THE DENVER BOOMER

A History of the Business Career of Humphrey Chamberlin.
HE RIVALLED MONTE CRISTO

He Began Life as a Young Man's Christian Association Secretary, Speculated in Western Real Estate and Made a Fortune—Scrantonians Become Acquainted With His Standing in a Forcible Way.

The announcement of the arrest of Humphrey Chamberlin, president of the Chamberlin Investment Company, which appeared in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, aroused considerable comment about the city. Many victims of the Chamberlin syndicate naturally read with satisfaction the intelligence that the head of the concern is in a fair way to probably be arrested and the history of the Chamberlin will form quite an interesting chapter.

H. B. Chamberlin began in the real estate business in Denver in a small way about ten years ago, afterward taking in his brothers, A. W. and Fred J.

The firm became the Chamberlin Investment company about four or five years ago, the three brothers holding all the stock but a few shares in the hands of clerks. The stock of Humphrey B. was phenomenally large five years ago, but has since been reduced to a million, with unlimited credit. He and Arthur W. each had put up splendid homes in the heart of Capitol Hill.

HELD EXALTED POSITIONS. Until two years ago H. B. Chamberlin was president of the Denver chamber of commerce and board of trade, and for a number of years president of the Young Men's Christian association, in which he was very active. To Trinity Methodist church, of Denver, one of the finest in the United States, he gave $25,000 in cash, and was largely instrumental in securing the rest of the money. To Denver university, a Methodist institution, he presented a grand telescope, which bears his name and is supposed to have cost $50,000. He gave large sums of money to public and educational purposes, and undoubtedly made a huge fortune out of Denver real estate. On his trips to England he was honored at the annual Young Men's Christian association conventions and similar gatherings, and he is one of the best known Americans in the midland counties, from which he drew several millions.

But Chamberlin's ambition carried him far. His Denver success caused him to reach out into almost every city from Galveston and Fort Worth to Tacoma and Seattle. The chief office of the company here is the finest private office in the city and it was crowded with clerks. When western real estate became inactive about two years ago Chamberlin was caught with all sails spread. He stayed off disaster for a year by remaining in England and financing, and at one time had practically closed an issue of bonds based on the property of the company which would have carried him through. It was for three millions. At the last moment it failed. More than a year ago the company assigned with many millions of liabilities.

THE BRANCH OFFICES. Chamberlin had branch offices at New York, Rochester, Fort Worth, Scranton, Detroit, Ulica, San Antonio and Corpus Christi, Texas, and in London and Nottingham, England.

The Chamberlin schemes were boomed in Scranton by an individual by the name of Newman, who claimed to have been a Young Men's Christian secretary in days of yore. Mr. Newman came to this city about two years ago and succeeded in interesting several prominent people in the business.

To outward appearances his mission in Scranton was solely for the benefit of the people interested in Young Men's Christian association work. The Chamberlin had formerly been in the west and had sent representatives about the country to give Young Men's Christian association people and their friends a chance to secure apartments upon the ground floor.

After the business was fairly under way it was noticed that the syndicate became more and more liberal and seemed willing to give all Scranton an opportunity to become wealthy. The local agents of the concern studied the local conditions and eventually prepared circulars and became so impressed with the lucid explanations of the modus operandi of rapid wealth getting that they were ready to make affidavits that the truthfulness of every paragraph.

CITY THOROUGHLY CANVASSED. They canvassed the city thoroughly and succeeded in gathering nearly $50,000 to swell the fund of a land pool at Pueblo, Col. The amounts contributed to the enterprise by different citizens ranged from $100 to $5,000. The largest lump received by the Scranton agent was a check for the latter sum given by Frederick Loulin, the manager of the Fluke University jubilee troupe.

The local investors were hopeful until the failure of the Chamberlins was announced last week. The papers in this city who had been misled by the failure that rendered their land stock worthless for the time, held a meeting some time ago with a view to taking action against Chamberlin after the manner of Mr. Paisley. The majority of the investors, however, did not feel like throwing away more cash and the efforts to secure concerted action against the investment company were unsuccessful.

BEGINNING FEBRUARY 1 DeWitt will present every tenth person to the amount of $100. Over 100 titles to select from hand worked Crayon free of charge. No coupons and no compulsion to buy a frame. We give from one to three every day. You will surely be the lucky person.

TRIBUNE BOOK COUPON.
 FOUR of these COUPONS, presented at The Tribune Office, corner Penn avenue and Spruce street, entitles the holder to all the privileges of a regular subscriber, and for distributing popular books among our readers. The offers made by The Tribune management are as follows:

- 15 CENTS and Four Coupons for any volume in the Columbus Series. Over 100 titles to select from.
- 25 CENTS and Four Coupons for a 10 volume set of Dickens' complete works.
- 30 CENTS and Four Coupons for any book in the Rugby Series.
- 35 CENTS and Four Coupons for any book in the Oxford Series.

Important to Business Men. The TRIBUNE will soon publish a carefully compiled and classified list of the leading wholesalers, banking, manufacturing and professional interests of Scranton and vicinity. The edition will be bound in book form, beautifully illustrated with photographic views of our public buildings, business blocks, streets, etc. The circulation is a plan that cannot fail of good results to those concerned as well as the city at large. Representatives of THE TRIBUNE will call upon those whose names are desired in this edition and explain its nature more fully. We trust our business men will give it their hearty support. Those desiring views of their residences in this edition will please leave notice at the office.

CHILDREN ARE STARVING.

Sad Case of Destitution Discussed by the Associated Charities.

The Board of Associated Charities held a meeting last evening. There were present Colonel Ripple, William T. Smith, T. J. Kelly, T. J. Moore and Mayor Connell. Colonel Ripple presided and T. J. Kelly was secretary pro tem.

Treasurer Smith in his report of the finances acknowledged the receipt of $200.15 during the past week. Mrs. Duggan, agent for the society, reported a total of forty-five cases investigated since the previous meeting. Of this number twenty-eight were found to be worthy and were given assistance. Seventeen were unworthy and were, consequently, dismissed.

The case of Maggie and John O'Rourke of Twenty-first street, was discussed at length. Both are disolute characters and their two children are gradually starving to death. The matter was referred to the child saving committee with instructions to act as the committee saw fit. There is a statute making it a misdemeanor for a man to neglect his family and O'Rourke will probably be arrested under this act and the children placed in some charitable institution.

Miss Dale, of Jefferson avenue, entertained a number of her friends at a progressive party on Wednesday afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. Frank Jermyn, Mrs. Dale, Mrs. Myron K. Kasson, Miss Ruth Dale, Miss Sue Jermyn, Miss Emma Jermyn, Miss Grace Kingsbury, Miss Blair, Mrs. George Jermyn, Miss Gilmore, Miss Elsie Gilmore, Miss Yardley, East Orange, N. J.; Miss J. J. of Columbia, Miss; and Miss Adams, of Vermont.

Mrs. George M. Hallstead of Quincy avenue, will give a tea this afternoon to a number of her friends. It will be followed by a card party in the evening.

Miss Sue Jermyn and Miss Ball of Columbus, Miss, will attend at dance at Harrisburg this evening.

Mrs. Frank E. Platt will entertain friends at a thimble party tomorrow afternoon in honor of her sister.

KIND WORDS OF FRIENDS.
 Pittston Gazette.

It will be most agreeable news to the many Pittston friends of L. S. Richard, who for two years was a valued member of the Gazette staff to learn that he has been made managing editor of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE with full charge of the editorial and news departments, taking the place vacated by Dr. Leete. Since leaving Pittston, Mr. Richard has spent two years in the service of the Tribune. These years of valuable experience, coupled with brilliant talents particularly well adapted to newspaper work, contribute to make Mr. Richard's selection for this position most a proper one. All who are acquainted with his abilities congratulate the directors of the TRIBUNE company on the wisdom displayed in advancing one who has proved himself so worthy of confidence and ability and the journal on which Mr. Richard did his first newspaper work in this section, the Gazette takes pride in noting the success which he is achieving in his new profession and extends hearty congratulations.

An Enlarged Opportunity.
 Wilkes-Barre Record.

Mr. Richard is one of the best editorial writers in the state and has already left his impress upon the pages of THE TRIBUNE. With the enlarged opportunities that afforded him he will be enabled to give still further evidence of his talents. We do not know which to congratulate Mr. Richard on—the success of THE TRIBUNE, or his own advancement.

Editor Leete's Acknowledgment.
 Scranton Gazette.

ATON N. Leete yesterday resigned as editor of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE. He will be succeeded by L. S. Richard, Dr. Leete's late associate. Mr. Richard is a young man of high literary attainments and a vaulting ambition, and will lead THE TRIBUNE up to its present exalted standard. We wish him all the success he deserves.

Stands in the Front Rank.
 Philadelphia Press.

L. S. Richard has become the editor of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE and is giving abundant evidence of his ability and ability and journalistic experiences. THE TRIBUNE is a new paper, but it stands in the front rank among the daily papers of the state, and under the able and popular editor it is destined to still further advancement.

It Occupies a High Position.
 Philadelphia Inquirer.

L. S. Richard, the brilliant newspaper writer and versatile essayist, who numbers many warm friends in this city, has within the past few days been appointed managing editor of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE, of which journal he has been associate editor for the past two years. THE TRIBUNE occupies a high position in the list of inland Republican dailies, and under the talented direction of Mr. Richard it is bound to attain still further popularity and much greater power.

The Best Scranton Paper.
 Philadelphia Times.

L. S. Richard has been called to the chair of managing editor of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE, in the place of Dr. Leete, and it is a deserved advancement and recognition of a worthy and excellent writer. Mr. Richard has helped to lead THE TRIBUNE into the high standard and popular favor now occupied, and his labors, now that they are untried, will find better play in shaping the course of the best morning paper in metropolitan Scranton. Mr. Richard enjoys public confidence and esteem in a marked degree, and has achieved well-won success in his profession by deserving it and by the exercise of rare tact and merit.

The Republic Savings and Loan association, of New York, having sold over 2,000 shares of its stock in Scranton, has called a meeting for Friday, Feb. 2, at 4 p. m., at its office, Dime Bank building, for the purpose of electing officers and directors. New shares will also be offered for sale. B. C. Case, manager, agency department, and L. G. Gadd, general manager, will be present and explain the plan and purposes of the association. Come and bring some one with you.

CHARGED WITH ARSON

Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland Tried for That Offense Before Judge Gunster.

TESTIMONY HEARD IN THE CASE

Chief of the Fire Department Ferber Says He Found Three Fires Were Kindled in the House Occupied by the Rowlands—Furniture and Clothing Had Been Removed—Other Cases of the Day.

John Rowland and his wife, Mrs. Mary Rowland, were tried before Judge Gunster yesterday charged with having on Oct. 3 last set fire to a house on Albright avenue owned by Edward C. Dimnick, which they occupied under a lease. It is alleged that the building was fired to enable Rowland to collect on a policy of $370 issued by the Iron City Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburg on the furniture and personal effects of the Rowlands, Colonel H. F. Fitzsimmons and Attorney C. H. Soper. They were tried before District Attorney Kelly represented the Commonwealth. H. E. Ferber, chief of the fire department, was the prosecutor.

George H. Merritt, the agent of the Iron City Mutual Fire Insurance company, was the first witness called. He said that on Sept. 25, 1893, his company issued a policy on the furniture and effects of the Rowlands for $370. On Oct. 4, 1893, the fire and consequent destruction of the property insured were reported by Mrs. Rowland. He visited the place and found but little furniture or clothing.

H. E. Ferber was the second witness called. He said that about 5 o'clock on Oct. 3, and alarm of fire was sounded. He proceeded to the house of the Rowlands on Albright avenue and found that the fire was about extinguished, with the exception of a blaze in a cupboard behind the kitchen stove, which he put out with an extinguisher.

THREE FIRES FOUND.
 The chief then made an examination of the premises, and besides the fire in the kitchen found there had been a fire in the parlor and a third in a room on the second floor, and another under a table in the parlor on the first floor. In this last room tables were piled one upon the other, and on top of them was a chair topped by a piece of board which was close to the ceiling.

Under the table was a sack of papers saturated with kerosene oil, but they seemed to be placed so close together that they could not burn. After the loose edges were charred the fire burned itself out. He could discover no connection between any of the three fires. They were entirely separate, one from the other. Part of the furniture and clothing had apparently been removed from the house.

Chief Ferber's testimony was corroborated with regard to the appearance of the three rooms in which fires were discovered by A. K. Detweiler, O. P. Miller and Jacob K. Smith, members of the jury. They were at the house on the day of the fire.

Mrs. Mary English and Mrs. Mary Brown, her mother, testified that on the day of the fire they noticed that lace curtains had been removed from the windows and that some of the furniture had been removed from the house.

WANTED MORE INSURANCE.
 J. D. Evans, an insurance agent, swore that a few days before the fire Mr. and Mrs. Rowland called upon him and told him they wanted to have their furniture insured right away. He promised to call at their house, but neglected to do so. G. Boland, another insurance agent, testified that he was employed all day in the Mt. Pleasant mine and did not return home until after the fire had been extinguished. He explained the three apparently distinct fires by saying that the fire from the kitchen crept around into the parlor and then worked to the second floor. All of his furniture and clothing was in the house when he left in the morning, and such as was not burned he saw about the house and yard after the fire.

MRS. ROWLAND'S STORY.
 Mrs. Rowland was next called. She said that on the afternoon of the fire she had been out in the rear of the house digging potatoes. About an hour before it broke out she was last in the house. She left the front and rear doors open and several of the windows were raised. She said that all of her furniture and effects were in the house and yard after the fire. None of them had been carried away in advance.

Mrs. Rowland had a little babe with her in court. She said that herself, husband and child have been in jail ever since Oct. 4. Since that time two of her children, who were committed to one of the homes for children in this city after her arrest, have died. She shed copious tears when relating this fact.

Oley Thompson swore that Rowland was employed by him as a laborer in the Mt. Pleasant mine on the day of the fire. He left him in the mine at 3 p. m. on that day and did not see him again until after the fire had been extinguished when he observed him returning from work.

FURNITURE PILED UP.
 He saw the furniture piled up in the front room and took it down and distributed it about. It looked bad, he testified, to see the furniture piled up, as people might think the house was set on fire. The boys who came into the house after the fire piled up the furniture again, and it was in that condition when Chief Ferber arrived. Mr. Thompson said that it was out half an hour before the firemen arrived, and that "you say the fire was extinguished before the fire companies arrived?" asked Mr. Fitzsimmons.

"Yes, sir," promptly replied Mr. Thompson.

"That's the usual way," commented the chief.

"Well, I believe you a member of Hook and Ladder company," retorted District Attorney Kelly, and the matter was allowed to drop.

The defense rested and Attorney Soper called the attention of the court to the fact that the furniture piled up shown that the issue was an organization the Iron City Mutual Life Insurance company which the defendants are charged with burning the building for the purpose of defrauding.

FACT NOT MATERIAL.
 Judge Gunster ruled that the fact was not material, as the issuing and acceptance of the policy was sufficient for the purposes of the case. Mr. Soper then began his closing address to the jury. His remarks for several minutes were directed to the insurance companies and George H. Merritt, whom he handled without gloves. Finally District Attorney Kelly interposed and asked that Mr. Soper be compelled to confine his remarks to the case at issue.

Mr. Soper said that he would confine his animadversions to the case and proceeded. He commented unfavorably on the fact that a certain paper had been served on Rowland in his cell in the county jail Wednesday night by the district attorney.

MR. SOPER CALLED DOWN.
 This statement brought the district attorney again to his feet and this time it was plain to see that he was angry. Addressing Judge Gunster he said:

"I would like to have the court instruct this gentleman to stop lying about this case to the jury."

He then proceeded to inform Mr. Soper that no paper of any kind had been served by him on Rowland at the county jail. The argument was proceeded with but until it closed Mr. Soper continued to express himself freely concerning the insurance company and the district attorney Mr. Merritt. The latter he referred to as a "very bright, very smooth and very glib young man who jumps up and interferes with the administration of justice."

In opening his address to the jury Mr. Kelly said he would not attempt to answer Mr. Soper's argument for if he did he would say nothing about the case as Mr. Soper had kept entirely aloof from the facts.

MR. KELLY CRITICIZES.
 "There is one man at this bar," continued the district attorney, "who does not seem to be able to stick to the facts in a case and stand before a jury and tell the truth. Maybe you can guess who that attorney is. His name proceeds to show where Mr. Soper had made many misleading statements during his address."

William Rowland, son of John Rowland, was indicted for the same offense as his parents, but did not appear for trial. Judge Gunster directed that he be included in the trial, but as there was no evidence to connect him with the trial, he will be acquitted. At 5 o'clock Judge Gunster finished his charge and the jury retired.

A RUSH FOR JUSTICE.
 Zelinaki was roughly handled before he escaped and Rice, knowing that he would be arrested for the result of the peace, hastened to have Zelinaki arrested on a trumped up charge of burglary. At 3 o'clock the case was given to the jury, but a verdict had not been returned up to the time court adjourned. Immediately afterward Barber and Rice were put in the cell charged with assault and battery by Zelinaki.

A verdict of not guilty was reported yesterday morning in the case of Edward Loughlin and Anthony Long charged with feloniously wounding Prof. J. E. Hawker.

A poll process was entered on payment of the Central area as follows: Otto Sohne charged with aggravated assault and battery by Jacob Sonne.

NEW RAILROAD RULES.
 They Went Into Effect on the Jersey Central Road Yesterday.

The new rules and regulations for the government of the Jersey Central employes have been issued, and went into effect yesterday. The same rules will also be adopted by the Lehigh Valley and all eastern lines.

The principal changes from existing rules on the Central area are as follows: Green flags and lights will be used on the rear ends of trains as markers, instead of red, as now. Night trains will also carry two red lights as danger signals in addition to the green markers.

North bound trains will have unlimited right of way over north bound trains of the same class.

Five blasts from the locomotive whistle will call the flagman back, instead of eight as now. Three long blasts when the train is running is a signal that the train has parted.

The cord signals on passenger trains will be one blast to start, two to stop, three to stop at next station. When the train is standing two blasts are signal for the engineer to call in the flagman.

As the new rules require the more frequent use of the whistle, engineers should ponder well the words which say: "The unnecessary use of whistle is prohibited, when necessary in shifting at stations and in yards the engine bell should be rung, and the whistle used only when required by rule or law, or when necessary to prevent accident."

Second District Republicans.
 In pursuance of a resolution of the standing committee of the Republicans of the Second legislative district, a convention will be held in the arbitration room at the court house, city of Scranton, on Tuesday, Feb. 13, 1894, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing one delegate to represent said district at the state convention to be held in Harrisburg on Wednesday, Feb. 10, between the hours of 1 and 7 p. m.

IT IS STILL MISSING

The Pole Tax Ordinance Was Not Before the License Committee.

MR. GRIER WANTED TO INSIST

As There Was No One to Insist on It Could Not Be Done—Mr. Golden Objected to Turning Delivery—Another Ordinance Will Be Ready to Be Reported on at Monday Night's Meeting.

That Browning ordinance, taxing telegraph, telephone and electric light and street car poles $1 each has not yet materialized. It was confidently asserted by persons interested in the ordinance that it would be in its proper box last night waiting for the license committee of the common council to act upon it, but it was not.

At 8 o'clock last night Chairman James J. Grier assembled his committee, consisting of P. H. Golden, Morison Sweeney, Daniel P. Battle and Henry Williams, and proceeded to discuss the situation. He told them that the ordinance they met to consider had been stolen and wanted to know what they would do about it.

Mr. Sweeney thought that the only thing they could do would be to instruct the chairman of the committee to collaborate with the city solicitor and evolve another ordinance that would take the place of the one stolen. This suggestion met with approval, but Mr. Williams did not think it could be done while the lost, strayed or stolen ordinance was wandering about the city in some one's inside vest pocket. The other members of the committee, except Mr. Grier, did not think it mattered much where it wandered to, as it did not prevent another ordinance from being drafted.

GRIER WANTED THE ORDINANCE.
 Mr. Grier said he thought the committee should insist on the ordinance being produced, but Mr. Golden was unable to discern anything to insist on as there was absolutely nothing before the committee. Mr. Grier again claimed the attention of the committee.

"There are two members of the common council," he said, as he slowly closed his left eye and then deliberately opened it again, "who have publicly stated that they are in favor of a $1 ordinance and for that reason they voted to kill the ordinance taxing poles 50 cents each. Now I believe in giving these gentlemen an opportunity of moving for a reconsideration of that ordinance and then amending it to read $1 per pole. If they refuse to do so let us have an ordinance ready to report and see that the council passes upon it without delay."

Mr. Golden again reminded Mr. Grier that there was nothing before the committee and Mr. Golden replied: "There was something before us but it was stolen from us and it is our duty to find out where it went." Mr. Golden then suggested that the city appropriate money for detective service and can hardly expect its councilman to become Monsieur LeCocq.

NOTHING WOULD BE SAFE.
 "If we let this matter go everything that goes to committee will be stolen," declared Mr. Grier. "That's the easiest way of killing an ordinance if allowed and tolerated by the council."

It was decided to have another meeting of the committee before Monday night's council meeting, and if the ordinance has not been materialized another will be substituted for it in case those who favor a $1 tax on poles refuse to reconsider and amend the fifty cent ordinance.

Ellsworth Drives, one of the councilmen referred to as favoring a $1 tax, said after the committee adjourned that he would not assist in reconsidering the old ordinance but will give the $1 tax ordinance his most earnest support. He declared that it will be passed by the council.

J. W. Browning, father of the lost ordinance, said after the common council meeting, and if the common council before it adjourned last night that if the ordinance does not make its appearance by Monday night he will introduce a similar measure.
