

LACE

The poetry of dress—
The once prerogative of royalty and nobility—
The sign of aristocracy—
Has of late assumed so many beautiful forms that

LACES ARE ORDAINED

For all trimming uses this season.

PARIS, Feb. 25, '94.

The lace for Laces continues. At a charity bazaar held at the Museum of the Interior last week, women went to see all the FINE FLEURS of the Parisian world of fashion, nearly all the dresses were well covered with LACES.

What Paris Wears, We Show.

LACES FOR HATS

LACES FOR WRAPS

LACES FOR DRESSES

LACES FOR LINGERIE

In a word—EVERYTHING.

Point du Venise—The real article—intricately maze as the enchanting canals of Venice itself—and copied from old, rich, priceless patterns now on exhibition in foreign art galleries. 3 to 12 inches wide, solid and net tops—for vases, cushions, for the walls of Joinville bows, etc., etc. Insertions also.

Point d'Irlande—Pure silk and very fine and rich, cream, 3 1/2 to 10 inches wide, and in insertions.

Silk Gaiters—Net top, designs after real Spanish lace. 3 1/2 to 9 inches.

Point de Margot Lace—Persons, other than of royal blood, cannot wear these laces in Queen Elizabeth's time were publicly whipped therefore. No wonder royalty claimed it for its own. Upon net and profusely and richly covered. 4 and 6 inches wide. Insertions also of same.

Point Flanders—A dream in pure white silk, medium widths, for millinery and dresses.

L'Andalous Lace, or Sempitine Lace, to be placed in folds, then you have the latest modernity.

Flemish Lace—In patterns made as far back as the 15th century. Very serviceable for hats, wraps and dresses. Black, old ivory and white, all widths—solid and net. Insertions of same.

Chantilly—Tulle with light figure laces. Black and white and cream, all widths.

Spanish—Valencian, gaiters, torsons and all the other trappings from Platen and St. Gall.

Nervous Headaches

Dyspepsia, Impure Blood

A Perfect Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I personally recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to my friends and others, whenever I have an opportunity, and I am willing that this statement be used for publication. This medicine has been of great benefit to me. I have been suffering more or less with dyspepsia and nervous headache for several years. After using other preparations without success, I concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am pleased to say that I have been benefited more by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla than by any other medicine combined.

In fact, I have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also use Hood's Pills very beneficially." D. WEBSTER BAKER, 205 Front St., York, Pa.
