

CITY AND COUNTY

FIRST EDITION—12 1-2 P. M.

ADVERTISERS are requested to hand in their advertisements early in the day as possible, as our rapidly increasing circulation compels us to go to press about 3 p. m.

COMMUNICATIONS intended for publication in the DAILY EAGLE must be accompanied by a responsible name, as a guarantee of shrewdness on the part of the writer. The name will not be published unless so desired by the correspondent. Write only on one side of the paper, and as plainly as possible, without flourish.

SUBSCRIBERS who fail to receive the EAGLE regularly, will confer a favor by leaving notice at this office, where all complaints of irregularity and lateness of delivery will be promptly attended to. CORRESPONDENTS should make their communications short and to the point. Our space is too limited for very long articles.

D. L.—Blue, meet Sixth, 7, No. 2. White, meet Third, 7, No. 2. Meet Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh, 7, No. 1.

Black, meet Fifth, 7, No. 4—all. Pink, meet Sixth, 7, No. 1. Purple, meet Sixth, 7, No. 2. Yellow, meet Sixth, 7, No. 4. Black, meet Sixth, 7, No. 4—all.

C. T.'s Purple, meet Sixth, 7, No. 2.

NATURALIZATION COURT will be in session next Monday, November 2.

ATTENTION, D. L.—All members of the D. L. will report at the upper Depot, this evening, at 6 o'clock, with torches and lanterns, to escort Hon. Horatio Seymour. Turn out, every man! By command of the D. C.

ATTENTION, HORSEMEN.—Meet at "Lauer's Garden," Third and Chestnut streets, this evening, at 6 o'clock, to join in the procession to receive Gov. Seymour by the 10 o'clock train. Come all.

C. B. RHOADS, Chief Marshal.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.—Done brown the woods.

Money and local items are scarce.

In eating raw oysters always peel the shells off before swallowing. The shells are indigestible and apt to lie hard on the stomach.

A New Hampshire editor, who has kept a record of big beats, announces that "the best that beat the best that beat the best, is now best by a beat that beats all the best, whether the original beat, the best that beat the best, or the best that beat the best that beat the best."

Bottles are no longer on the table of fashionable dinner parties—all the wines, with the exception of champagne, being served in glass pitchers of handsome workmanship.

It is very well for a horse to go up, but not for an individual.

Almanacs for 1899 for sale at the EAGLE book store.

Never travel on the railroad trains. Many persons have died unexpectedly by this imprudence.

People should now lay in their stock of potatoes, sweet ones as well as those of Murphy proclivity.

Bakers hint at the enlargement of their loaves in consequence of the reduction in the price of flour.

The best lent—excellent.

Old people—single ones, of course.

About the greatest paper circulation nowadays is the shirt collar. It circulates about everywhere and around almost everybody.

Everybody will turn out to see and hear Gov. Seymour to-night.

Go to the EAGLE book store for your books and stationery.

Doors should be securely bolted, and every caution provided against the incursions of burglars who are now infesting our city.

REMOVED.—The Junior Mechanics, No. 27, have removed their place of meeting from Yerger's Hall in Penn street, to Library Hall at Fifth and Franklin streets.

The Stockholders of the Reading Savings Bank will hold a meeting on Monday next, for the election of directors to serve for the ensuing year.

NEW FRONT.—Mr. Andrew Fichtorn, 247 Penn street, is converting the front room of his house into a store room and is putting a large open front in it.

HAMMOND FIRM COMPANY.—A special meeting of this company will be held at 7 o'clock to-morrow evening, October 30th. Important business will be transacted and a full attendance is requested.

A. S. WHITMAN, into editor and proprietor of the Daily Times, of this city, has, we understand, been appointed Deputy Sheriff under Sheriff W. S. Albright.—Evening Dispatch.

FILL OVERBOARD.—Yesterday afternoon, near the guard lock, the tow line caught a man on a boat, and threw him overboard. He could swim, and no damage was sustained, only that he ran the risk of getting the "chills."

The repairs and improvements at the Sheet Works of Seyfert, McManus & Co., are being pushed forward with rapidity, men working day and night. When this mill is completed it will be one of the largest in the State.

The East Pennsylvania Railroad Company have bought fifteen acres of land in North Bethlehem, for the purpose of building a depot as soon as the extension of that road is completed to Easton. The ground cost $16,000.

The "soub'-krant" season is at its meridian, and cutters are in demand everywhere. Cabbages easily sell at from 5 to 10 cents a head. Large fields in the out-skirts are devoted entirely to the cultivation of cabbage, and its growers realize a good profit now.

Ducks.—Sportmen are now enjoying a delightful season. Quite a number of ducks are being shot on the river. Early this morning we heard the sound of the sportsman's gun, and we supposed that "dead ducks" was the result.

BELLS MARRIED.—A Convention composed of Delegates from all the Churches in Berks county is being held in the Rev. Mr. Baunman's First Reformed Church, this (Thursday) afternoon, and a general meeting of the friends of the Bible in the same place, this evening at 7 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed to-night by Rev. Dr. Kell of Philadelphia, Rev. I. H. Torres, Rev. Dr. Schoff, of New York, and others. All are invited.

WAZES, which is usually at the campaign approaches a close. A few days more and the contest will be terminated.

EDUCATE women, and let there be no limit to their education, as there should be no limit to the education of anybody. Qualify them to do all the good they can in this world of evil.

PRIZES DRAWN.—The beautiful table cover, made by Miss Emma Hodgson, of this city, was yesterday disposed of in a lottery at the EAGLE office. It was drawn by Mr. L. S. Ramond of New York.

GUNNERS should remember that a law was passed last winter inflicting a fine of twenty-five dollars for shooting insectivorous birds at any season of the year. This law should be faithfully observed, and those who wantonly violate it should be punished.

The Wilmington and Reading Railroad is progressing rapidly, and a large force is engaged in grading the bed of the road within the limits of the city of Wilmington, and in a short time the road will be graded from Hedgewille to within a short distance of the Newcastle junction.

Won't some charitable person at Sinking Springs look after the correspondent of the Dispatch at that place? A mustard plaster on his hollow head might be beneficial. Judging from his communication in regard to the Democratic torchlight procession; however, the only proper place for him is in some insane Asylum.

CAPTURED.—Two men, hailing from Philadelphia, were yesterday morning caught in one of the lower townships, this county, for stealing watches in that city. The "birds" were brought to Reading by two detectives, and taken to Philadelphia in the 11 o'clock train, where they will be dealt with according to law.

The revival meetings now being held in the Fifth street Methodist church, continue, with no abatement of the interest taken in them. Rev. J. A. Wood preaches every night, and manages the prayer meeting services. The church continues to be well filled, and we hope they will go on in their good work, and make many converts.

PACKERACK HOTEL.—We learn that our old friend Jacob Conrad will retire from the Packerack hotel on the first of next December, and that Michael Rightmeyer and Wm. Drumheller will then take charge of it. Mr. Conrad intends erecting a large slaughter house and stock yard, and will hereafter follow the butchering business and stock dealing quite extensively.

ACCIDENT.—This morning, a boy named George Fisher, residing at No. 7 Front street, started out on a gunning tour. He carried the gun under his arm, and when he had proceeded a short distance down Front street, he left it fall, when the charge exploded and took effect in his heel, tearing the heel of his boot, and some of the shot entering his foot and heel. The wound is not serious.

THE BUSINESS of making sausages, hog's head-cheese, "puddings," brawn, and other results of the ingathering of the pork crop, is called "hog-jiggering." A great many people in the country around us, during six months in the year, make a good living by it. A hog which they buy at $18 per cwt. is converted, under their manipulations, into products that double the investment with very little labor.

REMEMBER THE POOR.—They are always with you. As noble hearts sit beside a poorly fed fire on a winter's day as those that revel on the damask cushion. Fortune favored the rich the same as it created the poor. One kind look, a gentle word, may lighten a heavy sorrow, or one small gift may ease an aching pain. They cost but little, yet yield a large, a pleasing return. Turn not a deaf ear. Tables turn, and you may yet covet the crumbs from another's table.

ARREST AND ESCAPE.—A constable of Mahanoy city, in this State, arrested yesterday, at 705 Callowhill street, Rosanna Foust, a young woman, on the charge of infanticide. She obtained permission to retire to another room, upon the representation that she wanted to make some change in her clothing, and succeeded in effecting her escape. When the constable made search for her, she could not be found.—Phila. Ledger.

STATE DEPUTY.—Mr. John McHose, of Easton, has been appointed State Deputy of the National Labor Association. It is said that the Labor Party will be brought prominently before the people after the coming November election. And we are pleased to hear it. It is time that the workmen of the land look after their interests. They have suffered capital to do as it pleased long enough.

RECEPTION OF GOVERNOR SEYMOUR.—The Committee of the Conservative Soldiers and Sailors, for the reception of Governor Seymour, held a meeting last evening at their rooms, 1208 Chestnut street. They completed their arrangements for proceeding to Reading to escort Governor Seymour to this city on Friday, in conjunction with the Citizens' Committee, consisting of Hon. Asa Packer, Richard Vaux and Hester Glymer, Esqs. The Governor will arrive at the Reading Depot about 1 o'clock.—Philadelphia Ledger of to-day.

MR. A. S. JONES, of this city, has retired from the position of Reporter for the DAILY EAGLE, on account of ill health. Mr. Jones was an efficient, gentlemanly and popular reporter, and his many friends will regret to learn that he has abandoned the editorial profession until his health is more fully restored. We wish him success in whatever he may undertake, and we are confident our readers will agree with us. Mr. J. has been succeeded by John K. Smith, formerly foreman of the office, who, we guarantee, will fill the position to the satisfaction of our readers.

How DELICIOUS.—Last night, as the city clocks tolled the hour of midnight, our ears were filled with the strains of delightful music. Some fair one on Penn. street was the recipient of this most exquisite compliment. Homeward bound, we strolled "a wee bit" out of our way to listen and find who were the charmers. Rocholl was the man who did it, and to him were we and the many others who were held captives indebted for the strains which floated out so grandly in the midnight air as beautiful a moonlight night as we ever saw. Success to Rocholl's orchestra!

OUR PORT CLINTON correspondent furnishes us with the following items: The St. John's Sunday School of Port Clinton, will hold their annual election next Sunday afternoon at the Public School House. Punctual attendance of officers and teachers is requested.

Rev. B. D. Zwilling, of your city, will preach in German and English next Sunday evening at the train arrival in the Public School House. The public are respectfully invited to attend, as an interesting sermon is expected.

FRANKLIN HANLON

on the 26th inst., the following named gentlemen were re-elected to fill the various offices for the ensuing year:

- President—Lasi H. Lissa.
- Vice President—H. E. Ketter.
- Treasurer—A. T. C. Keffer.
- Secretary—Lewis Kemp.
- Directors—Joseph Adams, Daniel Mast and Frederick Desser.

Directors holding over—Joseph Liesman, Benner Humma, Christian Koch, Lewis Gable, Anthony Dreher, and Anthony Newberger.

Value of each share at the end of the first year, $18.80.

A PIONEER GONE.—The Pottsville Standard of Saturday, says: Mr. Robert Smith, an old and highly esteemed resident of this county, departed this life on Wednesday morning last, caused by a cancer in the lower part of his face. Mr. Smith came to Pottsville about thirty-five or forty years ago. He was the first plumber that came to this vicinity, and in his business career here he superintended the building of the old Mahantongo street water basin, and laid the first water pipes in the borough. When about thirty-five years of age, he was made General Superintendent of the Reading and Centre Turnpike, extending from Reading to Sunbury. This position he held for over thirty years, and discharged his duties in a creditable manner, resigning it only a few years ago. He was buried on Friday.

READING SKATING PARK.—We understand that it was determined at the meeting held last evening, at the Mansion House, to consider the propriety of purchasing the Skating Park to start subscription papers at once, with the view of forming a stock association and raising the sum of $1,800, which amount is required for the purpose. The park is largely in debt, and will soon be sold to pay the incumbrances unless purchased and the liabilities paid. Subscription papers have accordingly been started at C. C. Mahanberg's, Strickland Bros., and D. P. Lamb's, from which the public may learn further particulars.

We trust that the enterprise may be successful. The season is rapidly approaching upon the park will be needed, and whatever is done should be done speedily.

READING SKATING PARK.—We understand that it was determined at the meeting held last evening, at the Mansion House, to consider the propriety of purchasing the Skating Park to start subscription papers at once, with the view of forming a stock association and raising the sum of $1,800, which amount is required for the purpose. The park is largely in debt, and will soon be sold to pay the incumbrances unless purchased and the liabilities paid. Subscription papers have accordingly been started at C. C. Mahanberg's, Strickland Bros., and D. P. Lamb's, from which the public may learn further particulars.

We trust that the enterprise may be successful. The season is rapidly approaching upon the park will be needed, and whatever is done should be done speedily.

BOAT ROBBED, AND THE THIEVES CAPTURED.—This morning about two o'clock, a nigger and a white man robbed the canal boat "Oakland," lying near Reading, while the Captain, Cornelius Haley, of Pottsville, was asleep. These men were in the employ of Haley, and he not doubting their honesty, left them on board. After he awoke he found that he was robbed of all his clothing, his watch and some money, and even had no boots left to put on, so that he had to walk some distance to procure another pair to give the alarm. Men were immediately put on their track, when they were overtaken and captured near Douglassville. They were brought to this city and lodged in the station house. Mr. Haley was present and identified the thieves, and all his goods which they had with them.

VENTILATION.—As winter comes on and heaters and stoves are made ready for their work, it should be the duty of our citizens to see that proper precautions are taken for the ventilation of their residences, to secure health and comfort. Full and free ventilation cannot entirely be secured by looking well to the registers; but chimneys must be cleared from the mass of soot and ashes which choke them, and pipes must be thoroughly overhauled, so that when put up, the noxious and dangerous gases which arise from certain fires, may not be driven into the rooms, instead of out. A little attention will secure comfort and health in dwellings. A thermometer is often hung up to mark the variations in the temperature, but while it does so, it cannot tell, nor is it any test of the purity of the air. A simple contrivance for discovering the impurities in the air, is a bottle of lime water. If the air is impure the water will immediately become milky. This is, invariably, a sure test.

ATTRACTION EXTRAORDINARY.—THE HANLONS ARE COMING TO READING.—We are pleased to announce to our citizens, that the world famed Hanlons are coming to Reading on Friday and Saturday of next week (Nov. 6th and 7th). They are now united—the five brothers, and have a very large company of able assistants, consisting of Pfauf, the Russian acrobat, Prof. Sedgwick and Broham, Blamphin, the Harpist, the beautiful Miss Emily Thorne, and many celebrities, not omitting to mention the three "Hanlon Midgets," Victor, Julian and Francois, who are the pets of every audience before whom they have appeared. They have just concluded an extended engagement in Philadelphia.

The Press of yesterday speaks of them as follows: The Hanlons at the Chestnut Street Theatre attracted the attention of every eye, and everybody knows the Hanlons; most people are aware that they are by far the best acrobats in the world, far surpassing the celebrated Leotard; but it is not generally known that all the Hanlons are now assembled together, and in combination with a really remarkable amount of gymnastics and athletic and kind. The Hanlons are men of education and intelligence, and we can well remember that on their first appearance at Niblo's, they were the sensation of the city. They are men of great intelligence, and the most highly cultivated artists, in many respects, in their calling. The singular novelty of their performance, which attracted much more than was their great velocipede race, in which they displayed remarkable skill. In these Phis, the great Russian acrobat, Pfauf, was the star attraction, and the deeds of the Ravelis, Javella, and Blamphin, of earlier times. A very pleasant part of the performance was the harp solo by James Blamphin, which was well sung by Miss Emily Thorne. Taken altogether, the attractions afforded by this troupe are truly admirable.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SPORTSMEN will find a large assortment of single and double barreled guns, shot pouches, powder flasks, game bags and ammunition at J. L. BRIDGERS'S, 505 Penn St. Oct 22-1 w.

WHEELER & WILSON'S Improved Sewing Machine, Sewing Machine, are now on exhibition and for sale at the store of D. K. Shultz, 614 Penn street. Call and see them. Do all kinds of sewing, hemming, filling and gathering, without change of machine. PETERSON & CAMPBELL, Agents. Oct 22-1 w.

We know of no other establishment in this city, where parties can be better suited, both in quality of goods and price, than at Charles Levan & Co.'s dry goods store, 411 Penn street. This would appear so judging from the goods they sell, and from the large number of people continually going to the store. They have now a splendid assortment of dry goods, which they are rapidly selling off at low prices.

There are some people who seem to think it almost a sin to dress well. Such people we suppose, if they had the world to make, would have made their clothes of gold rather than blue and gold, or bright flowers gray or brown instead of red and purple. They make a sad mistake, and the mistake is the more lamentable because the more they make it, the more they are the very best of our people, and are betrayed into this extreme, by a laudable desire to conform to the fashion of the day. But there is a wide world of difference between being dressed like a poor or a dandy and being well dressed. Our ideas of this matter is about met in the clothes we wear. It is not the material, but the manner of wearing it, that counts. A well dressed man is a well dressed man, and a well dressed man is a well dressed man. Dressed in a suit cut and made at this establishment you attract attention as being well dressed and well to do. And you can also buy your goods at the lowest prices. We might also state that we have just received a lot of undergarments, shirts, drawers, etc., which are all sold at very low prices.

ADVERTISER in the EAGLE.

DAILY REVIEW OF BUSINESS.

Business Oct 29, 1898.

In regard to money markets the New York Herald says: "The present aspect of financial affairs furnishes food for very serious reflection. That affairs in the money market are in a very serious condition is obvious even to the casual observer, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it is not difficult to see that the situation is becoming more and more serious in the future. Money is scarce—that is, in the financial sense. It is true there is just as much money in the country as there ever was, but it is not in the form of gold and silver, but in the form of paper money, and this paper money is being withdrawn from circulation. The present situation is a very serious one, and it