

READING, PA.
MONDAY, MARCH 15, 1869.

The Eagle Book Store, Adler office, DAILY EAGLE and READING GAZETTE & DEMOCRAT have been removed to 512 Penn street, Schmuicker House building, opposite the Keystone House.

Mrs. Jacob R. Breyer is our authorized agent to obtain subscriptions for the DAILY EAGLE, the GAZETTE and DEMOCRAT, and the ADLER. He will commence his canvass of the county at once.

The Editor from Washington is to the effect that the crippled soldier, Capt. Michael Walter, is to be thrown overboard, and that James McKnight is to be Collector of Internal Revenue for this District, with J. T. Valentine as Assessor. Rather hard on Capt. Walter, but "the pen is mightier than the sword," and civilians are of more account than soldiers—except in time of war, when men are wanted to fight; then soldiers are above par. How the Radicals do love the soldiers!

MARK THE TRAITORS!

Twenty years ago it would have been impossible to convince the people of Pennsylvania that in 1869 the majority of their State Senators would dare, without the expressed or implied consent of their constituents, to attempt to force negro suffrage and negro equality upon the people of Pennsylvania. Yet the foul deed has been attempted, openly and boldly, and the people merely look on in disgust, without the spirit to call meetings and demand the resignation of those men who, with all the experience of past years and other countries to guide them, still have the impudence to endeavor to force upon our people the blighting curse of negro suffrage, negro equality and finally amalgamation—the curse which has ruined Mexico, Central and South America, and a great part of the West Indies. In no one single instance has negro suffrage or negro equality failed to debauch and ruin morally, intellectually and physically, every nation which has encouraged or permitted it. In no one instance have negroes, or mixed nations of blacks and whites, shown themselves capable of self government.

There is yet another question involved in this issue, of almost greater import than the deterioration of the governing class of this country. We mean the fundamental principle of the right of the people themselves—not their representatives—to determine the question of suffrage.

The Minority Report of the Committee on Federal Relations in our State Senate, on this question, has brought out this point with great perspicuity and much force, where it says:

"That governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, is a maxim as old as our institutions, and the violation of the principle embodied in it, was more than any other, the cause of the Revolution and the establishment of our independence. It is as true to-day as it was in 1776, that the people are to be consulted when any of their rights or privileges are about to be affected or taken from them.

"Sovereignty is in the people; not in the senate in which this assertion is often lightly made, but in that substantial and important sense which makes it the very basis of our system of government. Our own constitution explicitly provides in the second section of the declaration of rights, 'that all power is inherent in the people.' It was well said by Judge Wilson in the convention held in this State to ratify the Federal Constitution: 'that the supreme, absolute and uncontrollable power is in the people before they make a constitution, and remains in them after it is made. To control the power and conduct of the legislature was an overruling constitution was an improvement in the science and practice of government reserved to the American States. When they have made a State constitution, they have bestowed on the government created by it, a certain portion of their power; but the remainder of their power remains in themselves. It resides in the people as the fountain of government; the people have not—the people meant not—and the people ought not—to part with it to any government whatsoever. In their hands it remains secure. They can delegate it in such proportions, to such bodies, on such terms, and under such limitations as they think proper.'

"The Legislature was elected upon the basis of one political party in the late election maintained that 'the question of suffrage in all the loyal States properly belongs to the people of those States,' whilst the position of the other has uniformly been, that the people of the States are possessed of all power over the rule of suffrage. Both recognize the right of the people, and the Legislature would be recreant to its duty, as well as to the dictates of common honesty to recant the express pledges involved in its election.

"The matter proposed to determine is not, shall this amendment be ratified, but it is the far graver question, shall the people be deprived of their right to pass upon the question of its ratification or rejection? We believe that they should not."

And yet, in the face of all these incontrovertible arguments against such a course, every Republican member of our State Senate voted for negro suffrage on Thursday last; and that in defiance of petitions signed by thousands of their constituents, without distinction of party, remonstrating against the obnoxious measure! Shame, shame, upon Pennsylvania!

To their country, traitors to their State, traitors to their race, traitors to the laws of God and man! Upon them should rest forever the curse of all who love their God, their country, and their fellow-men. Had negro suffrage been merely an experiment, they might have been pardoned; but when it is remembered that negro equality has brought a withering and blighting curse upon every nation which has endorsed it, their conduct becomes inexorable in the sight of every true son of this grand old Commonwealth!

We had hitherto refrained from making comments upon this disgraceful piece of legislation, in the hope that these men would reconsider their action; but so far from repenting, they glory in their infamy! Voters of Pennsylvania, let them never be forgotten! Mark the traitors! Their names, which should go down to posterity with those of Benedict Arnold and Old John Brown—the one the first prominent traitor, the other the first prominent Abolition rebel, in our country—are as follows:

Voters of Pennsylvania, remember!

The sewing women in New York are dissatisfied with the resignation of A. T. Stewart. They hoped that his business would be left in the hands of some person who would pay them more than ten cents for making a fine shirt, as Stewart does. Stewart may be "liberal" in politics, but he is anything else but liberal in his dealings with his starving female operatives.
