WORMINGMEN IN CALIFORNIA. The following article, which was written by a correspondent of the Phila. Evening Herald, shows that the supply of labor in California exceeds the demand, and that the farms, mines and workshops of Pennsylvania are better places for our workingmen than the "Land of Gold," at the present time. If any man in Berks county is willing to work as hard, and live as frugally, as he is obliged to do in any new country, he can accumulate much more money, and enjoy much more comfort and much better health, by staying at home, than by going to some distant and atrange territory, where the chances are three to one against his coming back at all, with or without a fortune. Every workingman should read the following communication, and consider well the cost before leaving his home and friends to seek his fortune in a land where he will probably lose his time and his health, perhaps even his life:

"PHILADEDPHIA, Nov. 20, 1868.

"Editors Evening Herald:
"Last evening I read a statement in the Herald to the effect that boys employed on farms in Ualifornia were paid from forty to fifty dollars per month in gold for their services. The writer, not long since, was a resident of the Golden State, and is able from a personal knowledge of the facts to contradict the statement. It is seldom, indeed, that able-bodied men can obtain the amount mentioned, and the chances are about ten to one that they will be cheated out of their money in addition, as very few of their employers seem to attach any value to their own reputal tions for honesty, being bent on raising a "home stake" as they call it, and care very little at whose expense or under what circum. rule, and to pay the exception, the first ques-tion usually asked, when a person is informed where a situation may be had, is, "will I get, my money?". And such is the case not on farms slone, but at a majority of the quarts and lumber mills, and placer mines also. A have a letter from California now before me, in which the writer, a machinist and a pipneor of,'40, corroborates all that I have writenty cents per day. Ho says there are, at a cramento from Australia on the representstion of the agents of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, through the American Consul, and, instead of getting steady employment and four dollars per day, they could not get work at any price. Those who had the necessary funds with which to pay their passage went straight back and the rest would like to go if they could. At another shon (Smealer, proprietor,) within another shop (Smesier, proprietor,) within the two weeks prior to the mailing of the letter, eight machinists had offered to work for the price of their board; but they could not get it even at that price, for the reason that there was nothing to do. This is not the case in California alone, for Oregon and Novada are overrun in a like manner. In Nevada mechanics are so plenty that they hire out at-laborars' wages--waiting for the more fortunate members of the vacious craft fession burning charcoal for a living; another one driving a cart, and at Blue Gulch, near my residence in San Francisco, I saw mochanics of every kind, engaged in building a cust into ingots. HEATON'S STEEL PROCESS. Every new process and every improve-ment of marked value, in the manufacture of iron and steel, is of such great importance o the State of Pennsylvania as to induce a conspicuous notice of all such developments in these columns. To those heretofore introduced to the public in this way, we have now to add another, and from what is said ever taken the field or plains. If he can of it in England it will appear that to the names of Parry, Uchatius, Martin Bessemer, and Stemens, as connected with various improved processes for manufacturing steel, must now be added that of John Heaton, the proprietor of Langley Mills, situated in the Erowash Valley, near Nottingham, England He has in successful practice a direct method of producing steel chemically, that bids fair to be of the very first importance, and almost to revolutionize that branch of industry. This, to express it in the fewest words, consists in pouring melted iron upon nitrate of sods in a cupola furnace, by means of which the oxygen developed from the nitrate combines with all the impurities, carbon, silicon, phosphorus, sulphur, etc., which disappears, leaving the iron in the form of a ernde steel, to be used in that form, or to be converted by a subsequent process into cast steel. The details of the process may be stated as follows:

Cast iron of any quality (and herein lies one of the greatest advantages of the new process) is melted in a common iron capola severely. furnace, and a known quantity—from half a ton to a ton—is tapped out into an ordinary orane ladle, which is swang round to at the hands of street rowdies. John the side of the convertor. This is a tall cylinder of boiler plate iron, open at the bottom, and with a space between it and the floor.-There is a fire-brick lining to the converter, and a conical covering, out of which an iron funnel opens into the atmosphere. In the bottom are placed a number of short cylindrical pots, lined with brick and fire-clay .-Into the bottom of one of these pots is placed a given weight of crudo nitrate of soda, the stances it is obtained. Not to pay being the surface of which is levelled, and covered with a circular, perforated plate of thick cast iron. At the side of the cylinder is a hopper, covered by a loosely hinged flap of boiler plate. This is raised, and the ladle full of cast iron is poured into the converter, descending upon the top of the perforated plate, which becomes gradually heated and a reaction soon commences in the nitrate, ten. He says there are, at a low estimate, five mechanics wanting work for every position where one is required. Recently, about three hundred machines and engineers came to Sa.

The crude steel thus made is then broken up, and again heated in a balling furnace; afterwards rolled or forged into suitable shapek The material in this form is called "stool fron," and has qualities fully equal, for most purposes, to the Lowmoor iron. It welds perfectly; is neither "hot-short" nor "cold-short," and forges well at both a low red and clear vellow heat. The plan is to attack the Indians in their winter quarters, destroy their lodges and everything they have, take away their arms and force all those that escape slaughter to live on reservations below Arkansas. The destination of the expedition will probably be Sand Plains, south of the Arkansas, making that point a base of supplies.

General Sheridan has a large supply of extra horse's, and the best outfit that has prevent the Indians from breaking up into small bands and coming north, he can give them a very severo punishment; but ifithey elude him after the first attack, and reach the railroad in raiding parties, they can do immenso damage.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such a Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc. is very apt to have its functions deranged. Consumption, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Faliaces of Blood to the Head, Addity of the Stomach. Nausca, Hearthurn, Diegust for food, Full-ness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating, Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dali Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Kyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limile, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Kyi, and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he isamined from his investigations and inquiries, possess true merit, is ekill Quily compounded, is free from injurious ingreducints, and established for itself a reputation for the cure of disease. In this connection we would supmit those well-known remedies—
