CLAIMS AGAINST CITY

City Solicitor James H. Torrey interviewed by a Tribune Reporter.

SUITS THAT AGGREGATE $40,000

They Are Caused by the City Not Obtaining a Release or Properly Assessing the Damages—They Might Have Been Avoided—Each Case Will Be Tried Separately.

Much comment has been caused by the numerous claims for damage that have arisen during the past year, all having their origin in public improvement. Some of these cases date back for several years and the surprising thing about the situation is that Ira H. Burns, ex-city solicitor, is attorney for the claimants in each instance. Indeed Mr. Burns makes no secret of his intentions. He proposes, if possible, to show the city that it was made when he was turned down last spring, and if the signs portend anything, Mr. Burns will be a candidate for the position a year hence.

To learn something about the status of affairs as at present existing, a Tribune reporter waited on City Solicitor Torrey yesterday. Mr. Torrey was loth to speak. He said that he preferred to fight the battle out himself without the aid of the newspapers, but when the reporter pointed out to him the deep concern of the public, he consented to speak.

MR. TORREY INTERVIEWED.
"Why are there so many suits pending against the city at this time?" asked the reporter.
"Because the city has made public improvements, such as grading streets and constructing sewers, and in some cases opening and widening streets, without securing a release or assessment of the damages. Prior to the constitution of 1874 the courts held that there was no liability on the part of municipal corporations for consequential damages arising from municipal improvements. But the constitution of 1874 provided that not only damage for property taken, but also for property injured must be paid by all corporations exercising the right of eminent domain. At least as early as 1851 the Supreme court decided that under this provision of the constitution municipal corporations were liable for any consequential damage resulting to property from the grading of streets. So far as I know no claim was ever made in Scranton for damages for such cases until the present year.

"What is the total amount of the damages, as claimed up to date?"
"In round numbers upward of $40,000."

METHOD OF PROCEDURE.

"What method of procedure will you follow?"
"The statute gives the city the right of appeal from the award of viewers within thirty days after their report has been filed. I have in every case reported to council, when the reports have been filed, and in every case I have been instructed to appeal. A separate appeal must be filed for every individual property for which damages have been awarded. Upon each appeal the court will frame an issue in which the plaintiff and the defendant. Each case will have to be tried on the question, whether the property is damaged, and if so, how much."
"How much time will elapse before the cases get on the trial list?"
"Unless they are advanced by rule, or order of court, from one to two years after they are begun. As in every case a regular jury trial will ensue, the costs, ranging from $25 to $50, to be paid by the losing party."
"Does it make any difference in the case if the property holders petition for the improvements on which they claim damages?"
"The supreme court has held that the mere signing of the petition for improvement, does not stop the property owner from claiming damages. The fact that he has signed a petition may have some weight with the jury upon his claim.

COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED.

"In any way by which the city could have avoided the present difficulty?"
"Yes. The act of 1889 provides that viewers to assess damages, may be appointed before the work is done, and the city, if dissatisfied with the amount of damages awarded, may repeal the ordinance and so escape liability. This method has been pursued in all cases where improvements have been provided for within the present year, unless the property holders voluntarily released the city from any claims for damages."

"What will be the future result, in your judgment, of this step on the part of dissatisfied propertyholders?" Will it not act as a bar to progress and public improvement?"
"Whether or not any portion of the cost of an improvement should be paid out of the general city fund is exclusively a legislative question for the council. The important danger to be avoided is the making of improvements which are liable to result in claims for damage without a clear and distinct knowledge of the amount of these damages. The most important consideration in the minds of property holders is the advances to be derived. Without any previous settlement of the damages the property owners are very apt to forget the benefits and magnify the damages."

"I think the natural result of the present situation will be, that councils will hesitate to pass ordinances for improvement, until claims for damages have been released, or settled at such amounts as the councils are satisfied, ought to be paid out of the general city fund."

CERTIFICATES OF NOMINATION.

January 23 is the Last Day Filing Them with Commissioners.

January 23 will be the last day for filing certificates of nomination with the county commissioners and January 30 the last day for filing nomination papers. The election will be held on February 20, and eighteen days prior to that is the last day to file objections to the nomination papers or certificates.

AT ELM PARK CHURCH.

Impressions Created by the Last Service of the Dying Year.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 3.—The Wilkes-Barre church will spend Sunday in Scranton and does not attend at least one service in the new Elm Park Methodist Episcopal church which offers experience for which, in the opinion of the residents of that city, irrespective of denominational affiliation, he ought never to be able to forgive himself. Just now the Elm Park church in Scranton is a place where the stranger receives a cordial welcome.

Aside from the spiritual benefit which it is hoped all who come may receive, the handsome edifice, the grand organ, the big choir, everything in fact about the new church is dear to the Scranton heart and the people want their enterprise and the magnificence that has resulted from it admired and appreciated by the stranger within their gates. And with all the elegance—and as Dr. Buckley said there is not a handsome Protestant church in the city of New York—and evidence of wealth on every hand, there is no exclusiveness, but the genuine spirit of Methodist hospitality prevails and neither kid glove nor broadcloth is essential to one's welcome.

The death of the old and birth of the new were naturally incidental themes in the evening's service and the sermon by the pastor was an earnest appeal, particularly to the young, to improve the opportunities which are afforded all to win success in life and to prepare themselves for the future. The music was grand and the vocal features were a quartette and a chorus by the full choir. The vast congregation of nearly 2,500 persons in attendance, all apparently in thorough sympathy with the spirit of the occasion. The references to the dying year, the possibly neglected opportunities to correct the errors of the past, the service with a certain solemnity that was felt by every one in the congregation. It was a service long to be remembered, and whatever may be said in depreciation of elegant church associations and surroundings, it cannot be denied that amid such environments, thoughts of heaven are readily suggested, and if one is at all susceptible to heavenly influences he must feel it on occasion like that of last evening at Elm Park church.

HELD FOR MARCH TERM

Man Who Passed Counterfeit Money Will Answer at Court.

BEARING BEFORE COMMISSIONER

The Coin Passed is First-Class in Every Respect Except That the Ring is Not Exact and the Weight of the Dollar is a Little Below the Average—Men Are Held in $5,000 Bail Each.

The two men arrested by Sergeant Spellman and Officer Saul and Sifter, for passing spurious United States coins, the incidents of Providence, on Tuesday night, were given a hearing in police court by United States Commissioner Colborn yesterday morning. They were held in the sum of $5,000 bail each, to appear at the next term of United States court.

There is a large number of witnesses present at the hearing and all identified the men as the ones who passed the coin. Sergeant Spellman and the officers testified to the arrest and to the amount of money both good and bad that was found on their persons. Sergeant Spellman also testified that several pieces as having been found on the men.

When questioned the shavers of the "queer" gave their names as Charles Wells, of Corry, Pa., and Michael Webb, of Franklinville, N. Y. Wells appeared very sorry and Webbs frequently during the hearing. Webb is a hardened customer and looked as if he had been a crook all his life. In his possession was found a poem entitled "Lament of a Convict."

The coin found in possession of the men, was dollars and half dollars and five cent coins. At first sight the money is to all appearances good, as it is made of an alloy that looks like silver. The ring of the coin is not just perfect, and its weight is a trifle under that of the genuine coins.

The business men who were victimized were: M. V. Morris, William J. Jarvis, A. M. Atherton & Co., M. Dale, Enos Flynn, W. B. Christmas, John Morris, A. K. Detweiler, Miss Sehill, Miss Leah, George M. Malley, J. E. Stanton, John J. Morris.

CAUGHT

On the Fly.

Although the present winter has not been especially good for pickeral fishing by the "tip up" process—that is, by holes in the ice—two little pointed stickos arranged that when the fish is hooked, it tilt one end up as a warning—several sizable catches have been reported. Three Carbondale anglers, Mr. Carpenter, Mr. Cook and Mr. Hartman, are reported to have basketed 300 pounds out on Sicker's pond in Greenfield, recently, and another party consisting of two enthusiasts, one day later captured 120 pickeral of reasonable size. One of the best fields for this kind of sport is on Lake Carey, when safely frozen over. The necessary appliances may be rented right at the lake side, and there are hotels and farm houses near, so that crocus flange and toes are entirely unnecessary. Harvey's lake is a fair resort; and so is Lake Ariel. In fact, the opportunities for winter piscatorial pastime are numerous herabouts; more numerous, perhaps, than fishermen hardy enough to brave the necessary cold.

The builders of the city are not overburdened with orders at present, in fact there is a marked lethargy in building circles. A brisk spring and summer is expected, however, as a compensation for the dull winter. There are many men who contemplated making improvements or erecting new buildings during the months just passed, but became frightened at the pay that attacked the business world and helped to increase the trouble by allowing their money to remain idle, thereby giving eloquent evidence of their own distrust.

As soon as the spring opens this delayed volume of building is expected to gush forth and furnish steady employment for the army of men who labor at the building trades in this city. The largest structure to be erected in the city this year, so far as heard from, is the new high school.

By the opening of the regular building season the new Delaware and Hudson station on Lackawanna avenue will be practically completed. The mild weather thus far has favored the work and the building already begins to assume commanding proportions. Iron girders and columns are being used throughout with the intention of making the station as nearly fire proof as possible. When completed it will be an ornament to lower Lackawanna avenue.

Such an ornament as the new Federal building is to the corner of Washington and Linden street. Though board fence that so long surrounded the building has disappeared, the ground has been cleared and Scrantonians begin to appreciate what an attractive looking spot that corner will be when the grounds about Uncle Sam's building are beautified in the spring.

The advance guard of the business army has been steadily advancing on Adams avenue for several years, and the building of the new telephone exchange of the Central Pennsylvania Telephone company on that avenue serves to clinch the hold that business is getting on it. The building is almost completed but it will probably be the April 1, before it will become the home of the young ladies who so sweetly lay "Did you call" and "What number, please?" A number of workmen are now laying cables continuing the telephone wires into the new building, but the work of connecting the wires is tedious and will take some time.

The Frothingham theatre is a building the erection of which has been watched with great interest by Scrantonians. When its erection was begun there were many who staked their reputations as prophets on the assertion that it would never be completed. But work on the building was pushed with vigor and daily the walls grew in height. Now that the building is under foot and considerable interior work accomplished there are fewer prophets who declare that the building will not be completed.

The great people of this country who accomplish so much in the affairs of life have the same wonderful power, whatever may come to them in the line of action on the spot. There is that pile of Harper's, Frank Leslie's, McClure's, Review, North American, Century, etc., that you have read. They are a joy forever, but not a thing of beauty. Our Mr. Schwescher can transform them so that they will become the brightest and most voluminous in your library. As soon as you read this will you not get all the numbers together, before they are lost or soiled, and bring them to THE TRIBUNE (today)? A few cents will give you some beautiful books that will take the place of those rough and ragged magazines.
