

FOR A CHILD'S PARTY

HOMEMADE FAVORS THAT GIVE SATISFACTION TO LITTLE PEOPLE.

Celluloid Bookmarks Are Popular, and So Are Little Japanese Baskets—Brownie Dolls Afford Amusement—Tulip Shaped Bonbon Boxes Are Acceptable.

The best part of an entertainment for children is often what they bring home in the way of favors. They will exhibit them with pride and delight, treasuring the most ordinary little souvenir with as much satisfaction as their elders would a choice bit of bric-a-brac.

Homemade efforts in this direction need not require much time, and a small sum of money will purchase the needed materials.

The Household makes the following helpful suggestions and gives directions for making favors:

Little celluloid bookmarks painted with bright flowers and tied at the ends with a bow of baby ribbon to match will

MAKING FAVORS.

Make the little folks' eyes sparkle, especially if they can read their own name on it lettered in gold paint. It serves also to designate their place at table. The small Japanese baskets at 3 cents each, if finished inside with a bag of bright colored silk, which may often be made from odds and ends found in the piece bag, will be a source of great pleasure to them.

Brownie dolls, made of thick water color paper, painted to represent the different grotesque figures of the Brownie family, will occasion great hilarity. If one has artistic skill for copying, they may be easily made, and a long narrow strip of paper pasted on the back at the shoulders will serve to make them stand.

Another set of favors made from water color paper are more easily accomplished. They are made and colored to represent a tulip. Two slits are cut in each petal, through which narrow ribbons are run, the ends being tied in a small bow, thus bringing the tulip into shape and holding it there, as shown by the sketch.

These are made by cutting a figure in shape like the diagram. The distance from the center to the tip of each petal should be about 3/4 of 4 inches. Slits are then made in it as indicated in the diagram. The petals are colored to represent the tulip in red and yellow, red and white, pink and white, etc. The tulips are then filled either with peppermints, gumdrops, molasses drops or some simple candies. When placed at each plate, filled and tied with their bright ribbons, they are exceedingly decorative, and the children beam with delight over tulip and contents.

How to Tie Shoestrings. "Stop a minute. My shoestring is untied." "Oh, dear! What a nuisance! Your shoes are always untying, and there's our car coming." Result, fuss and bad temper. Though a shoestring is a very easy thing to tie, not one person in a hundred knows how to do it.

A Unique Penwiper. A clever notion for the small boy or girl to work out is the wishbone penwiper. It is a simple little affair, but ranks foremost among novelty trifles for the writing desk. Golden Days gives an illustrated description of how to make it.

FOR TEA OR BAZAAR TABLE.

A Unique Souvenir That May Be Had Also For Children's Parties.

A Japanese novelty that made its bow to the guests of a recent Japanese tea is so clever yet so inexpensive a gift that it deserves to receive special recognition. It is suited as a favor for children's parties as well as the teas of grown-up people.

A JAPANESE NOVELTY.

The hostess of the tea alluded to along with other very chic notions in table decorations originated this cunning souvenir, one of which was placed at the plate of each guest. Just how it is fashioned was recently told in Golden Days. Begin with two gaily decorated Japanese napkins. Lay them down one above the other and fill in the center of the paper with cotton batting which has been generously sprinkled with white iris, sandalwood or sweet orchid scented. Stand upright upon the cotton a baby Jap and then gather up the edges of the napkins and secure them just below the Jap's waist with a bit of baby ribbon. You will find that the batting has given you a substantial foundation for the whimsical affair.

As finishing touches to the dainty, stick a tiny Japanese umbrella back of the saucy fellow, tuck a fan at each side and then see what a pretty trifle it makes, with the crumpled ruffles of paper about the brightly robed Jap, the umbrella sheltering him and the gay fans at his side. And the cost? Well, the two napkins will be but 2 cents, the umbrella 3 cents, the fans 1 cent apiece and 5 cents for the baby. If your sachet is bought in bulk, it will be a very small item in the cost of the Japanese novelty.

PRETTY CHILDREN.

Good Looks Dependent Largely on the Care Bestowed While They Were Infants.

A mother who has tried experimenting on her own little ones, with success writes as follows in The Housewife: As soon as the nurse has left take the child in hand yourself. In the morning, after the bath, put it through its exercises. Take the tiny button of a nose between your finger and thumb, just above the nostril for a bridge, move your fingers gently down two or three times to the tip. Be sure you do this tenderly, or you may hurt the delicate, barely set cartilage, or bring the flesh down too much, and so make the nose thick at the end. The happy medium is easy to find.

Wet the first finger and gently follow the shape of the eyebrows (the first month or two there is often no hair to mark where they ought to be) to insure a delicate arch and a finely penciled point instead of a wide spreading straight line. These two should be done without fail every day till the child is 4 or 5. One day, when the baby is asleep, let its eyelashes be cut ever so little. If nervous yourself, do not attempt it, as one false slip may seriously injure the child. In that case get some one else to supply your place—nurse, friend or your family doctor.

As to the hair itself, a great deal can be done to prevent a child having lank, heavy hair. From the time the first few hairs begin to appear on baby's head, directly it has been bathed, and while its hair is wet, brush it up the wrong way. It may not look so trim and tidy as when brushed smoothly down, but it is worth a good deal to insure curly hair, and the treatment will do much in most cases. When first the hair begins to grow in real earnest, do not let it get long and straggly. Have it cut frequently, though only just a shaving need be taken off each time.

I have purposely left the most important rule to the last. If you want pretty children, keep them happy. I do not mean spoil them, but try to understand their characters, to make them obey the rule of love, and above all don't keep on scolding them. Peevishness, which, by causing the corners of a child's mouth to droop, would spoil a baby Venus, is generally the result of ill health. Treat it as such. One final word: If your children grow up good looking, do not allow your friends to tell them so, for vanity and self consciousness neutralize the charms of childhood as of maturity.

Some New Trimmings.

A long range of new trimmings has fringes formed of bunches of spearheads of jet clustered together, and some of the drops are shaped like fans, larger than spearheads. Tassels of these play an all important part, and deep fringes are used. The trimmings, which follow the idea of the circular cuttings, are sometimes crocheted with cord and jet. Motre ribbons and galons are a dominant idea, these being often worked in designs with sequins or smaller paillettes. Some of the wide makes of such ribbons have fringes falling from the edge. An extremely pretty novelty is a light make of lace worked all over with jet, plaited with a narrow jet galon down the center, ready for trimming capes and mantles. Occasionally leaves of jet are laid on the plaits of lace. Sometimes there is only one row with a jet heading, but often the lace is joined down the center and covered with jet, the ornamental border of the lace showing at each edge. Then, again, this class of trimming is diversified with deep fringes and deep vandykes of jet.

A Unique Penwiper.

A clever notion for the small boy or girl to work out is the wishbone penwiper. It is a simple little affair, but ranks foremost among novelty trifles for the writing desk. Golden Days gives an illustrated description of how to make it.

WISHBONE PENWIPER.

A good sized wishbone is required for the foundation. Upon the upper portion of the bone a head is supplied by black sealing wax, having white beads for eyes. On the head a cap of red cloth, trimmed with white beads, is tucked. Several circlets of red cloth, edged with beads, are prepared. Through these the head is thrust, the legs appearing beneath the edge of the skirts. The feet are also formed of sealing wax. On the cloth skirt, which acts as penwiper, some lines are printed, as for instance:

Once I was a wishbone And grew upon a hen. Now I am a little slave And made to wipe a pen.

Sauce For puddings.

A nice sauce for any baked or boiled pudding is made by creaming a cup of sugar with a tablespoonful of butter. Add the beaten yolk and then the white whipped stiff. Flavor to taste. If a soft sauce is preferred, stand the bowl containing this mixture over a kettle of boiling water, and add, stirring the while, one-half pint of boiling water.

A Good Coffee Cake.

One heaping cupful each of sugar and strong coffee, a scant half cupful of shortening, 8 scant cupfuls of flour, 8 teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted with the flour, cinnamon and cloves.

Restores Lost Health Miss LOTTIE CARSON, of Saratoga, Mich., writes: "I have been troubled with a terrible headache for about two years and could not get anything to help me, but at last a friend told me to take your Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after taking two bottles I have not had the headache since."

The Last Day

ON retiring from its great educational enterprise, THE TRIBUNE bows its congratulations to its readers for the broad intelligence shown by their hearty cooperation in this gigantic intellectual crusade. We extend our thanks to the thousands of friends and readers who, by their prompt and concerted action, have made this splendid success possible.

We have sustained the enormous expense and performed the vast labor necessary in order to bring within reach what we consider to be the best Reference Library in print, and the universal praise and congratulations which have poured in upon us, from rich and poor alike, more than repays our every effort.

Judging by the crowds that are thronging in The Tribune Encyclopedia Department, all day and until late in the night, it is evident the people realize that a great opportunity is fast slipping away, and in a few short hours will be forever gone.

In order to accommodate every friend possible we will keep the Encyclopedia Rooms open up to the last minute. At the hour of midnight the offer closes. No more orders will be accepted after 12 o'clock tonight.

All mail orders bearing postmark of Monday will be honored.

Our Final Proposition

On receipt of $4.50 we will forward the complete set of 25 volumes, the balance to be paid $5 per month. Or, on receipt of $3, we will send 12 volumes, to be paid $3 per month. The last half will be sent as soon as the first half is paid for. Mail orders will receive the same attention as if given in person. All orders mailed on the last day will be filled even if received Monday. Address

The Tribune E. B. Department 437 Spruce Street.
