OUR CANDIDATE.

As any thing relating to our candidate for Governor is of interest now, we republish, from a Philadelphia paper, printed in January, 1828, the following sketch of Judge Woodward, taken by a Harrisburg correspondent, who was giving a series of pen-and ink portraitures of the prominent members of the Reform Convention that was then in session, for the purpose of revising our State Constitution :

George W. Woodward, or Luzerne.—Mr. Woodward, of Luzerne, sits next to Mr. M'Cahen. d the observer will at once perceive, when he touches a subject, that a giant's grasp is upon it. His voice is clear and agreeable—his language plain but well chosen, and he possesses that rare faculty of knowing when to stop, and seldom says either too much or too little upon the theme in discussion. He is always listened be found in the fact that such men as Chauncey Hopkinson, Forward, &c., are generally found to overlook others in debate, to grapple with him. To a stranger, Mr. Woodward appears self-noised cold-hearted, and calculating, but in private life he is understood to be warm in his attachments, and probably from precarious health, is subject to great firetuation of spirits. He is gifted, however, with an unusual share of self-control. He is a lawyer. The political party to which he is attached has reason to be proud of such a member, and constitutional re-form has few sincerer or more powerful advo-

The promise that was then given by the young lawyer, has been well fulfilled in the upright and able jurist who now holds a seat upon our Supreme Bench. To have such a candidate, chosen without solicitation on his part, and without the aid of the intriguing that has, of late years too often disgraced the nominating conventions of both political parties, is an honor of which the Democracy of Pennsylvania may well be proud, because it augurs a return to the earlier and purer days, when office was conferred upon men for their merits, and not sought by them, through trickery and demagogism, for mercenary and selfish purposes.

A Monster Oak Tree .- On Thursday, the 6th of August, the employees of Messrs. George Heinly (Capt.) & Brother, under the surervision of Mr. Levi J. Smith, chief mill-wright, of Reading, felled a large and stately white-oak tree, which stood upon the lands of Mr. Wm. Wanner, near Kutztown. The proportions of and two inches in circumference one foot above have purchased twenty-five feet, commencing to measure three feet above the ground, which is to answer the purpose of a shaft to a waterwheel for their new Mill now in course of erec tion on the Saucony creek, in the township of Greenwich. The shaft is a solid and most excellent piece of wood of the above length, dressed sixteen cornered and measures in circomference eight feet. The men employed in felling this tree, and in dressing the shaft, who are well experienced and excellent workmen, my that the shaft is one of the noblest pieces of wood they were ever employed on. This tree stood so remarkably straight and well balanced, that in felling it, it remained for a few moments poised upon its stump, entirely sawn off, as if not knowing which way to fall, when a gentle breeze toppled it over, and the majestic monarch of the forest which had effectually defied and resisted the storms for more than two hundred and fifty years, fell crashing to the ground:

KENTUCKY.

The Abolition papers are claiming a victory for the Administration in the result of the election held in Kentucky on the 3d inst. They 'Union" and "Democratic"—a false issue, ev:dently; for among the candidates chosen on the Union ticket are several who, under the old division of parties, were Democrats. We do not clearly understand the points of difference between the two parties that were arrayed against each other in the late election; but, leaving out of question the fact that martial law prevailed in Kentucky when the election was held, with the avowed object of influencing its result, the accessful candidates are anything but Adminstrationists, in the sense we understand that term at the North. Their own declarations afford positive proof on this point. Take, for example, Judge BRANLETTE, the Governor elect. openly avowed his opposition to the emancipaion proclamation, to the confiscation acts, to the suspension of the habeas corpus, and to the arming of negro slaves, and said :- "The evils resulting from the acts of the Federal Administraion we desire to correct by the ballot box." And in a letter written a short time before the election, to correct a garbled report of one of his speeches, he said "the Union Democracy" of Kentucky condemned in the strongest terms all the radical measures of the war policy of the Administration, and were pledged to use all peaceful and legitimate means to correct them. He said he and his friends "hold that there is a marked difference between any administration of the government and the government itself. The one is transient-of short duration, and may be all wrong; the other was formed to endure forever, and is all right."

Again, the Louisville Journal, which supported Bramlette, but which has consistently opposed the whole Abelition policy of the Administration rom the start, indignantly denies that the result of the election is an Administration triumph, and says "there was not one journal in the State confiscation policy of the Administration, and which did not make this opposition known." The same paper further says that the platform upon which Mr. Bramlette was elected is the same that carried in Gov. Seymour, of New-York.

Brutus J. Clay, who is elected to Congress in the Ashland district, as Mr. Crittenden's successor, published a card to the voters of the district a few days before the election, in which the following passages occur:

. If elected I will vote for the necessary measures to carry on the war to the extent of the national power and resources. At the same time, I am opposed to the policy of the Administra-tion, as the abolition of slavery, and the enlisting of slaves as soldiers, and while in the State Legislature, I voted for the various resolutions which were passed, condemning those measures. which were passed, condemning those measures. But I do not regard revolution, or secession, or a submission to the rebellion, as the remedies for that avil policy, they being evils incomparably greater. The remedies are in the Union, and under the Constitution and laws, through the Legislatures and Judicial tribunals. Should the Union be restored, it would be for the Courts of the slave States to decide upon the legal effects of the President's proclamation of emancipation.

* * I should hail with joy any disposition manifested by the people of the rebellious States, or any of them, to return, in good faith, to their lawful allegiance, and in that event would support all measures to facilitate the resumption of all their rights and privileges under the Constiport all measures to facilitate the resumption of all their rights and privileges under the Constitution."

We might multiply proofs of this sort almost to an indefinite extent; but the above are sufficient to show that Kentucky, so far from having endorsed the Abolition policy of the Administration in the late election, has actually proclaimed against it, and re-affirmed the Democratic platform of "The Union as it was, under the Constitution as it is."

THE UNION.

The question now presented to the country, is the United States? Or whether, notwithstanding such submission, or offer to submit, war is to be waged against that State until it will consent, as condition of readmission into the Union, to abolish slavery? As this war has been waged to with the greatest attention, and the best evidence of the estimation in which he is held may upon the theory that the right of secession has no existence, and that the Southern States, although in rebellion, are still component parts of the Union, and bound by its authority, we hold to the opinion that any State, on ceasing to rebel, and declaring its submission to the Federal Constitution, is entitled, by that act, to resume its place in the Union, with all its rights unimpaired, and subject to all the duties that attach to the several States. To this, however, the Radicals will not consent, but insist that the States in rebellion have forfeited all their rights, and must not be received back into the Union except as conquered provinces, and upon such terms as the conquerors choose to dictate. In other words, hey are determined that the war shall be henceforth waged to exterminate Slavery-not to restore the Union.

The question, therefore, is plain and simpleall can understand it-re union on the basis of equality guaranteed by the Constitution, or an interminable war, in violation of the Constitution, for the abolition of slavery. The people must decide it at the ballot-box.

GEN. GRANT'S OFFICIAL REPORT.-The official report of General Grant, which has just appeared in the official Gazette at Washington, presents a fine account of the operations of the Army of the Tennessee, from the day that he assumed immediate command of the expedition against Vicksburg to the surrender of that place. Gen. Grant says that it is a striking feature, so far as his observation goes, of the present volunteer thistree were as follows :- Its length was nize y. army of the United States that there is nothing six feet, the first limbs were thirty-two feet which men are called upon to do, mechanical or above the ground, it measured sixteen feet professional, that accomplished adepts cannot be found for the duty required in almost every rethe ground. From this tree the Messrs. Heinly giment. In closing his report he utters an expression of thankfulness for his good fortune in the navy who accorded to every move that seemed for the interest and success of our arms his hearty and energetic support. Admiral Porter, he adds, and the efficient officers under him, have ever shown the greatest readiness in their concernion—no matter what was to be done or Robert J. Hemphill, Esq., of Philadelphia, ed for the interest and success of our arms his operation-no matter what was to be done or what risk to be taken, either by their men or their vessels.

> HON. HIESTER CLYMER has accepted as invitation to address the Democracy of Northampton county, at their annual Mass Meeting, to be held in Easton on Monday next. Mr. CLY-MER has many warm friends among the people of the "Old Tenth Legion," and they will doubtless give him a hearty welcome.

Another New State will soon come rapping at the door of the Union and demanding adission. On the 2d of September the people of Navada Territory will elect delegates to a Constitutional Convention, when the machinery for a at the call of the Chairman. State Government will be put in motion.

REBEL DESTITUTION.

The self imposed privations and enflerings which the rebels endure in their desperate struggle to destroy the Union, are almost incredible designate the two tickets that were run as to us, of the North, who, except in the destruction of the lives of relatives and friends, have, Vicksburg, for example, they must have been reduced to the last extremity of destitution before they surrendered to General Grant, and lived for weeks upon food that the meanest pauper would reject. As an evidence of this, we have now before us-through the kindness of Capt. Frank. P. Muhlenberg, of the 13th U. S. Infantry, now attached to Gen. W. T. Sherman's Army corps-a copy of the Vicksburg Daily Citizen, J. M. Swords, (un appropriate name) proprietor, printed upon a small piece of wall paper two days before the capitulation. Among its editorial paragraphs, is one, acknowledging What is his platform? Certainly not that of an the receipt, from Major Gillespie, of "a steak of Abolitionist; for, during the whole canvass, he | Confederate beef, alias mule meat "-one describing a dinner upon a "defunct Tom-cat," whose "meat was delicious" says the editorone complimenting a generous citizen, Mr. F. Kiser, "for relieving the wants of many families" by doling out to them a small quantity of corn which he happened to have, over and above his own wants-and another, bitterly denouncing "the extortioners who are selling flour at $5 per lb., molasses at $10 per gallon, and corn at $10 per bushel." The appearance of the paper itself, proves the strait to which the people of that city must have been reduced, for it is the poorest apology for a newspaper that can be imagined. The copy sent us appears to be a "second edition," for, under date of July 2, we find a boastful and defiant squib fired at Gen. Grant, and in a far-off corner, dated July 4th, another short editorial, in quite a different tone—a change of editorship having evidently taken place during the interim. We annex both items, as a literary curiosity that may afford entertainment to our readers : On Dir. - That the great Ulysses - the Yankee Generalissimo, surnamed Grant—has expressed his intention of dining in Vicksburg on Saturday and says "there was not one journal in the State which supported the successful State and Congressional ticket, which is not opposed to, and which does not oppose, the emancipation and something the said, "No! for fear there which does not oppose, the emancipation and support the said, "No! for fear there which does not oppose, the emancipation and support the said of the sai get into the city before he dines in it. The w to cook a rabbit is "first to catch the rabbit."

NOTE.

July 4th, 1863. Two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. Gen. Grant has "caught the rabbit;" he has dined in Vicksburg and he did bring his dinner with him The "Citizen" lives to see it. For the last timit appears on "Wall paper." No more will i culogize the luxury of mule meat and fricaseed kitten—urge Southern warriors to such diet nev-er more. This is the last wall-paper edition, and is, excepting this note, from the types as we found them. It will be valuable hereafter as a ouriosity.

"THE BOOK OF DAYS."-We have received, through Messrs. Strickland & Brother, Parts XV and XVI of this truly entertaining and instructive Miscellany of Popular Antiquities, which is in course of simultaneous publication by the Messrs. Chambers, of Edinburgh, and J. B. Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia. They bring the work down to the month of August, and consequently near its completion. Among other things, we find in Part XVI an interesting biography of William Penn, the founder of our State. This work is well named "The Book of Days," for it contains something in connection with every day in the calendar, and may be taken up at any leisure day or hour with the certainty of any leisure day or hour with the certainty of and interest on Weidan and Interest on Weida affording material for pleasant and profitable reading. It is a whole library of English Histery, Biography and Literature, within itself. and valuable because of its statistical accuracy. Each Part is illustrated with numerous well executed engravings, and sold at the low price of 20 cents.
