Two [redacted] men from Boston to Philadelphia, to assist in carrying the election in October. This is a fact. They will try the same trick everywhere. Democrats, [redacted]

Every [redacted] counts at home, on every dollar of the [redacted] debt is the price the people must pay for the election of Grant and Colfax, being the present rate of depreciation [redacted]

CARE [redacted] the same myself everywhere and on all occasions. The Germans are too intelligent to be humbugged by lies, and they will make the last [redacted] election day.

Gen. Grant left the United States army in 1854 on account of his intemperate habits. His commanding officer permitted him to resign instead of standing a trial by court-martial. We [redacted] blame the deserter, but we cannot trust such a man as President of the great United States.

The Potter Monument says that Joshua Jones, who shot his wife in Milford, Pa., was "a leading Democrat." He said Joshua Jones [redacted] of the Democratic State Committee. Take [redacted] date your life a little further from home, neighbor; manage [redacted] and take up your own political duties.

Under Democratic rule we had a small army to protect the Western settlers from the Indians, and the people of the States were permitted to govern themselves.

Under Radical rule we have the people of ten States governed by a large army, while the unprotected settlers in the West are murdered and outraged by Indians.

Such is Grant's "peace!"

A new trick of the Radicals is to publish paid advertisements in the Philadelphia Ledger, endorsing their rascally policy of gold payment of bonds, and then claim that their policy is "endorsed by a neutral paper." The trick is rather too transparent to work well, however, though ignorant people may be deceived by it. The type in which the bribes are printed is much smaller than that of the editorials. Make a new bargain, Messrs. Radicals.

The Harrisburg Patriot avers that Auditor General Hartranft, the Radical candidate for reelection to that office, has paid out, contrary to law, the sum of ten thousand dollars to political or personal favorites. Gen. Hartranft was a good soldier, but the tax-payers [redacted] to see him in the position of Auditor General of the State, and therefore they should vote for Hon. Charles E. Boyle, the Democratic candidate. Every dollar counts now—the people cannot afford to waste [redacted] on political humbugs.

TAX-PAYERS, READ!

The public debt has increased over one [redacted] DOLLARS since the close of the war! To prove this, it is only necessary to compare the official statement [redacted] on the 31st of July, 1865, with the statement of March 31st, [redacted]
