I should be most happy to receive your ins. but think it only proper to inform you that alke unhappy differences which now distract the mine unuapy, and my papils this year, without excep-ion, advocate the Southern side. In view of his, I fear your son would not find it pleasant Yours, very respectfully, FREDERICK GIBSON.

BENJ. F. BUTLER, a "Breckinridger" of is now making Abolition speeches in this 32:2. Ben. holds a Major-General's commission miler Lincoln, and his friend Breckinridge holds one of the same under Jeff. Davis. Ben., as is known, had command in New Orleans some ine ago, and was suddenly recalled and put on he retired list, without a word of explanation. his now more than suspected that Ben. was ulity of holding private conferences with his old friend Breck., in which it was agreed bethem them, that—as the restoration of the pemecratic party to power, and with it, the spirit of compromise, which was always potent to save the Union, is the only thing the secestionists have to fear—Ben. should pretend to that Abolitionist, and help along the disunion cause which Breck has so near at heart, by backing up Liucoln's determination to perrert the war for the Union into an Abolition war. This will satisfactorily account for Butler's sudden conversion from a "Breckinridger" into a "Lin-colnite." Ben. and Breck. doubtless understand each other, and his Abolition speeches are only -what all such harangues are-secessionism in ANOTHER DRAFT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28, 1863.—The reverse in Nethern Georgia compels the Government to raise more troops than it had contemplated. The present draft will not give the Government over estensy-five thousand men, and it is said in some quarters that this estimate is too high by twenty-its thousand. Another draft will undoubtedly whalks were were access in these States. take place very soon, except in those States which prefer to raise the full quota, and can do it, by volunteering. Nearly all the Western Sates will raise their quotas by volunteering, as the Government offers a bounty of three hundred

The War Department is convinced that it has male one mistake in reference to the draft. It is permitted its surgeons to be too particular in the examination of drafted men. The Departnent finds that where it has had poor surgeons, jet men of practical sense, it has obtained most nen and where the most skillful and exact surrepus have had the handling of drafted persons, the Government has fared badly. The next draft will probably be for six hundred.

thus and men, and the expectation of the Government will be, under new instructions, to obtain one third of the men drawn as soldiers. The two drafts and the volunteering, it is estimated, will give about three hundred thousand men by the lst of next Jenuary. This will do very well, under the circumstances.—Correspondence of the New York Evening Post.

POLITICS IN THE ARMY.

Letter from the Penns. Reserve Corps CAMP 6TH REGIMENT P. R. V. C., CULPEPPER COURT HOUSE, VA., September 26th, 1863.

that Judge Woodward did only his duty as a Judge in deciding according to the plain letter of the Constitution. Now they want to make it appear that he decided wrongly—thinking, no doubt, that the vote of the army would insure their success at the coming election.

You can rest assured, Mr. Editor, hat there are equally as many Democrats bearing arms towards crushing this rebellion, as there are Republicance at Applicance and ware weallow.

lowards crushing this rebellion, as there are Republicans or Abolitionists, and were we allowed to vote, we would prove it so. Another scheme by which they have been trying to influence their friends up North is this: Some of the leading officers at the head of several regiments, ordered their men to take a vote on the ments, ordered their men to take a vote on the two candidates, but they took very good care previously to inform the men, if they would turn out very strong for Curtin, he would order them back to the State before the election. They tried that game in the 10th Regiment Penns. Reserves, and had their proceedings published. Inen a captain in our regiment (6th) attempted the same game, expecting the other companies would follow his example, but how sorely was he mistaken! They only laughed at his ill success. I must here state that the captain belongs to the "smoked yankee tribe," as we term the Abolitionists here in the army; some assert that he merely did it to gain a promotion by the opehe merely did it to gain a promotion by the operation, but he ought to have known better, for there is no vacancy in the regiment.

Another thing I notice in nearly every Abolition journal: They say that Governor Curtin, was "the soldiers' friend." It is indeed amusing to hear every means tried in order to be successful. I am sure he has no more friends here in the samy than Judge Woodward has. The papers hary that he has done so much for the welfare of the Pennsylvania soldiers. To make it short on that point, he has done no more than any other Governor has done for his troops, and no more than we him duty to me. Since we left that more than was his duty to us. Since we left the State in July, 1861, he has done nothing for us, state in July, 1861, he has done nothing for us, save presenting us with colors at the expense of the State. But still they say he has done so much for the Pennsylvania soldiers, and especially for the Pennsylvania Reserves. He has menced, but I should like to be informed by an Abolition journal, what good was derived from his visits? I will, however, answer myself, that they tried to derive some good out of his late visit to the Headquarters of the Pennsylvania Reserves, when General Meade was presented with a sword. His associates, Forney, McMichael and a few more, put forth every endeavor to make a political scheme out of it, much to the chaggin of many present on the occasion. I am Eware that some went away disgusted, for the sword was not intended for that purpose, but was purchased as a tribute of their regard to Gen. Meade as their old commander.

LATEST FROM GEORGIA.

REPORTS FROM REBEL SOURCES. ROSECRANS REINFORCED.

Bombardment of Sumter Resumed.

The Richmond Examiner of the 29th ult., says that Lee has officially communicated to Jeff. Davis that Rosecrans has been reinforced by the Davis that Rosectans has been reinforced by the Eleventh and Twelfth Corps of the Federal army. The same paper says that General Weitzel has been defeated by Dick Taylor, in Louisiana. The rebel loss in the Chicamanga battle is set down at 12,000, but it is probably more. The rebels report that Burnside has retreated to Knoxville.

A deserter from Richmond says that there are from 10,000 to 12,000 troops in that city. The ram Merrimac is lying in the river and another gunboat, called the Lady Davis, has been comoletely iron plated.

From rebel journals we learn that the Union troops fired upon the ruins of Fort Sumter on the 28th alt., for the first time for several weeks. The rebels report no damage done. The rebel hatteries were still firing upon the Union working parties. The iron-olad fleet were at their old anchorage and perfectly quiet. The Charleston Courier reports that the fleet fired a salute in honor of Admiral Farragut's arrival at that port.

FROM GEN. MEADE'S ARMY.

In Gen. Meade's army everything remains the same, nor are there any indications of immediate active operations. Gen. Hill's entire rebel corps is said to be on the south side of the Rapidam. The pickets of the enemy are on the north and west of our lines. A few days since a large force of the rebels were seen in motion towards

DEMOCRATIC MEETINGS.

MASS MEETING IN KUTZTOWN. The sixth Democratic Ratification Mass Meeting in Berks county, was held on Saturday, September 26th, 1863, in the borough of Kutztown. The attendance was very large, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The surrounding town-ehips were well represented, particularly Oley ehips were well represented, particularly Oley and Maxatewny, the Democratic Clubs of which townships came in a mass in procession, with numerous flags and banners bearing appropriate inscriptions. The Oley Club arrived in wagons, decorated with banners and evergreens, and headed with the Oley Brass Band, in their large chariot. At 1 o'clock, P. M., all the delegations united in a grand procession through the streets, to the lively music of the Kutztown and Oley Bands. The little "Wide Awake" cannon helonging to our friend Wm. Rhoads, jr., of Reading (which he won from the Wide-Awake Club in ing(which he won from the Wide-Awake Club in 1860) mounted on a wagon, brought up the rear of the procession, and at intervals made the surrounding mountains echo with its loud reports. At about 2 o'clock, the procession halted in front At about 2 o'clock, the procession halted in front of the stand erected for the occasion, when the meeting was organized by the election of Davin Kutz, Esq., of Maxataway, as President, with 26 Vice Presidents and 6 Secretaries. The meeting was addressed by the Hop. J. Glancy Jones, in English, and by A. L. Ruhe, Esq., of Allentown, and D. E. Schoedler, of Lancaster, in Garmen.
