GENERAL NEWS OF INDUSTRIES

Individual Anthracite Operators Now Concede the Wisdom of Harmony.

VERY GRATIFYING UNANIMITY NOW

There is No Desire to Return to the Old Era of Riuinous and Indiscriminate Throat-Cutting—Scrantonians Pleased with the Feeling Prevailing Among Members of the New Association—Other Recent News and Gossip of an Industrial Character.

Although the duty of taking the initiative in some specific action calculated to meet the prevalent crisis in the anthracite trade was at the recent session of the Anthracite Coal Operators' association referred to the executive committee, Scrantonians who were in attendance bring back cheerful reports concerning the harmony that prevailed.

In contrast with the former disjointed and irregular attitude preserved by the individual operators toward vital interests of the trade in anthracite, this new confession of mutuality of interests, and this novel disposition to work together as a unit instead of jangling and jarring factors, are encouraging to those who were largely instrumental in bringing the operators together. The coal trade is like any other kind of business. It responds with immediate emphasis to good or bad management. But unlike most other kinds of business, the raw material in which it deals is not inexhaustible that the present generation of producers or consumers can afford to sit idle under the stress of incoherent and conflicting control, in which investments are jeopardized, production made capricious and prices reduced to a point of unintelligible and indeterminate fluctuation.

Coal experts are investigating the alleged coal beds of Sonora in the interest of a Chicago syndicate. If their report is favorable, the syndicate has agreed to purchase the coal concession, built a railroad from Guaymas to the town of Sonora, and equip the mines with machinery capable of mining 5,000 tons, and put on a line of whalebacks between Guaymas, San Diego, San Pedro and San Francisco, for the purpose of hauling coal to these ports. Experts are also favorable for the opening up and operating of these immense coal deposits and the furnishing to the Pacific coast of that long felt want—cheap coal. Colonel Blanco, of the boundary survey for the Mexican government, while at Yuma last week, expressed his opinion that the Colorado river can be so improved that coal barges can come to Yuma, loaded with coal from the San Marcial coal fields, and that the coal can be laid down here for $4; at most for $5 per ton. It will not be difficult or expensive to keep the Colorado river open for such vessels as are required for that trade.

General Manager Voorhes, of the Lehigh Valley, says: "A summary taken Dec. 23 showed that there had been 3,300 men altogether who had left the service of the company during the strike and of these 1,891 had been re-employed in accordance with the terms of the agreement up to that time. As there has been some question in regard to the number of locomotive engineers who left the service of the company, it may be of interest to state that the total number of such trucks was 527, and up to Christmas day 236 of these men had secured employment with the company, leaving 291, according to the company's pay rolls, who had not got back. In re-employing those men no questions were asked as to their affiliations with any bodies of organized labor, nor has any distinction been made on that account."

The Hendrick Manufacturing company's works in Carbondale are credited with having the largest punching machine in the world. The machine was made after plans of Mr. Hendrick's and is an improvement over former machines in that it works automatically. When in position it will be worth while seeing the big teeth or dies of the ponderous machines come down and chop out blocks of iron as easily as an average person takes a bite from a ripe apple. There are but three or four concerns in America that are so well equipped for the manufacture of punched plates and screens and it is this fact that explains the activity of the Hendrick works when there is depression in all kinds of manufacture all over the country.

The Bethlehem Iron company has closed its steel mill owing to lack of orders, but may not, as reported, close its merchant and puddling mill. The ordinance works will continue running on full time, as the company has plenty of government work on hand. At the company's office in Philadelphia it was said Saturday that the steel mill will not resume operations for some time.

Under the Scenery. President Wilbur, of the Lehigh Valley railroad, contemplates a trip south after the annual meeting Tuesday. After several months of illness the Forestry Electric works resumed with a small force of men at Geneva, O. The big sheet mill of the Union Rolling Mill, of Cleveland, situated at Monro, Ind., will start today, giving employment to several hundred men. The guide mills are also to be started. The Passey & Jones company, whose shops in Wilmington, Del., have been idle about two months, will resume operations in a few days. They have received orders for machinery which will keep the shops running for four months at least. It is believed that the Central Traffic association is near its end. Reading officials say they look for Judge Paxson's return about the end of the month. There is somewhat better demand for cars in the northwest, and the movement of wheel in that section is expected to improve.

The hearing before Judge Cot, at Boston, to appoint a receiver for the New England in Massachusetts has been postponed from Jan. 15 to Jan. 22. Receiver Paxson, of the Reading, is reported as saying in an interview in London: "Our policy is to lop off all unproductive branches and leased lines and to economize in every direction, and to confine the Reading to its sphere as a coal mining and coal carrying property." The Intro Union paper mills, at New Hope, have resumed operations, which plant has been closed since the delivery of Rail mills shut down, will resume operations with 250 men. The Pennsylvania Railroad company has accepted an invitation to make an exhibit at the international fair to be held at Antwerp, from May to December of this year. It has not been decided as to what the display will consist of. Chief of Motive Power T. N. Ely will have his preparation in charge. At the meeting of trunk line presidents, which was held in New York last week, a better understanding regarding passenger rates was reached. A report was made that a big pool was formed. At the Pennsylvania railroad office the report is characterized as unfounded.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Stocks and Bonds. New York, Jan. 13.—There was little activity in the stock market today. The undercurrent was strong in the effort to create a revival of gold shipments, being offset by the more favorable trade reports and the decision of the war and means committee not to tack the income tax matter on the tariff bill. The further accumulation of money at the bank of the bulls, the banks having gained $8,757,025 in surplus reserve. The general market first advanced 1/4 to 1/2 per cent, then fell to the point, but in the financial transactions was firm again under the leadership of Sugar, and left off at or near the best figures of the day. The prominent stocks recorded net gains of 1/4 to 1 1/2 per cent. for the day. Total transactions were only 40,932 shares.
