Gas Light." Miss Fisher is advertised to appear in nine different roles. The ever funny S. Hemple is in the cast. M'lle Augusts, who made her first appearance in this city Monday evening last, is justly ento both sections." The Times dwells upon titled to the name of brilliant danseuse, but we must confess that she is the only lady con ected with this theatre who can so be called. Mile Augusta appears every evening this week. The Miaco Brothers, gymnasts, are wonders—they are daring in the extreme.

Concert Hall.—Blind Tom, the negro musical wonder, will continue his concerts at the above hall during the present week. His advertisements state that after Saturday night next he will positively leave our city.

Assembly Buildings.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins will continue this week, at the Assembly, Buildings, their original entertainment of "Two Hours in Fun-land." Their enter. tainment is of the sprightly character—full of wit, fun, and frolic. Since their sojourn in his city, the Assembly Buildings have not held a poor audience.

BAILEY & Co.'s CIRCUS.-Every afternoon and evening this week, a performance of Geo. F. Baily & Co.'s circus will be given at the corner of Broad and Locust streets. A number of animals accompany this exhibition, and will be exhibited in the ring by their respective keepers; and the performance is, we understand, of a first aler the city to-day, and will pass in procession, headed by the hippopotamus drawn by a train of elephants, through the following streets: Down Market to Eighteenth, through Eighteenth to Chest-nut, down Chestnut to Third, along Third to Walnut, up Walnut to Sixteenth, through Sixteenth to Arch, down Arch to Twelfth, along I welfth to Vine, up Vine to Broad, and thence to the place of exhibition.

The bills from the trustees of the Philadelphia gas-works are sent into private houses once a uarter, and contain a notice that the amount stated is "less five per cent discount for prompt payment of the bill within five days." This morning, the last day of September, I received my gas bill marked as "presented Oct. 1." Now the latter date does not occur until to-morrow which is Sunday. Had the bill been dated and presented on Monday, Oct. 2, prompt pay-ment might have been made up to Friday; but presented on Saturday, the last day of Sep-ember, and ante-dated "October 1," (which is ember, and anto-taken necorrect, Sunday being a dies non as to busi-less,) a clear day is conveyed away from the consumer who desires to profit by the discount or early payment. Officers' Meeting at Harrisburg.—We are requested to state that officers who intend being present at the meeting at Harrisburg on Wednesday next, will meet this evening at the Union Statu Central Committee rooms at 8 o'clock, to make arrangements to go in a body.

WORK OF ART .- Sale of elegant Italian vases, statuary, Bohemian glassware and silver-plated ware.—The elegant goods imported by Signor andolfinni, to be sold at Mesers, Birch & Son's auction rooms, No. 1110 Chestnut street, are now open for exhibition. They comprise elegant stone, of new designs, and richly carved card receivers, tazzes, statuettes, by superior rtists. Also, rich Bohemian glass ornaments and silver plated ware.

VERY VALUABLE COAL LANDS AT PUBLIC SALE.—Messrs. Thomas & Sons advertise some very valuable Broad Top coal land, to be sold without reserve. For particulars see adver-fisement in to-day's Press.

DANCING ACADEMY.-Mr. D. L. Carpenter. whose rooms are at 625 Arch street, has opened his school for the benefit of those who are desirous of acquiring the "art." Dancing, as taught by Mr. Carpenter, is easily learned, and the most scrupulous can attend his school, for none but the most respectable are admitted.

Mr. HERRNESS will hold an important sale of horses and carriages on Wednesday morning next at the Bazaar, Ninth and Sansom streets, including five valuable horses, four carriages harness, saddles, &c., being the entire driving establishment of a gentleman going to Eu-THE FINE ARTS.—B. Scott, Jr., will sell this (Monday) morning at 10 o'clock, at the Art Gallery, No. 1020 Chestnut street, a collection of Italian marble urns, vases, fancy goods, &c. Time's Changes.—Francis W. Pickens, who introduced the resolution into the South Carolina Convention, declaring slavery abolished, was Governor of the Palmetto State in 1861, and on the fall of Fort Sumpter, addressed the Charlestonians in the following language: "We have humbled the flag of the United States, and as long as I have the honor to preside as your Chief Magistrate, so help me God, no power on earth shall ever lower from that fortress those flags, unless they be lowered and trailed in a sea of blood."

WM. Overon, Jun., and his son, two of the most expert counterfeiters in the country, were arrested in Brooklym on Friday. When caught by the detectives they were in the act of carrying on their business. A large amount of counterfeit Government and private bank notes were found in their possession.

Trades' Assembly of Philadelphia was held, to hear the report of the committee appointed to wait upon Messrs. Morton McMichael and Daniel M. Fox, the candidates for the Mayoralty of this city, to ascertain their views upon the Eight-hour question. Letters were read from both the gentlemen. Mr. McMichael denies ever having heard of the paragraph published in the circular, it having appeared in the local columns of his paper, or of the conversation which is reported as having occurred between the committee from the moulders and the parties in the front office. He certainly never was called upon, personally, in regard to the matter, or he would have made the desired correction, if convinced the item was wrong. was wrong.

He stated that he has always been in favor of organizations among working men for their protection. He also stated that he felt sure that his conduct for the last thirty years had been such as would warrant any person to be-lieve he was the workingman's friend. He complained of the course pursued by the moulders in not calling upon him to have the correction made. In the name of the patriotic Union party, he protests against this most ex-traordinary and unwarranted attack which has been made upon it; and in behalf of the working men of all parties, against this per-version of organizations intended for wise and beneficent purposes to mischievous parti-san agencies.

Mr. Fox writes at length in direct advocacy of the eight-hour system, in that it will lafford the workingman more time to become acquainted with the questions of the day, and for healthful recreation, and says that whether in a public position or in private life he shall ever be the warm and steadfast supporter of the interest of the workingmen generally. Anniversary Exercises.—The first anniversary of the Sunday-school organized at the Wagner Free Institute of Science, Seventeenth street, above Columbia avenue, took place on Saturday afternoon. The large lecture-room was densely filled with the scholars of the schools of the First Presbyterian, Calvary, Olivet, Tabor, North Broad-street, Mervine and Clinton-street Fresbyterian, and Wharton-street Methodist Episcopal churches. The meeting was called to order by Alexander Whildin, Esq. Heintroduced to the audience Mir. Cummings, who made interesting statements in reference to the new enterprise out of which had grown the Oxford-street mission.

In June, 1884, an application was made to Professor Wagner for the use of the large lecture-room for religious worship on Sundays. The request was promptly granted. Soon after the place was opened for religious services, and the Rev. Dr. Brainerd preached first sermon. Since them religious worship has been kept up weekly, the stand being supplied by ministers from different persuasions. A solicol was organized in this building, which now numbers 223 scholars and 19 teachers, and in view of the demand for a church in that neighborhood, the lot on the northeast corner of Broad and Oxford streets has been purchased, which is of sufficient dimensions to erect a large church edifice and a first-class chapel for Sunday-school and other purposes. The chapel will accommodate more than 500 adult persons or 600 children, and will be completed early in the coming year. During the afternoon a beautifully-locund Bible was presented to Professor Wagner by Rev. Dr. Addms from the Scholars. He made some eloquent allusions to the sacred volume.

Professor Wagner replied in an appropriate manner.

Addresses were made by J. T. Stites, Esq., and Father Martin, the great Sunday-school and vocate, and others, and the exercises were then closed with singing and the benediction from the Rev. Mr. Calkins, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian Church.

J. W. Forney, Esq., Publisher of The Press:
DEAR SIR: Last evening I had the good fortune to be present at Sansom-street Hall, and was enabled to witness the ceremony of the presentation of banners to the Grand Council of the State of Pennsylvania, and Unity Lodge of Philadelphia, Grand United Order of O. F., by the ladies of the Lincoln Association. The banners were of the most exquisite workmanship, and cost seven hundred and fifty collars. The presentation speech was made by Mr. D. C. McGuin. The reception speech, by Mr. Charles Jones, was replete with excellent sentiments, eloquence and grace.

An address was made by Colonel Philip S. White. The Colonel took decided ground in favor of the equal political rights of all men, without distinction of color. His remarks were well received, and heartily cheered.

The following letters were received, from Hon. William D. Kelley and Hon. James M.

Scovel, and read to the meeting by Mr. Chas. B. Colly:

Scovel, and read to the meeting by Mr. Chas. B. Colly:

A. McKinney, Eeg., P. G. Master, &c.:
DEAR SIR: Absence from home has prevented an earlier answer to your flattering letter of the 20th instant. I most heartily approve of the object of the presentation of banners by the Lincoln Association of Ladies of Philadelphia.

I have promised to speak elsewhere on the 23th, the evening you name, but should there be any difficulty in your procuring speakers I will endeavor to be excused from my engagement already made, so that I may be with you.

The object to which you will apply the funds you raise—a timely provision for those whom our brave behind them, appeals strongly to my heart. As one of our own poets has beautifully said:

"For every star in the field of bine, Ten thousand of the brave and true Haye laid them down and died."

I believe in honoring everywhere, that flag which

Have laid them down and died."

I believe in honoring everywhere that flag which our sons and brothers have, through four years of a terrible war, made the emblem of maionality and liberty and power revered at home and respected abrond.

Thanking you most cordially, and through you thanking you most cordially, and through you have you. I am, very since rely, yours.

JAMES M. SCOVEL.

PHILADELPHIA, SOPE 25, 1895.

GENTLEMEN: I unfortunately mislaid a contraous nete inviting me to be present at the flag presentation at Sansom-street Hall, on the eyening of the 28th, and am unable to remember the name by which it was signed.

I regret that I cannot be present. I am under a series of engagements ospeak in the northwestern counties of our State, and will be in Eric on the 28th. Yours, very buly, W.M. D. Kelley.

Messrs. McKinney, Bustill, &c., Committee, James McClummell, Grand Master G. U. O. of O. F., presided with much dignity and ability. Abraham McKinney, Past Grand Master, chairman of the committee of arrangements, ably and efficiently performed the labors assigned to his position.

Much credit attaches to him for the zeal he has shown in having the banners completed in time for the display I was permitted to witness, as well as the happy manner of providing everything desirable for comfort and pleasure upon the oceasion.

The refreshment tables were loaded with choice fruits, cake, confections, ice cream, &c. The artist, Mr. D. B. Mr. R. succeeded in producing master pieces from the cest designs in the highest style of art. Mr. is a colored man of line qualities and high attainments.

Boyers' Brass Band was in attendance during the entire evening, and performed several fine pieces.

These banners are to be carried in procession at Baltimore, on Friday, the 6th of October, upon the occasion of the great demonstration of the G. U. O. of O. F., in that city. The corner-stone for a magnificent hall will be laid in Baltimore at that time. The Governor of Maryland and Mayor of Baltimore will aid in the Economy in Fuel. The people of Philadelphia have from time to time heard a great deal about the advantage of using gas-consuming stoves. There can, of course, be no question as to the validity of this claim in cases where the stove really possesses the gas-consuming quality. There is such a stove in Philadelphia, that really merits the name, the inventor and manufac urer of which is Mr. J. S. Clark, No. 1008 Market street. After twenty years' of experienc in the Stoye, Heater and Range business, during which Mr. Clark has sedulously studied the wants of the community, he has succeeded in giving to the world a stove which as nearly approximates perfection as it is possible for any human invention to do. Mr. Clark's genius as a practical mechanic, long experience in business and well-known disposition to please his patrons and save their money, are all strikingly combined in the stove under consideration, and we could ask no greate good upon the public at large than that every family in the land was supplied with one of Descending from generalities, however, we A HEAVY TERM.—During the August term of the Court of Quarter Sessions, which closed on Saturday last, Judge Ludlow tried 352 cases, some of them of great importance and intricacy. The labors of a judge in the Court of Quarter Sessions are very arduous, and when we remember that in addition thereto, he has the business of the Court of Common Pleas and Orphans' Court to attend to, it may be imagined that the position is by no means a sinecure.

A HEAVY TERM.—During the August as a state, that there are not less than seven distinctive points of merit combined in this stoye, which may well challenge the world for competition. They are the following:

Ist. Their comony of fuel. This in itself, at the present high price of coal, is a splendid recommendation. One ton of coal has been known to keep this stove in full blast for six months, and one ton and a half is all that it may state, that there are not less than seven ths, and one ton and a half is all that it requires during the six months, including the inter season! This claim has been established by actual experiment, and hundreds of the most respectable witnesses who have tried them are willing to attest its truth. 2d. For Baking and Roasting they are un-3d. They boil more quickly than any other

4th. For keeping fire all night they have no equal.

5th. The ashes and clinkers can be removed from them without the inconvenience of in-serting the hands.

6th. Their extraordinary durability.

7th. The fire in them is under such adn control—the draft being perfectly air-tight—that any desired temperature can be secured and maintained for a given length of time with the utmost ease. The results of this arrangement, in all the various culinary processes, are much more satisfactory, and the quantity of fuel consumed infinitely smaller, than can be said of any other stove extant. Although they are sold and guarantied there has never been a single instance in which they have given practical dissatisfaction. This, considering the fact that Mr. Clark can show on his books, as references, the names of about two thousand purchasers, is a remarkable record for even so good a thing as an inimitable cord for even so good a thing as an inimitable gas-burning, fuel-saving Stove. We have designedly employed the word inimitable from the fact that all the attempts which have been made by unprincipled dealers to imitate this wonderful Stove have been wretched abortions, much better calculated to enhance the fame of Mr. Clark's article than to enrich their

We would merely state in conclusion that this stove of Mr. Clark's is exactly suited to the wants of all housekeepers; the rich because it is a first-rate article, and the poor because it is a great economizer of fuel. It will readily be seen that every stove of this characteristics of the control of th racter sold becomes a standing advertisement.
It has now been in use four-years, during which it has attained an enormous sale. These facts have doubtless stimulated the cupidity of certain dealers above referred to, who have serried their imitations, as the phrase goes, a far as the law allows. These men have, how ever, unwittingly paid the Clark stove a high compliment, as it would be folly to attempt to counterfeit any other but a first rate article. In view of all this, our advice to buyers of stoves s. to select the genuine Clark Gas Burner. You will get value for your money, and will pa tronize his establishment forever after. MULTUM IN PARVO.-If any of our readers will take the trouble, and be at the expense of purchasing one of each of the best Sewing Machines extant, omitting the "Wheeler & Wilwhen they will find by experiment that the Wheeler & Wilson Machine alone combines in it every desirable quality that is contained in all the rest. Hence their enormous sale, 200,000 or these instruments having already been sold, of which over 7,000 are now in use in this city ninistering to the happiness of as many
