NEWS OF WEST SIDE

Events of Interest to Tribune Readers Across the Lackawanna.

STORY OF THE JOHNSTOWN FLOOD

An Interesting Stereopticon Lecture About the Loss of Life and Property in the Conemaugh Valley—Star of Hope Lodge Entertains Its Friends with a Musical and Literary Programme—Olde Folkes' Concert.

[The West Side office of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE is located at 1040 Jackson street, where subscriptions, advertisements and communications will receive prompt attention.]

A large audience was present at the stereopticon lecture given last evening by H. E. Reese, of Johnstown, in the Tabernacle Congregational church.

The subject of Mr. Reese's lecture was "Johnstown, Before and After the Flood," and was listened to with great interest.

He presented many scenes of the beautiful Conemaugh valley, and its appearance during the disaster. Mr. Reese is an eloquent speaker, and his talk was quite successful.

A Pleasing Entertainment. A most pleasing entertainment was given last evening by Star of Hope lodge, 169 American Protestant association, in its rooms on South Main avenue.

Rev. D. P. Jones officiated. During the evening many vocal selections were rendered by Lewis Watkins and party. Solos were rendered by William J. Davis, Miss Lizzie Jenkins, Thomas D. James and Rev. D. Jones.

Miss Lizzie Jones recited and an excellent duet was rendered by William Evans and Thomas Abram. The officers for the ensuing term were installed, after which a social of a most pleasing nature was held.

Concert This Evening. "Ye Olde Folkes Concerts" will be given this evening at the Stinson Methodist Episcopal church.

The affair promises to be very successful. Only the best local talent will participate. A maple sugar feast will follow the entertainment.

Short Items of News. The young ladies of the Washburn Street Presbyterian church will give an entertainment and social in the church this evening.

The Washburn Street Presbyterian church edifice will be sold at auction on Tuesday next to the highest bidder.

The parsonage will be removed to a lot purchased from William Frink, and a new place of worship will be erected on the present ground with the addition of the land upon which this parsonage now stands.

The funeral of Mrs. Davis, wife of Daniel E. Davis, of D-ber's court, will occur this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Services will be conducted by Rev. D. Jones, of the First Welsh Congregational church. Interment will be in the Washburn Street cemetery.

Fred Neville, of Chestnut street, has returned from Little Meadows. The parsonage will be removed to a lot purchased from William Frink, and a new place of worship will be erected on the present ground with the addition of the land upon which this parsonage now stands.

Robert Morris lodge, Order of Iovites, will have a meeting this evening in Clark's hall.

Special business will be transacted, but there will be no initiation of candidates on account of the absence of John H. Phillips from the city.

NOTES OF SOUTH SIDE

Eddie Hartman's Skull Fractured by Falling from a Lumber Pile.

HIS CONDITION VERY CRITICAL

The Doctors Trephined His Skull Yesterday and He Rested Easier Afterward—Richard Walsh in Love at Seventy—Dr. Kolb's Birthday Serenade—A Correction—Other News in Shorter Paragraphs.

During the morning recess Tuesday Eddie Hartman, 11 years old, a pupil at No. 3 school, and son of Casmer Hartman, of 509 Pittston avenue, was seriously hurt by falling from a lumber pile on the Orchard grounds.

The boy climbed to the top of one of the large heaps of lumber stored there and fell off while playing on top of it. His skull was fractured by coming in contact with the jagged edge of the pile in falling.

Dr. A. J. Kolb, of Cedar avenue, was 71 years old on Tuesday, and the occasion passed without incident in the doctor's family until nearly 9 o'clock in the evening.

The doctor casually told some of his friends that time was stealing upon him unawares and that he was about to pass another milestone on life's journey.

At the instance of the family physician of Benjamin Elden, THE TRIBUNE wishes to correct the account of the mishap of Mr. Elden's 4-year-old child.

This paper contained nothing at all about the matter, and does not charge it to anybody else's account.

Mrs. Fred Miller and daughter Minnie will start this morning for a three weeks' visit to friends in New York city.

The TRIBUNE is delivered to more places of business on the South Side than any other morning paper.

Dr. E. D. Donahue, of Easton, grand regent of the Royal Arcanum, who will deliver an address at the coming endowment of Electric City college.

The Jury Says That Fick Is Not Guilty of the Crime.

Peculiar Testimony Introduced by Mr. and Mrs. Wood, of Vandling—Four Hungarians Plead Guilty and Take Their Medicine Heroically—Sentences Imposed and Verdicts Rendered—Miscellaneous Business.

The jury in the case against Michael Fick of Mayfield, charged with taking the life of John Page last Christmas night, after remaining out all night, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The jury in the case against Michael Fick of Mayfield, charged with taking the life of John Page last Christmas night, after remaining out all night, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The jury at noon found Markus guilty of malicious mischief and Judge Albright sentenced him to 45 fine, and thirty days in the county jail.

The case of commonwealth vs. Hanshan Wood, charged with the murder of R. Amos White, charged as prosecutor, was one of the interesting cases heard before Judge Albright.

The parties reside in the little mining hamlet near Forest City known as Vandling. The Woods are English people of a thrifty turn and Mrs. Wood, a plump, good looking woman of the blonde type, keeps boarders to assist in swelling the household expenses.

Among the boarders was R. Amos White, a respectable looking colored man who wears gold-rimmed glasses and has a clerical air.

The next morning Mrs. Wood alleges she informed her husband of a note found on his knees and begged for mercy.

At another scene occurred in the court room during the hearing of testimony introduced when Mrs. Wood was asked if she did not try to induce Mary Wilson to testify that Amos had endeavored to pull one of her eyeballs out of its socket.

The members of the jury appeared to be the most interested spectators in the room as the jury deliberated in the case were brought out. Several of the panel laughed aloud at some of the testimony, and the faces of the majority all through the trial bore expressions of hilarious expectancy similar to those seen on the "bleaching benches" when Scranton has three men on base and "no one is out."
