THE K. K. K. AGAIN.

The Ku-Klux have taken to burning barns and schoolhouses in Monroe county, Tennessee, and Governor Brownlow offers five hundred dollars for the detection of the guilty ones.—Harrisburg State Guard.

Oh, the horrible and bloody Ku-Kluxers!—How dare they thus disturb the peace and quiet of the dominions of the pious and saintly Brownlow? If some dark night these barn and school-house burners should happen to get hold of Tennessee's so-called Governor, and carry his corrupt carcass to the regions of Old Pluto, they would be ridding the country of very bad rubbish, and the civilized world would rejoice exceedingly thereat. That Old Nick would like it is exceedingly questionable, because Brownlow would endeavor in all probability to create a little place of his own, and an empire within an empire doesn't work well by any means. But at any rate, until Satan gets possession of Brownlow and a few other Radical shining lights, he will not have his own.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.—Mr. Al C. Buckwalter, one of the editors and proprietors of the Daily Evening Dispatch, in this city, has sold out his interest in that paper to Mr. C. D. Elliott, also a former member of the firm. The paper will be conducted by Messrs. C. D. Elliott and Harrison Shultz, who will no doubt maintain its present good reputation. Mr. Buckwalter is an able and energetic editor and business man, and we wish him success in whatever place he may see fit to locate himself.

THE NATIONAL DEBT increased eleven million dollars during the month of November, and last week a steamer took out $320,000 in coin to pay their 6 per cent. interest in gold to the European bondholders. 'Rah for Grant—let us have peace!

Letter from Europe.

We take pleasure in laying before our readers a letter from the youngest son of our townsman, Frederick Lauer, Esq., now at a Frolich school in Lausanne, Switzerland:

LAUSANNE, Nov. 29, 1868.

DEAR PARENTS:—The city of Lausanne, called by the Romans, "Lausonium," is the capital of the Canton (County) of Vaud, with 20,724 inhabitants. It is conspicuous on the Lake of Geneva (Lac do Genove or Leman) from a great distance, and is most delightfully situated on the hilly slopes of Mount Jorat, over-shadowed by its cathedral (the most beautiful in Switzerland) on one side, and its castle on the other. The interior of the town produces a less agreeable impression, the streets are mostly steep, and the houses in the older part insignificant. The two quarters are connected by a handsome bridge (Grand Pont) erected between the years 1839 and 1844, also named the Pichard bridge, after the architect who designed it. The almost level causeway which this talented engineer has succeeded in laying down throughout the town, passes under the castle by a tunnel, fifty paces long, near the place called "Place de la Riponne," in which, as well as the new highroad of Berne, called "Rue de Berne" and the Cassino Promenade, the houses are large and handsome.

The cathedral, erected from 1235 to 1275, and consecrated by Gregory X in the presence of Rudolph of Hapsburg, is a Gothic edifice of simple but massive construction. In order to reach the terrace on which it stands, a flight of 104 steps of mean appearance must be ascended from the market place.

In the year 1536 a celebrated disputation took place in this church, in which Calvin, Farel and Viret participated, and which resulted in the episcopal seat being transferred to Freiburg, the separation of Vaud from the Romish Church, and the suppression of the supremacy of Savoy. The interior of this Protestant Church (333 feet long by 148 wide) is strikingly symmetrical in its proportions. The vaulted roof of the nisle, 61 feet in height, is supported by clustered columns of different designs, 20 in number. Two galleries run completely round the aisle and choir, also supported by a number of light and graceful colums. The choir is likewise ornamented with pillars arranged in the form of a semicircle; in the arcades which surround the choir, appears an ancient form of pilaster, a relic of the Burgundian-Romanesque style of architecture. Above the cupola, rises a clock-tower, covered with wrought iron. The old tower was destroyed by lightning in 1820.

The most remarkable monuments are those of Duke Victor Amadeus VIII of Savoy, (died 1451) whom the Council of Basel elected Pope under the title of Felix V, farther on in the choir are monuments to Otto von Grandson, who fell in a duel (1359,) the bishop Wilhelm von Menthonex (died 1406,) the Russian Prince Orlou (died 1782,) the Duchess Caroline von Carland (died 1788,) Harriet Stratford-Banning (died 1818,) first wife of the present Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, at that period ambassador in Switzerland, Countessa Wallmoden-Gimborn (died 1783,) mother of the Countess of Stein, wife of the celebrated Prussian minister, etc. A tablet on the wall of the transept near these monuments bears the following inscription. "Ala memoire du Mayor Davel, mort sur l'echafaud en 1728, le 24 Avril, martyr des droits et de la liberte du peuple Vaudois," a tribute paid to his memory by Laharpe, his successor.

The Terrace (formerly the churchyard) commands a fine view of the town, the lake, and the Alps of Savoy, which is seen to still greater advantage from the summit of the tower, 154 ft. high. The adjoining episcopal palace is now used as a prison and court of justice. The view from the ancient episcopal castle, which stands higher up, is also very fine. The building was erected in the 18th century, but from repeated alterations has lost much of its original character.

Mount Benon, a ridge in the immediate vicinity of the town, at an equal elevation, on the road to Geneva, is laid out with alleys and commands a lovely view of the lake, and serves as a promenade exercising-ground, and a place of assembly. Lausanne and its environs are more beautifully wooded than any of the towns on the east side of the Lake of Geneva. Mount Blanc is seen here if the weather is clear.

On the steep and lofty mountain-slopes which bear the name of "La Vaux," one of the best and strongest white wines of Switzerland is cultivated with the greatest care. Between Lausanne and Freiburg is the lofty viaduct across the valley of the Paudeze. The amphitheatre of mountains becomes grander as the steamboat advances. The Moleson, Dent de Yaman, Rochers de Naye, the Four d'Ay, and the Four de Mayen, Dent de Morcles, Dent du Midi, between these to the south, Mount Catogne, and in the background the snowy pyramid of Mount Velan. If you pass through Vevey (celebrated for its cigars) the Tour de Peilz, Clarens, Montreux and Chillon, which are situated on the east side of the Lake, are visible, next Villeneuve and the mouth of the Rhone where it flows into Lake Geneva; on the south bank of the Lake, the rocks of Meillerie, overshadowed by the Dent d'Oche; at the foot of the mountain the village of St. Gingolph.

To the east side of Vevey is the Bollerive Educational Establishment, well known in many English and American families, founded by M. Sillig. The little fleet belonging to the pupils is visible from the Hotel Moppet, lying at anchor or cruising about on the lake. May God bless you! Yours truly,

FRANKLIN LAUER.

Negro Depredations in Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Dec. 15.

In Haywood county, a few days since, a desperado named Jas. Johnson, the leader of a gang of black horse thieves, was hung, and the citizens were in hot pursuit of the rest of the gang.

In addition to the other crimes, the scoundrels outraged the persons of a number of negro girls in the neighborhood.

About the same time and near the same place, a negro was lynched, after attempting to commit a rape on an old lady.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.

A deputation of spiritualists has waited on Commissioner Rollins asking his interference in the case of the mediums known as the Davenport Brothers, who were arrested in the oil regions of Pennsylvania last Thursday, and carried to Meadville, and there held to bail to appear at Pittsburg before the U. S. Court. They are charged with defrauding the revenue by practicing juggling without paying license. Mr. Rollins refuses to interfere, and there is great excitement among the spiritualists.

Major Warren W. Leland of the Metropolitan Hotel, New York, on Wednesday last presented to General Grant the Sanitary Fair ox, now exhibiting in Boston, and which weighs about four thousand pounds. The Central Republican Committee propose to take charge of his oxship and to offer him up in the form of a barbecue on inauguration day.

A deputation of tobacco dealers are here trying to have the law of 1868 repealed. It requires the payment of increased duties of all stock on hand, and there are other obnoxious clauses. Judge Niblack, of Indiana, has their case in hand.

A bill is in course of preparation, which will be introduced into the House in a few days, prohibiting banks from paying interest on their deposits. It is held that a large amount of money is kept out of circulation, and in many sections of the country a stringency is produced by reason that the banks keep control of all the surplus currency by paying small interest on the sums deposited with them. To prevent this, is the object of the present bill.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 16.—Edward Johnson, who was sent to the penitentiary three years ago for robbing the United States Express Company of $40,000, and who was pardoned by the Governor six months since, having failed to comply with the conditions of his pardon, was taken to St. Louis yesterday from Chicago and sent back to the penitentiary to serve out the remaining twenty six months of his term.

Cunningham, the alleged bigamist, thief, and gay deceiver, has at length been arrested.—His arrest was effected in the town of Cross River, Westchester county, New York, just in time to prevent his marriage to a fourth lady, a widow, whose heart he had won, according to the accounts, in a surprisingly brief courtship. At a preliminary hearing at Lewisburgh on Tuesday he was recognized by the father of the girl he married in East Tarrytown. His other wives will be brought before him at once.

Brig. Gen. N. G. Evans, formerly a distinguished officer of the rebel army, recently died suddenly in Midway, Ala., where he was engaged in teaching.

Peter Philips, under sentence of death for wife murder at Richmond, Va., has been released by Judge Underwood, because of the political disability of the Judges who tried him. Sally Anderson, similarly discharged a few days since, was arrested yesterday, by order of the Mayor.

Five men were drowned while trying to get an ice boat through the Delaware and Raritan Canal, near Trenton, New Jersey, yesterday.

The Reconstruction Committee are hearing testimony in reference to the proposition to throw out the vote of seven counties in Mississippi fraud.

A bill is about to be presented in Congress for the issue of a new series of small coin, and the redemption of the present nickel currency.

The army societies composing the reunion at Chicago organized yesterday. In the evening they met in the Opera House, where an address of welcome was made by Lieutenant General Sherman.

A Kansas letter says General Sully thinks that most of the hostile Indians have retreated to the Camanche country, near the Staked Plains, and that the war against them cannot be brought to an end this winter.

The market house, town hall and other buildings in Raleigh, N. C., were burned yesterday.

Grigg's Hall, in Charleston, S. C., was burned yesterday. Loss, $50,000. Two firemen were killed by a falling wall.

The Pacific Hotel, at St. Joseph, Mo., was burned yesterday. The loss is stated at $100,000. Many of the boarders narrowly escaped with their lives.

Six thousand acres of public land were disposed of in Alabama during November.

The Insurrection in Cuba.

New York, Dec. 16. We are informed that important dispatches, prepared at Havana for the New York Associated Press, within the last few days, have been suppressed by the Cuban authorities. From this it is reasonably to be inferred that the insurgents on the island have won some important successes, which the authorities do not find expedient to have published in the United States.

THE TRIAL OF GEO. W. ALEXANDER.

Full report of this trial will soon be published in book form, by Jacob Hoffman, one of the Counsel of Col. Alexander, containing all the evidence, the speeches of the Counsel, the charge of Judge Cadwalader, the verdict, the reasons for, and arguments for and against a new trial, and the opinion of the Court upon it. It is beyond question the most remarkable case, in all its features, that has been tried in this section of country during the last twenty years. The book will contain in the neighborhood of 400 pages. In order that all classes may obtain a copy, the price will be merely nominal. Mr. Jacob Haenchen, is the authorized agent to obtain subscribers.

For $1000 5-20s of 1868, we would give $1000 Union Pacific Railroad Bond and $93 08 cash.

For $1000 10-40s, we would give $1000 Union Pacific Railroad Bond and $85 38 cash.

In case Central Pacific Railroad Bonds are preferred, the difference would be $10 less on each $1000 exchanged.

The difference will vary slightly as Governments go up or down.
