The Wilkes-Barre Record editorially pays a handsome compliment to A. A. Mitchell upon his return to the super-intendency of the Wyoming division of the Lehign Valley railroad, which he so ably and successfully filled until made general superintendent of motive nower under the McLeod regime. The Record says: "Not only are the employes of the division delighted, but the general public as well. Mr. Mitch-ell has earned a reputation hereabouts of which any man may feel proud. During the many years covering his connection with the Lehigh Valley he has not only shown himself to be a thoroughly capable railroad man, but a kindly, thoughtful gentleman as well. The men who have grown up under his supervis-ion are among the very best railroaders in the United States. They them all as his children. While insisting at all times upon the faithful performance of their duties, Superintendent Mitchell has always shown such thoughtful consideration of his men as to merit their highest esteem. Search the Wyoming division from one end to the other and you cannot find a single railroad man who has any but the kindliest feelings toward Superintendent Mitchell. Conflicting reports come concerning the alleged recent discovery of anthracite in Delaware county. New York. The story which has gained most general currency is that while Andrew Cookhouse, a farmer living at Thodbottom, near Equinunk, was enlarging a spring on his place he unearthed a substance foreign to the soil of that region, which on close inspection turned out to be coal, and being tested proved of good quality. Enough has been dug since to keep the neighborhoo! blacksmith shop supplied. A coal operator from Wilkes Barre is said to have visited the farm and stated he would lease it, sink a shaft and pay 35 cents a ton for all coal mined. Unfortunately for for all coal mined. Unfortunately for the authenticity of this story, no name is given and hobody in Wilkes-Barre knows who the alleged visitor was. Since Mr. Cookhouse's discovery par-ties have been prospecting Mr. Hul-burt's land, and last week again discovered unmistakable signs of coal, so the narrative has it: but other reports from Equinunk discredit the whole tale, it being asserted that the coal is of insufficient quantity to justify development.

Never since we became known as a business firm have we shown such a marvelously beautiful line of Holiday Novelties. In

REED, RATTAN, FANCY AND PLUSH CHAIRS AND ROCKERS

We show a range of specialties which baffles description. Reception Chairs, Rockers, Corner Chairs, Easy Chairs, Work Tables, Work Baskets, etc., are here in all the daintienss and elegance that art can lend to them, and in such profusion that the only trouble will be in selection.

We desire calling especial attention to our

ONYX CABINETS AND TABLES.

The Marble used is the finest Mexican Onyx, and the Standards are the very beat quality of Brass, highly polished and lacquered.

In Heavier Furniture

We show many specialties in Ladies' Writing Desks and Secretaries, Combination Furniture, Book Cases, Sideboards, etc. All purchased for the holiday trade.

To particularize further is unnecessary. We would simply add that we're making a big bid for Trade, and if Fine Goods, Moderate Prices and Endless variety count for anything, we ought to have it, as no finer stock can be found in this State. OPEN EVENINGS.

HILL & CONNELL,

131 and 133 Washington Avenue.
