MONDAY, OCTOBER 9. 1865. A GOOD SPEECH BY GRANT, SENIOR. Lieutenant General GRANT, although one of the foremost warriors of the world, candidly declares that he cannot make a speech, too. A few days since, General GRANT The appeal of the old father of General GRANT may be read and obeyed with profit in Pennsylvania, especially by those who recollect that Colonel Davis, the Democratic candidate for Auditor General of this State, declared only a few days ago that the great battles that ended the rebellion and saved the republic "were only so much blood shed unnecessarily." Public Amusements. ABCH-STREET THEATRE.-Our cotemporary, the Sunday Dispatch, in its theatrical column, yesterday, finds fault with Mrs. F. W. Lander, for her complete self-possession on the stage. That which is most pleasing to the audience, seems greatly to displease the Dispatch. It is useless, however, to tell our readers what the Dispatch thinks on theatrical subjects, as the unwarranted and senseless assaults upon Edwin Forrest have earned for it rather an unenviable reputation in that line. Friday and Saturday [evenings "Masks and Faces" was produced at this theatre. Mrs. Lander as Peg Woffington cold not, we think, be surpassed. Her whole soul was thrown into the play, and we saw not Mrs. Lander, but Peg Woffington. we saw not Mrs. Lander, but Pey Wojington.
Miss E. Price, as Mrs. Vane, was also good.
Mr. Rankin, as Sir Charles Pomander, deserves praise. But the great features of the play (after the star, of course,) were Mr. Owen Marlowe as Colley Cibber, and Mr. F. F. Mackay as Lysimacus Triplet. The "thrilling drama;"
of the "Smuggler's Retreat" concluded the evening's entertainment. The "Smuggler's evening's entertainment. The "Smuggler's Retreat" is a wonderful play; we do not wonder that it is called thrilling. It is, however, rather out of place at the Arch, and would appear to much better advantage at the Bowery, New York. Our comic friend, Stuart Robson, was, however, very fine, and to him this "thrilling drama" owes much. This evening Mrs. Lander appears as Joan D'Arc, in the play of that name. Monday evening, October 16th, NEW CHESTNUT-STREET THEATRE.-After much preparation, the dramatic romance from Alexander Dumas' work, Monte Cristo, will this evening be produced. M'me. Theresa Wood, danseuse, and Mr. George Smith, ballet master, have been engaged. The services of a new corps de ballet have also been secured. The play is cast to the full extent of the large com-pany of the Chestnut, and, from present appearances, will be put upon the stage in a firstclass manner.
WALNUT-STREET THEATRE.—Mrs. D. P. Bowers this week begins the fifth week of a very successful engagement at this theatre. This lady having well succeeded in her impersonating the street of the stree lady having well succeeded in her impersona-tion of Leah, the drama will, by special re-quest, be reproduced this evening. The come-dietta of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," with Miss Germon in the cast, is the afterpiece, To-morrow evening "East Lynne." THE AMERICAN THEATHE.—The new drama, "Philadelphia by Gas Light," which was eve. tre, is a cut-ly sitting through an hour of the performance of this play, we must confess that we were un-able to tell or even imagine what it was all about. The acting though, by-the-by, was quite fair throughout, and Miss Fisher can change her costume very quickly. Mr. Hemple though is the life of the play. Without him it would be intolerable. "Philadelphia by EXTENSINE AND VERY ATTRACTIVE SALE OF FRENCH AND SAXONY DRESS GOODS, &C., THIS DAY.—We call especial attention to the unusually large and attractive sale of French and Saxony dry goods, &c., embracing 1,000 lots of staple and fancy articles, including 2,000 pieces dress goods, of recent importations; 350 pieces black and fancy silks, of all grades; 60 pieces velvets and bonnet satins; 300 pieces white goods; 300 pieces French shirting and opera goods; 300 pieces French shirting and opera flannels; 1,500 dozen Paris gloves and gauntlets; 250 cartons bonnet and velvet ribbons and trimmings; 30 cases gingham umbrellasand trimmings; 30 eases ginglain uniotenes.

The steel and spring works of the Messrs, Rowland, and their rolling mills also, are in full work, night and day, while the numerous cotton mills, dye-works, foundries, machine-works, etc., have all the labor their hands can perform. In Bridesburg, the rifle factory formerly under the superintendence of Mr. H. Jenks, has been transferred to a joint stock company, who will engage themselves in the manufacture of cotton looms. A large pistol factory, owned by the Cooper Manufacturing Company, is engaged in the manufacture of the gun which the rebels supposed, from the rapidity of its firing, "ground out" shot. The natural result of this manufacturing prosperity is that building operations in the manient village" are numerous and extensive. Some very fine stores and dwellings are in course of crection on the main street, adding to its attractiveness. The following extended from his remarks gives satisfactory evidence that General Grant does not inherit the disability under which he lainherit the disability under which he labors:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to look so many of my old friends in the face again, and have the privilege of saying farewell, for I never expect to see you again.

"We have just passed through a severe conflict—a gigantic rebellion, a cruel, bloody, savage and wicked civil war—a war that is a disgrace to civilization. But how did you get out. When the country was assailed by rebels, its flag fired upon, your friends set forth; they sacrificed the comforts of domestic life, the happiness of their firesides; they put on the army blue, took the death-dealing musket, and slung knapsack and blanket, and wart forth determined to crush the rebels and put down rebellion. They did put them down, crushed the rebellion and subdued the traitors to the Union, and now they are on their marrow-bones seeking pardon, and your friends have returned home to your hearths and hearts.

"Now there is a great duty resident to work, and many served that we bone seeking pardon, and your friends have returned home to your hearths and hearts.

"Now there is a great duty resident pardon, and now they are on their marrow-ble Copperhead faction. It is said we have conquered a peace. This is true; it is not a petty, patched-up Copperhead-bemocratic Brown country, not vo allow this old Copperhead, Lacompton faction to be galvanized into life, on the pretense that it is the only party that can save the country. I don't know how they that can save the country. I don't know how that could be, unless on the principle that the hair of the dog is good for the bite."

The appeal of the old father of General Conversed to the configuration soared majestically high in the hair of the dog is good for the bite."

The appeal of the old father of General Converse had a huge cloud against the blue. ed by insurance, some of the parties being ful-ly insured and others but partially so. are unable to give the name of this gallant man.

The conflagration, as we viewed it, was indescribably grand. Over the entire Delaware front of the city hung a cloud of dense smoke, like a sable pall, creating great excitement, and causing the wildest speculations from those who were in the upper districts. In the lower part of the city, the excitement was intense. Nearly the entire population were on the ground to witness the sight, one of the ground to witness the sight, one of the grandest ever vouchsafed to the citizens of Philadelphia. Those who witnessed the great if the in this city fifteen years ago can readily form an idea of the grandeur and sublimity of the scene. The tongues of flame, as they mounted towards the sky, resembled the fires of a volcano, while the yast cloud of minutely-divided carbon soared majestically high in the air, and was then wafted by the gentle suthwestern breeze towards the northeast, and remained a huge cloud against the blue empyrean.

The firemen were early on hand, but they and remained a huge cloud against the blue empyrean. The firemen were early on hand, but they could do little other than to prevent the flames from spreading to the surrounding property. To throw water upon the roaring flames would have been but adding fuel to the fire. The blazing oil would only have floated on the surface of the water, and then carried to spread devastation and destruction elsewhere.

It was a magnificent sight to watch the explosion of the barrels of coal oil. An explosion would be heard, and at the same time there would be seen a mighty burst of fire, and then the flames would roar more flercely than before. To attempt to extinguish it would have been fruitless. All that could be done was to keep the fire confined to its original limits and let it burn itself out, and so when there was no more fuel the flames were stayed. This fire, though not so destructive to property as that of last winter, and not fatal to life like that was, will long be remembered by the people of our city. THE INCREASE OF THE MINISTRY—INTERESTING SERVICES AT ST. MARK'S CHURCH—
Last evening the Protestant Episcopal Church
Of St. Mark's was filled with a large audionce, to witness the services consequent upon the celebration of the third triennial anniversary of the "Society of the Increase of the Ministry," under the charge of the Protestant Episcopal denomination.

Bishop Kemper presided, assisted by Bishops Chase and Taibot. Evening prayers were read by the Rev. Mr. Rundy and the Rev. Mr. Gillette, of Texas. The report of the society was read by the secretary, Rev. A. B. Goodrich.

The income of the society during the past year was $15,000, and for the past three years $34,283. Obligations for the coming year have already been assumed to the amount of about $12,000, and to meet the legitimate demand upon the treasury at least $20,000 will be needed. The work of the society is going bravely on, and it is steadily increasing its scope. Its object is not so much to increase the numbers of the ministry as to add to it well-qualified persons, thus increasing its efficiency.

After the report was read eloquent addresses were delivered by Rev. Bishop Talbot, Rov.
Mr. Martin, of Indiana, and the Rev. Mr. Gillette.

Mr. Martin, of Indiana, and the Rev. Mr. Gillette.

The society, which has for its object the increasing of the ministry of the Episcopal Church by the education of suitable young men for that purpose who need aid in their preparation, was organized in 1859. The number of scholars who have been aided during the last three years is 143, and since the organization of the society 208, of which thirteen were assisted from the "sons of the clergy" fund, and the remainder from the general fund. These scholars were gathered from nearly all the dioceses of the Church. The number of these who have been ordained is 77.

The music from the organ was of the highest order. Selections from the Psalms were sung antiphonally by the choirs, standing near the chancel, with excellent effect. At the close of the services a very beautiful and appropriate anthem was performed.

This evening the music will be repeated, and services will be held, when addresses may be expected from Bishop A. C. Coxe, of Western New York, and Bishop McCoskry, of Michigan, Rev. Drs. Littlejohn, Mahan, Craik, and Clarkson will also deliver short addresses. y having well succeeded in mer impersonal of Leach, the drama will, by special resets be reproduced this evening. The comesta of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," with as Germon in the cast, is the afterpiece. To crow evening "Bast Lynne."

Lewis Foster, 22 years of age, who resides in Fourth street, between South and Shippen, was knocked down and run over by the Marion Hose, yesterday afternoon, while the apparatus was being taken to the scene of the conflagration. He sustained a fracture of three ribs on the left side.

James McGreery, forty-onel years old, but lately arrived from Fort Wayne, where he resides, was arrested for some misdemeanor yesterday morning, and lodged in the station-house. While in the cell he endeavored to commit suicide, by stabling himself in the neck and arm. He bled profusely, but no harm is apprehended from the injuries.

Thomas Kennedy, employed in Sellers' foundry, willow street, near Sixteenth, had his right leg broken, on Saturday, by a piece of iron falling upon it.

Vincent Hope, aged eight years, had his right thigh broken, on Saturday afternoon, by being run over by a hay wagon, in Front street, near Combs' alley.

All of the above persons were conveyed to the hospital. A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS .- Several ac All of the above persons were conveyed to the hospital.

A STRANGE SCENE.—Yesterday afternoon being called by business to the lower part of the city, we, on our return, passed through the "five points" of Philadelphia—Trout street. Here a strange scene was presented; not strange in itself, but strange because it was enacted there. A preacher stood upon the steps of a shaky negro hut, and was exhorting a motley assembly to repent. The deprayed, diseased, and disfigured woman here stood side by side with the well-dressed pickpocket; and even while the man told them of the soul's danger, a poor creature staggered before him on her way to a neighboring rum-shop, there to replenish the emptied bottle which she carried. The voice of the speaker attracted strangers to the spot, and one could tell by their appearance and surprised looks that it was their first visit to such a place. Such, reader, is but a faint glimpse of the misery and sin which exists in our city.

There is no good and substantial reason we think for the steady advance in the price of that most indispensable article of domestic use, and it can only now take place because the combination among the dealers is so strong that it overpowers the community at large. If the advance is to go on daily, counter combinations will spring up among the miners, who betieve that they should of right share in the present unexampled profits of the coal trade. The sympathies of the public will doubtless go with the miners, in their struggle against the coal capitalists, if the latter push their schemes beyond endurance. rance.
The stock market was very dull on Saturday, and prices generally lower. Government 1881's were steady at 107%; 5-20s at 102½, and the August 7-30s at 59¾. The speculative stocks were drooping. Reading declined ½, closing at 58; North Pennsylvania Railroad sold at a decline of ¾. Bank, passenger railroad and coal and oil stocks were inactive. The beauty diverse in the market is gaining a victory. Peace After War.—We yesterady afternoon saw six soldiers, each one upon crutches. The were going two-by-two, and still remembering the military drill, kept time upon the pavement with their crutches, as they went their way. Three had but one leg apiece and the others were badly wounded. Yet these brave fellows, who had been so maimed in the efforts to crush the late causeless rebellion, were not in the least downhearted, but laughed and chatted as they went on. What do we not owe such men as these? railroad and coal and of stocks were mattree. The bear influence in the market is gaining a victory. Messrs. Jay Coefe & Co., No. 305 Chestnut street, announce that they are prepared to make the conversion into the new 5-20s for holders of certificates and treasury notes without charge. They will also furnish bonds in any amount, at the best market rates.
The following correspondence will be found of in-SERIOUS BURNING.—About three o'clock on Saturday afternoon Ellen McMenamin, aged thirty-five years, was seriously burned at 1536 Pine street. Her clothing eaught fire from a kitchen range. She was taken to her home, 767 South Seventh street.

ATROCIOUS MURDER AND ROBBERY—
ESCAPE OF THE ASSASSINS.—Early on Saturday morning, the community were startled by a report that a most brutal and atrocious murder had been committed at the dental depot of Samuel S. White, in Arch street, below sixth. It appears that between six and seven o'clock in the morning in question, the body of James Needs, the colored porter employed at the establishment, was found behind the counter with such cuts and bruisses upon the had, been committed that a fine and crown out the had, been committed that a fine and crown out the had, been committed by the side of the corpse was found a hambit which the deed had been committed. His hands were bloody, as if there had been a struggle between himself and his murderers. A stelle of wood, also bloody, and a handkerchief, also crimsoned with the vital stud, were found near by, which, it is believed, had been used as a gag, as the front teeth of the dead man were forced in and some broken off. The lips were also badly cut.

But this was not all. The doors of the fire-proof were found open, and papers and letters were found scattered in profusion over the floor. The murderers had committed a toberty, besides taking life. THE CONFIDENCE GANE—AN OLD GENTLEMAN SWINDLED OUT OF $1,750.

An old gentleman stopping at the Continental Hotel, was swindled out of $1,750 on Friday evening. It was the old story. A conversation with a man who professed to be in the employ of somehody the old gentleman had dealings with, the presentation of a bill by a third party, who could not be put off, and the borrowing of the money for a few minutes, until it could be obtained from the eashler at the counter. The sum required to settle the bill was $1,500, and when that was handed over the sharper said that he might as well have $250 more, and the additional amount was given. The old gentleman in very few minutes afterwards realized the fact that he had been victimized.
