NEW COUNTERFEITS .- Counterfeit fives on the Suffolk Bank, New Jersey, and twos on the Union Bank of Delaware, are in circulation. It will be better to refuse all notes of these denominations on the banks named, as the counterfeits are pretty well calculated to deceive. A counterfeit five dollar note, on the Charten (lak Bank, of Hartford, Conn., and a ten dollar, note, on the Citizens' Bank, of Worcester, Mass.. were placed in circulation in Philadelphia a few days ago. Both notes are good imitations of the genuine.

PETERSON'S COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR for January, describes 47 new counterfeit notes, issued since the first of last December. No business man is safe without one of these Detectors. It costs but one dollar per year, monthly, or two dollars, semi-monthly. Among the spurious notes is a $3 note on the Bank of Penn township. This Bank has never issued any $3 bills. Keep a sharp lookout for 10s, on the Farmers' Bank of Bucks county, at Bristol. "Bucks County" is very irregular. On the lower left, two Indians are kneeling. $2s and 3s on the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Philadelphia. This Bank does not issue any notes under $5.

Moving on the Enemy's Works .- Last winter it was publicly declared by military men in Washington that success would always follow the army that "moved upon the enemy's works." General McClellan's plan, when he got in front of strong intrenchments of the enemy, was to use the spade a little, for the purpose of more effectually using his rifled cannon. Moving on the enemy's works was, however, the more fashionable idea. But since Burnside moved upon the defences of Fredericksburg and Sherman on the fortifications of Vicksburg, most of the people think that after all the spade is not a bad implement of war.

THE WEST VIRGINIA BILL SIGNED .- After all that was said to the contrary, the President has overcome his constitutional scruples, and signed the bill admitting West Virginia into the Union. The reasons he is said to have given are as follows. They are characteristic, and would be amusing, if the matter were not too serious to be made a "Springfield joke:"

1. That it was the correct policy of the Administration to secure as much free territory as possible, and with as little trouble.

2. That as the Wheeling Legislature had been recognized by Congress as the Legislature of the State of Virginia, that body had the authority to adopt measures looking to the division of the State; that the responsibility did not lie with those who voted for the measure, more than with those who did not vote against it, viz: the inhabitants of the eastern section of the State. 3. And the principal reason, that he was bound

NEW AND IMPORTANT FINANCIAL MEASURE. The following is a synopsis of a very important bill introduced into the lower House of Congress a few days ago, by a majority of the Committee of Ways and Means: The first section provides for the issue of $900,000,000 twenty years 6 per cent. bonds, the interest payable half yearly in coin, which may be sold for lawful money. No further issue to be made under this section except $140,000,000 Treasury notes redeemable in 20 year bonds.

The second section provides for the issue of $$200,000,000 5.47\frac{1}{2}$ Treasury notes payable in three years'.

The third section provides for the issue $300,000,000 legal tender notes, in fractional parts of the dollar, to take the place of the postage currency, and a tax of 1 per cent. on bank currency, to be made on a graduated scale.

Flag-Ship "Westfield" Blown Up.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. The steamer Creole arrived to-night, from New Orleans, with dates to the 3d inst. She was de-tained by Gen. Banks to bring despatches for

Gen. Halleck.

She passed several gun-boats bound up the river, and the transport Merrimac, with troops, at he Southwest Pass. Also the gun-boat Kensing-

Purser Cook, of the Creole, reports, by the Pass, on the evening of the 3d:—"I learn that early on the morning of the 1st inst. the Rebels made an attack by land and water on the Federal forces at Galveston. Our gun boats were attack ed by five Rebel steamers, protected by double rows of bales of cotton and loaded with troops armed with rifles, muskets, etc.

The Harriet Lane was captured by boarding, the time of the fight. Our loss is estimated at 150 to 160 killed, and 200 prisoners, the navy suffering most.

It is thought the Rebel loss is much more than our own, as our guns were firing grape and can-ister continually in their midst.

The Rebels had several batteries ashore.

THE ATTACK ON VICKSBURG.

Gen. Sherman's Repulse Confirmed.

Carro, Jan. 11, 1863. CARO, Jan. 11, 1863.

An arrival to night from the Yazoo brings authentic accounts from Vicksburg. Gen. Sherman's repulse was complete. The entire force, under the direction of Gen. McClernand, re-embarked on Saturday on transports, closely pressed by the Rebel advance, which coming in range of the gundoats, were driven back with severe loss. At the last accounts the entire fleet of transports had arrived at Island No. 82, on the way to Napoleon. way to Napuleon.

There is nothing definite from Banks or Farragut, though rumors of their advance are in ragut, though rumors of their advance are in circulation. The engagement was less general than heretofore reported. The principal fight-ing was done by the center, under command of Generals Smith and Bluir. The conduct of the latter is highly spoken of. Our loss, as near as could be ascertained, was 600 killed, 1,500 wounded, and 1.000 missing.

wounded, and 1,000 missing.

Capt. Moore, with about 100 men, attacked a camp of 800 Rebels at Huntson's Mills, 35 miles cast of Fort Pillow on the morning of the 8th.

The Rebels were completely surprised. Sixteen Rebels were killed and forty-six taken prisoners. Fifty horses and a lot of small arms were captured. Two Unionists were wounded. The expedition was absent from Fort Ely about twenty-seven hours.

Sketch of the History of Medicine, and Reasons for Liberal Opinions. If one would look for that department of intellectual labor where the highest reasons prevail, for liberal opinion: mutual charity, he would find it in the department of licine, or among professors of the healing art. It lied be difficult to find any occupation or employment bere mind has made bolder dashes in speculation, or has a so often baffied in experiment. And it is for this very son that systems of medicine have been established and riturned with astonishing and unreleating avidity, for a that two thousand years. Systems, reformatory in ga, each succeeding one now running parallel in some is a, and now in direct opposition in all points, with the seedent one, till the last trace of antiquity, save in rulation, has become obliterated; and the reflecting at must be convinced, that the sum of human 'wisdom ar was, is not now, nor ever can be, concentrated in any system of medicine.

When Medicine had broken from its mysterious prisonhouses of Egypt and Greece, where it had been for centurie in the exclusive custody of the priests, and by them en- To Nervous Sufferers of Both Sexes. veloped in impenerable and sacred mystery; it soon be-came the property of institutions of learing, and was there taught to the disciples of their founders. Among the earliest founders of schools of Medicine, was Hippocrates, in the fifth century before Christ. From the paine taking and indefatigable character of the man, his education and his opportunities, it may easily be gathered, that his school embraced all the wisdom of the age in which he lived; and both entitles the founder himself, to the reverence of the Antiquary, and his doctrines to the respect of the modern disciple of medicine. And it is worthy of note, in passing, that Hippocrates was essentially a Homeopathist. Both in theory and practice, almost an exact prototype of the present Homeopathic system of medicine. I will mention one or two particulars. He dealt in regetable medicaments only. He enjoined the most rigid distotic discipline upon his patients; he carefully studied symptoms, investigated ancestral disorders, and the probability of the inheritance of every disease. He closely watched Nature, and care fully observed her mode of cure, and aimed at imitating her in his practice. He visited all the most celebrated schools of Athens, Thrace, Thessaly, &c., and there saw and heard and digested all that was to be seen, heard and digested, that could serve him in the practice of healing. He gave very little medicine, choosing often to rely on the careful regimen of the patient, his food, air, clothing, exercise, sleeping and general social habits rather than on me-dicine, for a cure. Finally he sought after openific reque-dies, which forms the sine quantum of the Homeopathist's system. The system of Hippocrates was distinguished noreover, by its exclusion of all mere speculat on, and its close adherence to experience and observation.

But two centuries later, saw the splendid scheme of the "Father of Medicine," dishowered and forgotten! It had become blended with the Platonic speculations, to such a degree, that by the time it reached the schools of Alexaniria, 300 it. C., it had degenerated into a system of merspeculation; and apon its rules there arese numerous anti-thetical schools and systems of medicine; among which were the schools called the Methodic, the Empiric, the Eclectic, the Hydropathic and others, extending down to the latter part of the first century of the Christian era. By this time the science of Medicine needed a reforme and a reformer was provided in Galen, who selected, arranged and systematized the whole scheme of medicine, and the result of whose labors was the Galenic system, so much deferred to by many of our day. Both Galen's system and a parallel one of the Arabs, existed with few modifications till the middle ages. But when the Greek litera-ture came to be revived, the students of medicine, having access to the writings of Hippocrates, soon revived many of his doctrines; and to this fact may be traced, in no nail measure, the downfall of the Galenic system, and he establishment of that of Parageleus in the 16th century.

It is worthy of note here, that in all the learning of all ne schools and systems of medicine that had prevailed for more than two thousand years prior to the 16th century, the circulation of the blood was not dream tof. Hence wo find practitioners of those schools so unscrupulous in the depletion of their patients. Notice, for illustration, a few of the celebrated Bleeders! Hippogrates rarely employed this remedy, as he referred those cures for which other resorted to it, to Nature; (another evidence of his Homeo pathic tendencies). But bleeding had got the run, and bleeding was to have its day, and so it continued the prevailing idea, often reducing the patients to utter helplessof the Rebels before they surrendered.

Repulse of the Rebels from SpringColsus, Aretaeus and Galen. This latter Philosopher believed the true cause of many diseases, to be a redundancy of blood! Mind you, he knew nothing of the circulation of the blood nor of its functions! Whence he derived the ides of the redundancy of this vital fluid, it is difficult to imagine. But bleeding agained no study of symptoms; no regimen, no thought, no intellectual toil, nothing but Ludlow, McCulloch, McManus, Magee, Myers, I M. He turned the command over to me. The 1 of Surgeons and Barbers, where it has remained to this Pott- | foe withdrew to a safe distance, under cover of day. So that, what might be most reasonably expected. i the fact, that, since the discovery of the circulation of the blood by Harvey, in 1615—48 functions have been much investigated and its precious character better understood and hence bleeding as a common remedial agent, is quite discarded by all intelligent physicians. But my article will be too long. I will follow it with another.

INGREASE OF RATS—The Flurmers' Gazette (English) asserts and proves by figures that one pair of rats will have a progeny and descendents amounting to no less than 551,000 in three years. Now, unless this immense family can be kept down, they would then consume more food than would sustain 65,00 human beings. It will be far wiser in the farher to turn his attention to the destruction of rats than of small birds.

(Certainty it will. Whoover engages in shooting small birds is a creel man; whoever aids in externinating rats is a benefactor. We should like some of our correspondents to give us the benefat of their experience in accessfully driving out these pests. We need something hesited dogs, exts, and traps for this business.—Etc. dogs, cats, and traps for the summer of the words.

We can give our experience in a very few words.

"Costant's" Rat Externitiator is the simplest, safest, cheapest and curest remedy; the most perfect RAT-incation meeting we have ever attended. Every Rat that can get it, properly prepared according to directions, will eat it, and every one that eats it will die, generally at some place as distant as possible from where the medicine was taken, as distant as passible from where the medicine was taken—Lake Shore [Mich.] Mirror. ...
