The heavy rains of Thursday morning caused the Schuylkill to rise somewhat.

A lady with a Grecian Bend was seen on the promenade on Penn street last evening, and attracted some attention.

A large number of our people went to Philadelphia yesterday to witness the Fenian parade.

Leopold is looking up, many improvements are being made in the town.

Three wild geese were shot at Leopold yesterday.

Instead of standing by your principles stand in them.

A drop of water expanded has rent a rock; but it takes a great many rocks to rent a first-class hotel.

Yesterday afternoon while Thomas Darlington, Jr., was trying an improved Nut Machine, he was caught by the finger, cutting it clear off, and had it not been for the timely arrival of Mr. Henry ...

Venus is now the morning star, and can be seen in the East, just in advance of the Sun.

Mr. C. R. Heilmann has taken out the side of his store-room, facing on Sixth street, and is going to put in a large window.

On Wednesday, a son of Isaac Young, was wrestling with one of his school-mates at Coxworth, and had his arm broken.

Rev. J. S. Blewett, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, delivered a highly interesting sermon yesterday morning to a large congregation.

A fashionable wedding came off in South Sixth street yesterday.

Two Louisiana gentlemen came off the balcony of their house during the heated term, and one night pantofled them. We cannot vouch for this item.

If dressmakers don't get rich, the case is a queer one. The figures for getting up the present costume are terrific.

When people borrow bad umbrellas they return them, and generally with qualified thanks for the same. Good ones are kept as a tribute to the courtesies of their owners.

The Columbia base ball players didn't come yesterday. Why?

THE MARKETS.

DAILY REVIEW OF BUSINESS.

READING, Nov. 27, 1868. In Philadelphia, the Money market is gradually growing easier, and the demand for money is less pressing.

Gen. Spinner, United States Treasurer, has written a reply to certain strictures upon a circular issued by him on the 13th of November, with a view to the withdrawal from circulation of the convertible issue of legal tender notes.

Mr. B. Shurtle, of the firm of Shurtle, Hollenback & Co. of this city, returned from a hunting expedition to the Allegheny Mountains in Lycoming county, where he shot a large buck.

BOUNTY.—All persons holding claims for bounties and back pay under the act of 1867, are advised to forward the necessary receipts at once to the pay department at Washington.

A RETURN pigeon match will shortly take place between a number of gentlemen of this city and Reading. The contestants in the last match from this city contend that the agreement made at first was not fairly complied with.—State Guard.

LARGE TURNIP.—Jacob G. Wenger has an exhibition at his tavern, New Berlin, Lancaster county, a turnip weighing nine pounds and ten ounces, and measuring twenty and a half inches in length.

WE would advise all in want of a good Parlor Stove, or Office Stove, to call at D. C. Schneider's Store, No. 414 Penn street, and purchase the Revolving Light of 1868, the most perfect base burning and illuminating stove of the age.

WEDDING AT CHURCH.—Trinity Lutheran Church was the scene of a wedding ceremony on Wednesday evening. Rev. Mr. Fry united in the bonds of matrimony, in the presence of a large number of people, Dr. Wm. H. Eichelberger and Miss Mary Goldie Siegel, both of this city.

MAGNETISM is recommended as much the best material for the manufacture of the crucibles used in melting iron, steel or platinum, which are said not to crack by rapid change of temperature.

MIGHT BE BETTER.—Some of the pavements in our city, are in a deplorable condition. In traversing the streets yesterday, we noticed a number of them so completely out of order that persons passing along there on dark nights cannot but endanger their limbs.

SEE "Man About Town" for additional local news.

ECLIPSES.—There will be four eclipses during 1869, two of the sun and two of the moon. One of the latter will be visible here, January 7.

CHANGE OF TIME IN AFTERNOON TRAIN FOR READING.—On and after Thursday the afternoon train for Reading will leave Lancaster at 3.25, instead of 6 o'clock as heretofore.

RACCOON SHOT.—William Moyer and Henry Throner shot, on the mountains back of Clynmer's Furnace near the Temple Station, on the night of Nov. 20., a Raccoon (Waschbaer) which after taking off the skin, weighed about 21 pounds. It is supposed to be one of the "coons" that escaped from Salt River.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN READING.—The early morning hours of yesterday denoted a dismal national religious holiday. Towards nine o'clock the clouds disappeared, and the blue sky was visible here and there, and the sun shone bright.

THE PHILA. & R. R. CO. has removed its blacksmith shop from the north end of the Port Clinton tunnel to a new building erected for that purpose opposite their depot, at this place.

A GRAND BALL will be given by the Neversink Active Association, in Aulonbach's Hall, on Wednesday evening, December 8th. This ball will no doubt be a very pleasant one, and as the Association is in every way worthy of encouragement, we hope to see it well attended.

THE BEST evidence in favor of the remaining Lett in Stollar's Substitution, to be sold at the Keystone House, Reading, to-morrow, is the improvement already going up on those corners, and the raising of the first house, before the cellar was finished. No better and surer investment can be made, than in this property.

FROM OUR HAMBURG CORRESPONDENT.

HAMBURG, Nov. 27th, 1868. EDITOR DAILY EAGLE.—"Thanksgiving Day" was generally observed here, by every body attending to his usual avocation, except I believe the teachers and pupils of our public schools, who had a holiday of it. Last evening, however, an excellent sermon, becoming the occasion, was preached in the M. E. Church, by the Rev. Mr. Grove, to a large audience.

SERVICES were also held in the St. John's Church in the morning by Rev. Herman of your city, who delivered a discourse on the death of Mr. J. Jacoby's child, which fell a victim to the disease known as the "black measles," which is quite prevalent among the little folks in this place, and vicinity.

THE officers and teachers of Emanuel School met in the basement of said church on Sunday evening last, and organized themselves into a Bible Class, to meet every Saturday evening for mutual instruction, and a more thorough preparation of the lesson to be taught the scholars on the following Sabbath.

MR. Jonathan Zweig, of Pinegrove, Schuylkill county, is erecting a two-story frame house at the north end of our borough.

THE PHILA. & R. R. CO. has removed its blacksmith shop from the north end of the Port Clinton tunnel to a new building erected for that purpose opposite their depot, at this place.

A man whose name I do not learn, went into the yard at the residence of Francis Scholtzberger, on White Oak street, no doubt to ask aims, but seeing an overcoat hanging on the fence enclosing the yard, was tempted to take it and go on his way, but on Mr. S. discovering his loss, he went in search of the man, and shortly found him, divested him of the coat, chastised him, and let him off.

lower orders of society forces upward the superincumbent orders above. And thus much as the business class is the broadest and most important of all the orders of society, whatever tends to elevate or depress it must equally elevate or depress all other classes, which it directly or indirectly supports.

Business Colleges were professedly instituted for the benefit of the business community. To that class, then, they have looked for support, which they could receive, only if should be to the interest of that class to extend it. As the business class have heretofore supported Business Colleges, they did so, because they found it to their interest to do so. We cannot conceive a stronger argument than this in favor of such institutions. It proves that Business Colleges are formed by the working of the most certain and powerful law of Political Economy, the law of supply and demand. The business community demanded educated assistants. It demanded a peculiar kind of education, something more than that acquired in academies and colleges. Business Colleges were established with the design of furnishing that education. They were subjected to the scrutiny of ignorance and envy. Their graduates were tried by distrust and prejudice. But neither were ignorance and envy so stubborn as favorable facts, nor distrust and prejudice blind to their own profit and interest.

Surely these facts need no amplification. But if more were required, we might call attention to the voice of gratitude and praise which is heard daily from those who availed themselves of the advantages of these institutions, and who are now enjoying the reward of their foresight and diligence. We mean the graduates of Business Colleges. Many of them are enjoying high and responsible positions. Positions for the possession of which they are indebted to the knowledge acquired at Business Colleges. This, then, is the closing argument. That the class most interested, the business community, support, and the class most benefited, the graduates, praise and recommend: All that we would say further, will be readily suggested by a candid examination of some first class institution. That investigation we invite. Our pleasure and business in that respect will always coincide. We shall be pleased to exhibit and explain the studies and routine of our school, and we are sure that such exhibition and explanation cannot fail to work directly or indirectly to the profit of ourselves in particular, and of the cause of business education in general.
