Isaac L. Rice Meets with a Severe Setback in Philadelphia Courts.

PETITION FOR STAY IS DENIED. His Counsel Wanted the Annual Election of Officers, Which Takes Place Today, Postponed for Thirty Days.

Today, Postponed for Thirty Days, but Judge Thayer Didn't Look at it in a Friendly Light—Meeting of Anthracite Operators Called for Wednesday—Other Late Developments of Various Kinds.

Silas W. Pettit, of Philadelphia, and Nathan Bijor, of New York, representing stockholders of the Reading railroad are friendly to Isaac L. Rice Saturday morning presented a petition in the Philadelphia court of common pleas asking for an order to postpone the annual election of the company from today till such time as Mr. Rice and his friends, who one week ago obtained access to the Reading stock list, can consult with the stockholders. The petitioners think an extension of thirty days would give them sufficient time in which to endeavor to secure proxies for Mr. Rice's election to the presidency. Judges Thayer, Arnold and Wilson heard argument upon the application, Samuel Dickson and Thomas Hart, jr., representing the Reading company. Judge Thayer refused to grant the injunction.

It probably will be news to most of our readers that Scranton, in the very heart of the anthracite region, with culm banks surrounding it on every side and domestic sizes of the crushed diamonds purchasable at a song's price, last year consumed 9,955 tons of soft coal. But, there is burned 423,191 tons of anthracite, which constitutes its staple. Reading burned 331,941 tons of anthracite to 59,992 tons of bituminous, and the consumption of other cities is shown in the following interesting table:

Table showing consumption of anthracite and bituminous coal in various cities. Columns include City, Anthracite, and Bituminous.

Following is the statement of shipments of anthracite coal (approximated) for week ending Dec. 30, 1893, as compared with the corresponding period last year:

Table comparing anthracite coal shipments for Dec 30, 1893 vs Dec 30, 1892. Columns include Region, 1892, 1893, and Total.

On Wednesday next a meeting of the Anthracite Coal Operators' association will be held in New York to discuss measures for the better protection of the circular price. The open winter has caused less of a demand for coal than was expected and a number of the operators are cutting prices. It is the hope of the members of this association to devise an equitable means of meeting the situation without sacrificing the harmony which has prevailed hitherto among its membership.
