LOYALTY.

The Dispatch is becoming disloyal. It says the National Debt is increasing too rapidly, but does "the man in Congress" who they propose to do about it? We can answer the question. The "man in Congress" propose to enrich themselves at the expense of the people, and to keep themselves in power by forcing negro suffrage upon all the States. They care not how great the National Debt may become—the greater the debt, the greater the issue of bonds, and the more bonds there are the better chance for "loyal" men to steal from the people. We are glad our neighbor is getting his eyes opened at last; but we warn him that it is useless to expect redress from Congress.

HON. WILLIAM H. GERHARD was born in Cambria township, this county. He was one of the best farmers our county ever had. He managed his farm in a thrifty manner, working himself, as well as doing surveying and construction in the winter time for his neighbors. Some years ago he quit farming and came to Reading. He has been a member of the Board of School Controllers, and taught school occasionally up to the time he was elected Mayor. Voters of Reading this is the man whom the Democrats of this city have put in nomination for Mayor. Could there have been a better choice?

Dr. Philip H. Stetson refused to confirm Gens. Gilliland and Buchanan as Brigadier Generals in the regular army, because those two gallant veterans are Democrats. Sharp on such meanness!

THE DORCHESTER DEMOCRAT says: "Bucks County favors Richard Vaux for Governor."

"Go from home to see the now, 'is an old saying, and the above certainly is news to everybody in these parts. Mr. Vaux has many warm personal friends in this county, but we have never heard his name mentioned in connection with the Governor's election. Under the able management of our present worthy Mayor the finances of our city has been well cared for. He is upright and moral. Quiet and gentlemanly in discharging his duties, he has won the esteem of all quiet and well-disposed citizens. Shall he not be reelected? Voters of Reading you are called upon to decide this question to-morrow."

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

There was more money collected last year for license than in any former year since Reading has been incorporated into a city. We challenge contradiction. Under the able management of our present worthy Mayor the finances of our city has been well cared for. He is upright and moral. Quiet and gentlemanly in discharging his duties, he has won the esteem of all quiet and well-disposed citizens. Shall he not be reelected? Voters of Reading you are called upon to decide this question to-morrow."

H. DIBBLE, Esq., of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg, will accept our thanks for a copy of the reports of the several Banks and Savings Institutions of Pennsylvania.

From the Correspondent of the Philadelphia Standard: "The disinterment and appearance of the remains—preservation of the dress—disinterment at Mount Oliver.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The order for the disinterment of Mrs. Surratt was obtained from the President, by J. A. Walter, pastor of St. Patrick's church, at ten o'clock this morning, and was immediately placed in the hands of Gen. George W. Ramsey, commanding of the Washington arsenal. Positive orders were given that all show and parade on the occasion was to be avoided. Gen. Ramsey intimated Major Hill of the army, to superintend the disinterment.

Mrs. Surratt's body, together with those of the other assassins conspirators, having been some time ago removed from the graves under the scaffold where they were originally interred, were reinterred beneath the flagging of one of the store rooms of the old penitentiary building, and the coffin was ranged in the following order, beginning at the north wall, viz.: Mrs. Surratt, Payne, Arnold, Atzerodt, Witz, the "American" jailor, and Booth. The locality of this place of burial was not known to more than twenty persons until to-day. In accordance with orders, Major Hill superintended the work of exhuming, which was done by a gang of several workmen, under the direction of Mr. Tatayano, one of the foremen. The grave or pit in which all the bodies were placed side by side is apparently about eighteen feet long and eight feet wide, and about six feet deep. The earth was soon thrown out and the coffin was taken up. In digging down the coffin of Payne, which adjested that of Mrs. Surratt, was disclosed. At 3 o'clock the coffin was taken out and handed over to Mr. Richard Harvey, a carpenter, and thereupon retired by a vote of 61 to 7, Louisiana should be counted.

The House came to the same decision by 137 yeas to 63 nays.

The two Houses again met in joint session and the counting was resumed.

When Georgia was reached, Mr. Butler, of Massachusetts, protested against her vote being counted.
