Another Anarchist Creates Excitement in a Parisian Hotel.

OVER TWENTY PERSONS WOUNDED

Edeon Breton, an Anarchist, Aged Twenty-three Years, Throws a Bomb into a Crowded Cafe—It Explodes with Terrific Force, Wounding a Number of People—The Mischief Under Arrest.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Edeon Breton, 23 years old, threw a bomb in the cafe of the Hotel Terminus, at the St. Lazare railway station this evening. The bomb exploded in the middle of the room and wounded twenty persons. An instrumental concert began in the cafe, which is on the ground floor of the hotel, at 8 o'clock. Shortly before 9 o'clock, a pale, young man, with a light pointed beard, paid for a drink which he had taken at a table in the middle of the room and started to leave. When near the door he turned suddenly, drew a bomb from his coat, and threw it toward a group of persons who were next to him. The bomb struck an electric light fixture, then fell on a marble table and exploded. The great hotel and station were rocked by the shock. The mirrors, windows and doors were blown to atoms. The ceiling and floor were rent, and the walls were cracked. A dense, offensive smoke filled the cafe for four minutes, and in the obscurity the bomb thrower escaped. When the smoke cleared away, five persons were found severely wounded and fifteen had slight injuries. The bomb had been filled with bullets and lumps of iron, which had riddled the furniture and walls and inflicted most of the wounds.

A POLICEMAN SHOT.

After leaving the cafe the bomb thrower started down the street on a run. Three policemen had just passed in an omnibus when the explosion occurred. They were going on duty and jumped to the street the moment they saw the fugitive. They immediately turned on them as they called to him to stop, and fired five shots. Policeman Poisson fell, badly wounded in the side. Policemen Lenoir and Bigot, however, continued the pursuit, and with the help of Policemen Barbes and a water named Tatisier, crept after and arrested the bomb-thrower. They took him to the police station in the Rue de Moscou, where, after some hesitation he gave his name and age. The prefect of police, M. Laurent, chief secretary to M. Dubouat, minister of the interior, and several other high officials were summoned to the station, and the examination of the prisoner was begun. Police Commissary Gavrel taking the evidence.

MEANTIME THE SOUND OF THE EXPLOSION

had attracted a great crowd to the hotel terminus. Doctors, Surgeons, Bouffes and Thiers offered their services. They obtained bandages and drugs from a nearby apothecary, and dressed the wounds of the injured, some of whom had been carried to the hospital, others to the drug stores in the neighborhood. At 11 o'clock only an incomplete list of the injured could be obtained. It was as follows: Mr. Borde, both legs pierced by bullets and pieces of iron; Mme. Leblanc, of 34 Rue d'Amsterdam, skinbone fractured; Mme. Leblanc's brother, ear split and body bruised; unidentified man, wounded in the intestines by a flying piece of marble; Danne, Vanhest, Requet, Foubert, Raymond and Lanestan, cut or torn by fragments of marble or glass.

A WALKING ARSENAL.

The United Press correspondent was admitted to the Rue de Moscou police office shortly after the arrest. Breton sat handcuffed between two policemen. He showed the flick of his hasty flight and smile with the police. Otherwise he looked calm and comfortable. The removal of his outside coat had revealed a collarless flannel shirt and the general garb of a workman. In his pockets the police had found a pair of brass knuckles, a dagger, a Stedman knife, a 6-chambered revolver, a gold half loon, two franc pieces, eleven sols and a small silver locket containing a lock of brown hair tied with a ribbon. At first he refused to talk, telling the police that it was their business to find out who he was. After giving his name and age he again became silent. Eventually he added that he was a cabinet maker and had just arrived in Paris from Marseilles this morning. "Yes, I am an anarchist," he exclaimed irately in response to reiterated questions, "and the more of the bourgeoisie I killed, the better it would please me."

DEATH OF A BREWER.

William Miles Instantly Killed by Falling from a High Window. NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—William A. Miles, the brewer, head of the firm of William A. Miles & Co., No. 59 Christie street, was instantly killed at 10 o'clock this morning by falling from the room of the drying room of the brewery into the yard. Mr. Miles fell about fifty feet. His head was terribly crushed and almost every bone in his body was broken. No one witnessed the accident and consequently no one knows how it occurred. Mr. Miles was 55 years of age and had been in the brewing business for many years and was a very wealthy man.

ATTEMPTS TO AID DA GAMA.

Many Insurgent Sympathizers Arrested at Rio—The Presidential Election. MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—A dispatch dated at Rio de Janeiro on Feb. 7 reached this city by mail yesterday. It stated: "Attempts have been made on land recently to help the insurgent fleet, but they have collapsed, as the names of the plotters were betrayed to the government, and the leaders of the conspiracy were arrested. Among the prisoners were twenty officers, two of them general."

ATTEMPTS TO AID DA GAMA.

Reports of insurgent movements in the south are contradictory. It is reiterated that the insurgents are still pushing across the San Paulo frontier. Although the large army long expected to reinforce the insurgent fleet has not appeared, Admiral Da Gama has gained recently. Many men have joined the fleet and abundant supplies have reached him from the nearby country. It is said that on Monday some seventy men entered the city to render naval service. The government is about to transfer troops to Rio Janeiro from Niteroy and strengthen its forces in the south, notably in San Paulo, but there is no sign of its taking the offensive. Its war ships are still at Bahia. Commander Niteroy has resigned. The insurgent fleet has ceased interfering with foreign merchantmen, and a small amount of commerce is carried on.

HE SHAVES THE PAY ROLL.

A Banker at Butler Discounts Wages of Unemployed. NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The Pittsburgh and Western railroad is several months in arrears in the payment of wages. The employees are rejoicing in that they have discovered how at a small cost they can secure their money as fast as it is due them. J. H. Campbell, a banker of Butler, Pa., is engaged in buying up the time of the railroad employees at a slight discount. Last week Mr. Campbell bought up $12,000 in orders. He then sought an interview with the officials of the road and presented his claims at their face value. The Pittsburgh and Western people flatly refused to pay Mr. Campbell his money. The gentleman lost no time in issuing an attachment on certain property of the Pittsburgh and Western company. Hardly had he done so than the railroad officials pronounced the money demanded by the Butler banker. Mr. Campbell again purchased orders amounting to $5,000. The railroad officials again demurred, but when threatened, paid over the cash. It is estimated that over $300,000 is due the employees, and Mr. Campbell is endeavoring to purchase all the orders. On his first day Mr. Campbell cleared over $600. The railroad company declines to permit the employees to go to Butler on passes, but the men are paying their fare and flocking to Mr. Campbell's bank in droves.

THE TRIAL OF THE RIOTERS.

Fifty-Eight Men Arraigned at Pittsburgh Before Judges Keene and Magee. PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12.—All of the defendants of the Mansfield valley seemed to be present at the court house this morning, either as witnesses or spectators at the trial of the fifty-eight men charged with the rioting at Keene and Magee occupied the bench. The trial of fifty-eight men at one time is something unprecedented in the history of Allegheny county. District Attorney Burleigh, assisted by Harry Geering, has charge of the prosecution. The defendants are represented by Attorneys Rowland, Blackley, Miller and Stoeck. The jury was completed by 11 o'clock and Mr. Burleigh opened the Rare Occurrence of the Phenomenon in Two Successive Winters. NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 12.—The rare case of an ice bridge forming on two successive winters in the Niagara gorge, below the falls, has again occurred. The high wind of the past few days broke up the ice in the lake and sent it down the river. It began tumbling over the falls yesterday at an enormous rate and at 8 o'clock last night the gorge was jammed so that a bridge hung at the foot of the falls, and the bridge composed mainly of slush ice and is very solid.

An Interesting Exchange of Compliments Between Vice-President Green and Mr. Thompson. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Philadelphia and Erie railroad company was held today. Secretary Van Sandt read the annual report of the directors which showed that the cost of operating the road in 1893 was $1,500,000, a 2-10 per cent in the preceding year. The increase in net earnings last year over 1892 was $35,398 and after the payment of interest and other charges the net balance is $207,436. The gross earnings in 1893 were $3,194,873 and the operating expenses $1,687,437. The report was unanimously adopted.

The proceedings were enlivened by a battle of words between Second Vice-President John P. Green, of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and Export Accountant David S. Thompson, of the Erie company. Mr. Green said that the world's hostilities grew out of an intimation made by Thompson that the Pennsylvania railroad directors of the Philadelphia and Erie, they being a majority of the board, would suppress any attempt to have the Erie's management investigated by the board. The intimation was presided by others of a like nature, all tending to cast reflection upon the integrity of the Pennsylvania's treatment of the Philadelphia and Erie minority stockholders. Captain Green retorted the allegations, and the broker present, L. H. Kyrle, C. C.
