"THE FACE OF ROSENFEL." NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP. The fire upon the hearth is low, and there is stillness everywhere; Like troubled spirits here and there The freight shadows fluttering go, and as the shadows round me creep, A child-like trouble breaks the gloom, And softly from the farther room Comes: "Now I lay me down to sleep."

And, somehow, with that little prayer And that sweet trouble in my ear, My thought goes back to distant years And lingers with a dear one there; And, as I hear the child's amen, My mother's face comes back to me, Crouched at her side I seem to be, And mother holds my hands again.

Oh! for an hour in that dear place! Oh! for the peace of that dear time! Oh! for that child's trust, sublime! Oh! for a glimpse of mother's face! Yet, as the shadows round me creep, I do not seem to be alone— Sweet music of that treble tone— And "now I lay me down to sleep."

HOTEL Lobby Talk.

The Hotel Register, probably the most generally circulated and authoritative publication of this part of the United States, pays a tribute to the prominence of Scranton business men by presenting in its last issue a half-ton portrait of Frederick R. White, of this city, proprietor of the Wyoming House. Accompanying the portrait is a sketch of Mr. White's career and his interest in the hotel industry. The "war" says Mr. White, in error, and I think the government gets revenue enough from liquors without this tax. I also believe that the hotel business should be protected by interstate laws and legislation compelled to be uniform in each state.

The Glen Summit hotel, owned by the Lehigh Valley railroad, will be managed this season by W. H. Crosby, who conducted the house last year.

Ever since the building of the new Antracite hotel at Carbondale, speculation has been rife particularly among commercial men and non-comers as to whether or not modern hotels with its up to date appointments and fitted out on a scale could be made to pay. Any doubt of the hotel's success has been dispelled by the announcement that the house will be conducted by Frank M. Fox, one of the best known and most successful hotel men in the east. Mr. Fox has formerly been connected with the B-Back Hotel and Hotel Cooper, at Dayton, O.; the Chauntiqua House, Grand Hotel and Kent House, at Chautauque lake. Of late he has conducted the Niagara at Buffalo, from which house has been brought the club, bartenders and waiters, other members of the hotel's retinue. Those who have seen the Antracite say it is perfect in all its appointments and bespeak for it a good share of patronage. The house opens next Tuesday.

During the absence of Proprietor Fred S. Godfrey in Europe, his business at the Valley House is being managed by C. J. Carter. Joe, as he is familiarly called, has greeted the Valley's patrons at the desk for seven years, and the patrons of the house feel that in the absence of the proprietor, his representative will be properly looked after by his representative.

Since the announcement of the proposed building of the new Hotel Jermya, a report has been in circulation to the effect that Mr. Jermya would model his Westminster under the design of the building. But for the fact that Boniface Truman of the latter establishment is known to have no intention of relinquishing a good thing, the false report might, in a measure, have worked an injustice. Mr. Truman has no objection to the Westminster being modeled by Mr. Jermya, who has been properly and says his business is no good that he would like to have the house large enough to shelter twice its present capacity.

Landlord Smith, late of the Frantz house, Plymouth, is now conducting the Exchange hotel at Wilkes-Barre. Ex-sister Whitaker, who has been conducting the latter, is now proprietor of a cafe near depot.

Mrs. M. Meir, of North Retschon, was engaged to act as housekeeper at the Tarbell house, Montrose.

NEWS NOTES FROM WALES.

LONDON, May 25.—Great preparations are being made in North Wales to organize a popular reception for the Prince of Wales, upon the occasion of his visit to the principality, which will be on June 15. $10,000 will be spent for the purpose of giving a royal welcome for one of the most illustrious of monarchs throughout the world.

The prince will be met at the railway station by a large number of his subjects, and his visit is expected to be a very successful one. The prince will be met at the railway station by a large number of his subjects, and his visit is expected to be a very successful one.

"A typical Welshman" is the description given by the Herald of the Commonwealth to the most eminent Welshman of the day, Archbishop Howells. The archbishop was born at Llanllan, South Wales, in 1851, and is now 65 years of age, and has a venerable appearance, with white hair and a friendly expression.

The bill for the Disestablishment of the Church in Wales is at present before the English parliament, and intense interest is shown throughout Wales by all classes in its passage. It is expected, however, does not seem to be prophesied with any feeling of certainty, as one party of lords seems to be the "hope" of one party and the "obstacle" of the other.

Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, well known to Welshmen as the "Prince of Wales," and whose income is currently reported to be $5,000 a week, has recently paid $35 for illustrating one of his hunting books.

The royal commission to inquire into the relations between landlords and tenants in Wales is still pursuing inquiries in South Wales, and the result of its investigations is awaited with intense interest as their report will, in all probability, form the basis of new Welsh laws.

Welshmen have always been renowned for their liberality in contributing to religious objects and there is no danger of the fact being exaggerated when it is said that a Sunday school in Wales has $4,500 worth of property in its possession, and that the school was formed practically all in the congregation, two or three years ago, by a sister of the "weather" part. On various Sunday afternoon collections ranging up to $2,000 have been raised in the same school as well as in other Sunday schools in this district. The district referred to Rhoslanochau is quite near the home of the Rev. Abel J. Barry, who is at present enjoying a visit to America.

Lord Enlyn has undertaken the expense of maintaining William Morgan, of Downhill, in the Royal college; the fortunate young Welshman being the successor

ON LABOR'S WHEEL.

Paine's Celery Compound Now Better Than a Vacation Later.

"I simply can't stop," says the tired business man and the worn-out mother. "But nervous prostration stares you in the face." "I dare not think of being sick. My children and babies and husband depend on me every hour in the day," reply those women on the verge of breaking down. "A month's absence would ruin my business," says the hard worked business man. When the nerves and organs of the body are soundly nourished and the waste products quickly got rid of a tremendous amount of hard work can be done without injury. It is when the nervous tissues are used up faster than they are repaired that brain, nerves, and vital organs suffer, cry out with neuralgia, rheumatism, heart trouble, nervous dyspepsia, and finally break down. Paine's Celery Compound is doing a world of good for such weak, nervous people, whose brain and body are overtaxed, but who may yet be saved from nervous prostration and disease of the liver, kidney and stomach by this great strength-giver and blood and nerve invigorator.

The first bottle of Paine's Celery Compound begins at once to clear the impure blood, to supply material for growth to worn-out nerves and to the millions of tiny cells of nervous substance through the brain and spinal column. The marvelous blood and nerve remedy lays the foundation of health deeply and permanently, thin, pale, care-worn persons grow steadily heavier and stronger, and their faces lose the signs of sickness and despondency. To counteract the effect of protracted bodily and mental strain, Paine's Celery Compound was first prepared by the eminent Dartmouth professor, Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D.
