The plumpest fly; all, all unheeded, Were struggles, cries, and agony, As for his life the victim pleaded : "Nay," quoth the sparrow, "you must die, "For you are not so strong as I."

A hawk surprised him at his meal, And in a trice poor sparrow spitted; In vain he gasped his last appeal, "What crime, Sir Hawk, have I committed?" "Peace," quoth the captor, "you must die,

For you are not so strong as I." Down swooped an eagle who had spied, With grim delight, the state of matters; "Release me, king," the victim cried,

"You tear my very flesh to tatters!" "Nay," quoth the eagle, "you must die,

For you are not so strong as I." A bullet whistled at the word, And struck him ere his feast was ended;

"Ah, tyrant!" shricked the dying bird, "To murder him who ne'er offended." "Oh!" quoth the sportsman, "you must die For you are not so strong as I."

AN ANTI-COPPERHEAD-SCENE ON A RAILROAD TRAIN .- A curious scene, says the Cleveland Plaindealer, occurred on the cars of the Little Miami Railroad the other day. Some gentleman on the train, it seems, had a device cut out of one of the old-fashioned cents, representing very neatly the "Goddess of Liberty." A very pompous and burly fellow, with a flashy vest, and an inordinate display of jewelry, took great offence at the device, when the following confab ensued:

Pompous Chap-" What in hell are you wearing that copperhead emblem for ?" Gentleman-" Will you answer me a question first ?"

Pompous Chap-" Yes."

Gentleman-" Arn't you an army contractor ?" "Well, suppose I am."

"Arn't you an Abolitionist?"

"Yes, dyed in the wool." "Haven't you always sung, 'Let the South alide ?' "

"D-n em, they ought to have been in hell long ago." "Don't you now sneer all the time at the Con stitution of the United States?" "Constitution be d-d; this is no time to talk of constitutions." "Well," continued the gentleman, "do you ever wear any of these emblems?" pointing to the device.

"No, by G-d!" said the flashy contractor. "Then, sir," said the gentleman, "it is to distinguish myself from such arrant hypocrites, money leeches, and scoundrels as you, that I wear this."

The people in the car fairly roared, and the erest-fallen negro-worshipper and treasury pimp got up from his seat and went into another car. Served him right.
