

SCRANTON TRIBUNE
F. E. WOOD,
General Manager.

THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE.
SCRANTON, APRIL 20, 1894.

Eckley B. Cox is quick to deny that he is a candidate for governor or that he could under any circumstances be induced to accept the Democratic nomination.

An Old Country Example.
It is a trite truth to say that, in respect of municipal government, they "order things better in Europe."

Glasgow's 300 miles of streets and 11,000 court yards and alleyways are cleaned regularly once a day, and sometimes three times.

Coupled with this finding is, to be sure, an opinion that the pillars left in the Red Ash vein had been of insufficient size, and had been still further diminished by the disintegrating effects of time, wind and moisture.

WHEN ASKED why he was elected in a district ordinarily good for 10,000 majority the other way, Representative Quigg aptly replied that it was because the Democratic party had enabled the whole country to express its pent up feelings in the ballot boxes of one single district.

Benjamin J. Haywood, of Mercer, who is State Treasurer Jackson's cashier, and who represents one of the promising executive possibilities of northwestern Pennsylvania, has come out flat-footed in favor of the nomination of Major McDowell, of Sharon, as congressman at large.

Representative Jack Robinson's flying visit to this neighborhood yesterday was for the ostensible purpose of expressing his gratitude for the unexpected proportions of his recent victory in Luzerne.

Eckley B. Cox's language in repudiating the congressional boomlet prepared for him, without his knowledge, through the generosity of a number of Philadelphia political writers, is characteristically terse.

Do those good souls who view with alarm the extraordinary increase in defalcations and frauds in the business world, and hence the excuse made by Tammany leaders that his organization is just as honest as any business concern, ever realize the truth of the matter?

Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, without regard to his politics, is one of the brainiest men the country has produced, as well as one of the best and most popular with those who know him.

The board of health would be condemned if it did not give publicity to the facts of an epidemic, and the press would fail of its duty if it hushed up the fact that the small-pox was in the vicinity.

back the road itself, in perfect repair; will have received a fair interest on its first investment and a fair rental for the use of the road; will have also a cheap and yet efficient rapid transit service and will be prepared to put the lease up to another competition and make, perhaps, even better terms for the ensuing twenty-two years.

Do they, then, order things better abroad?

ONE DOLLAR in newspaper advertising would beat ten in a bill board war.

Mr. Cameron's love for silver leads him to favor the erection of a prohibitive tariff wall around the United States, with an inscription outside telling the rest of the world to go to Halifax.

A BRIEF, accurate and intelligible explanation of what Brazil's latest revolution was all about would fill a long-kept and ardent want.

The Gaylord Accident.
It will be remembered that when numerous contemporaries, upon the heels of the Gaylord mine accident, excitedly broke forth into more or less promiscuous denunciations of the management of that colliery THE TRIBUNE stood alone in recommending a suspension of judgment until the entire facts could be established in a judicial manner.

There is no more carefully edited newspaper in the United States, especially with reference to those things which might offend in the family circle, than the Scranton Tribune. It is interesting to note that what it has to say is not the least bit sensational or exaggerated.

No girl or young woman will be tempted by Mattie Polard's example; no young or old man can find anything in W. G. P. Breckinridge's shameful career that invites imitation. Indeed, the current of newspaper comment and the whole drift of public opinion since the trial began have done much to reassure all who were at all skeptical as to the ultimate standards of virtue, purity, morality, and decency as recognized by the community at large.

The SIXTY-FOURTH annual report of the inspectors of the Eastern penitentiary is from the pen of Hon. Richard Vaux and contains many views of novel interest. It contends, for instance, that intemperance as a cause of crime has been seriously overrated.

The Law Good; Its Enforcement Bad.
Willis-Davie Says Forer.
The liquor dealer who pays cash down for $500 worth of fine protection, is entitled to get full value for his money.

Not a Safe Lead.
New York Sun.
Just at present the outlook for a Democratic majority in the next congress is not over-brilliant, and the party in the Blue Grass district should not be disposed to take the risk of yielding to the wishes of Breckinridge's friends by shouldering such a fellow and losing both a representative and the respect of the public.

Its Mission Unfilled.
Albion Tribune.
There is no question of contemporaneous interest which in the daily newspaper will shrink from discussing. The men and women who read it have a right to know what is going on in every department of the world.

The Evil Sure to Grow.
New York Press.
The Philadelphia Record complains about Democratic "absenteeism" in congress. Democratic absenteeism in the present congress is a mere bagatelle to what it will be in the next one.

Johann's Lapses Lingua.
Boston Transcript.
Johann Meier says this is a poor country for anarchists. Most occasionally deviates into truth.

Our Bold Peace Warriors.
Springfield Union.
The list of war governors appears to be growing.
