Scranton's Business Interests.

The Tribune will soon publish a carefully compiled and carefully selected list of the leading wholesale, banking, manufacturing and professional interests of Scranton and vicinity. The edition will be bound in book form, beautifully illustrated with photographs of our public buildings, business blocks, streets, etc., together with portraits of leading citizens. No similar work has ever given an equal representation of Scranton's many industries. It will be an invaluable exposition of our business resources. Sent to persons outside the city, copies of this handsome work will attract new comers and be an unequalled advertisement of the city. The circulation is on a plan that cannot fail of good results to those concerned as well as the city at large. Representatives of THE TRIBUNE will call upon those whose names are desired in this edition and explain its nature more fully. Those desiring views of their residences in this edition will please have notices at the office.

NEWS OF WEST SIDE

Meeting of Abington Association in Scranton Street Church.

DEBATED BY ABINGTON INSTITUTE

Various Discussions to Advance the Usefulness of the Sunday School. Some Flaws Discovered but Ideas Are Presented for Its Betterment. The Institution is Especially Designed for Winning Souls.—Other West Side News.

(The West Side office of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE is located at 1409 Jackson street, where subscriptions, advertisements and communications will receive prompt attention.)

The Sunday school institute of the Abington Baptist association held yesterday afternoon and evening in the Scranton Street Baptist church, though not well attended, was productive of considerable discussion and proved a valuable enlightenment to those who participated.

A period of devotional exercises led by W. B. Owen, of the Jackson Street Baptist church, began at 2 o'clock, preceding the regular institute and session of discussions. The hymns, "This Is My Story" and "Near-By Blessed Land," were followed by a reading from the Scriptures by Rev. Charles Embrey, of Flatbush. A prayer was offered by Rev. W. J. Ford, of Green Ridge.

A brief address of welcome was made by Dr. B. G. Beldos, superintendent of the Scranton Street Baptist church Sunday school. Dr. Beldos' address included an expression of invitation to the homes of the congregation as well as to the institute. A motion by Rev. Mr. Collins that Rev. H. H. Harris act as chairman of the sessions was carried.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Mr. Ellis, of Bileky, the regular secretary, Rev. Mr. Embrey was elected to serve temporarily in that position.

MR. EMBREY'S PAPER.

A paper devoted to the need of better service on the part of teachers in the Sunday school was read by Rev. Mr. Embrey. He laid considerable stress upon the harmful results of teachers being improperly informed as far as the Scripture is concerned. Occasional absence, even on the part of instructors, had led example to the pupils and encouraged them in laxity.

"A sure indication of the need of better service," said Rev. Mr. Collins in the discussion which followed, "is the non-attendance of teachers at Bible class. A good man or woman does not necessarily imply a good teacher. That teacher who is interested in his class and gives good service is he who makes a study of the lesson his fortification. Rev. Warren G. Partridge said there was a growing demand for a more general knowledge of fundamental Bible principles.

Incidents were mentioned by Rev. Mr. J. Watkins, of Flatbush, of where he had temporarily instructed classes and found a deplorable ignorance on the part of older scholars, from which can only be found the fact that teachers themselves are woefully negligent in preparation for their duties.

Rev. Mr. Ford was of the opinion that more directness on the teacher's part is one of the greatest needs. The carelessness or laxity on the part of parents was commented upon by Rev. D. C. Hughes, of the Jackson Street Baptist church. Not until the training begins at home, before the child is 6 years of age, can we expect proper future service.

REWARD OF THE FAITHFUL TEACHER.

Rev. D. C. Thomas, of the Taylor Baptist church, read a paper on the reward of the faithful teacher. The Sunday school teacher by his devotedness to his purpose will be rewarded according to numerous promises in the Bible. It is a divinely instituted work paid first by satisfaction, which in this case is better than dollars and cents. The effects of good work, if not seen here, will be apparent in Heaven.

The discussion following and in reference to Mr. Thomas' remarks drifted to a consideration of how to manage classes of unruly boys and girls. It was brought out that the quality of patience with firmness would in most cases bring refractory pupils to a manly display of qualities and proper conduct.

"Sunday school work as an agency for winning souls" was the subject treated by Rev. Warren G. Partridge, of the Penn avenue Baptist church. He said that while the treatment of the Sunday school question brought out many flares, still it is one of the most wonderful agencies for winning souls. The home is first and then the pulpit, but next there is no greater agency than the Sunday school.

COMPETENT TEACHERS NEEDED.

Rev. D. C. Hughes said he was unable to be present in the evening to address the institute on Sunday school work in general. However, he wanted to take advantage of the present opportunity in substantiating the soul-winning sentiments expressed by Rev. Mr. Partridge. To make the Sunday school more useful in its purpose, the deplorable lack of Biblical knowledge on the part of teachers must be overcome. The brains of printed matter in the form of leaflets, etc., are too generally incompetent to do the winning.

The evening session was opened at 7 o'clock with a song service, led by the Scranton street choir. Papers were read and discussed as follows: "The Secretary; Has the Position any Value?" Rev. A. E. Douglas; "The Superintendent in and Out of School," E. Chamberlain; "The Extent, Possibilities and Needs of Sunday School Work in the Abington Association," Rev. M. J. Watkins. The institute adjourned sine die.

They Were Entertained by Colonel U. G. Schoonmaker.

By invitation of Colonel U. G. Schoonmaker, the Masonic Veterans association held its quarterly meeting at the Hotel Elmhurst Monday afternoon. About 150 members, wives and guests were present.

After a business meeting and an excellent entertainment at the hands of Colonel and Mrs. Schoonmaker the party left on a special train for home at 8:30 in the evening.

AMONG the New Books.

Queer days have come upon us. It no longer suffices for those who would be poetical to be approximately sane, rational and intelligible. Those that are, our critics will have taught us to do with. You remember Poe? No one, to my recollection, has ever succeeded in precipitating a meaning from the fantastic solution of his disordered imaginings. Poe has been accepted and only defiled by two generations of transatlantic "authorities" as the one great and eternal poet of America, at a time, too, when Lowell, Whittier and Bryant, heaven defend them, were deemed to curd themselves with the beggarly boom of a smile. This, to be sure, is an ancient story. It occurs to mind only in a fitting consequence of the perusal of a new volume, whereby one Francis Thompson braves the ignominy of attaching in these commonplace times to articles of verse. It is not going to be done. Mr. Thompson with an extended series of quotations. "Twice an offense my readers would never forgive. But as instancing to what awful passes the poetical impulse can force some men, I propose to cite simply the one example apposite: "The Sopped Sun-toper as ever drank hard— Stares foolish, hazed, Rubbed, dazed, Totty with this October tankard."

No wonder, then, that Bliss Carman, himself a newly-crowned god of the so-called "verse" school, which more than any writing in that exquisite style of the fortnightly "Chap-book" (Stone & Kimball, Chicago), is moved to say of Thompson: "Imagination he certainly has, as several of his lines attest, daring and undoubted; but it is an imagination unsmooth and unseasoned. It has never had its hair cut. He cannot depend upon it. It dances before him like a dream, and then leads his judgment down wolf, dark ways of flinty diction, where the former ferocious solism of Milton and good taste. He has made an indulgence of Browning. The pardonable sins of that great master are to be forgiven as a poet's habit. There was in Browning's voice an occasional wayward accent, a personal inflection, that removed much of his work from the perfect sphere of the great normal English, and made it all individual tones and submerged in the single beauty of a completely simple expression. Add this wayward accent, this wholly personal inflection, and the Thompson has acquired and elevated into a dialect." If from this fluting our friends in the Wilkes-Barre Browning society should charge their quest, he understood, is with Carman, not with us.

If there be affectation in the writing of verse, shall we dare deny that there is affectation in the reading thereof? How many acres of the "Chap-book" that poetry is good only as it supplies a literary bank deposit subject to quotation at draft? In this same delightful little pamphlet, "Chap-book," there writes one who obviously doesn't. His idea is that "to read well is to make an impassable snatch at whatever takes your eye, and run." And he mournfully inquires, with a cynical eye, but just manner, of Browning's friends in Luzerne, "is there no fun left in Israel? Have we to endure it, for our sins, that a super-civilized poet should be made to read by the poor little poets who have brought forth stronger along but their lyre? Can we no longer sing without the constraint of feeling separately to the hearer what rhetoric is in us, what that of casual phrases, what original and sequences, what occur because non-existent symbolism? Without setting up for oracles of dark import, and posing romantically as if we had a hand. Shake, in mutual distaste for the fact that makes art a mere mechanism of ribs and dressing.

PREDICTS A REVOLUTION.

Wayne Independent. A revolution is coming in type-setting. It may be some time before it reaches the country, but it will reach it. The composition by hand will then be a thing of the past. Scores of daily newspapers have already adopted some one of the several typesetting machines now on the market and as soon as the cost of them is lowered they will be placed in the offices of weekly papers. The spinning jenny came to the weavers, the harvester and binder to the farmers, and now the typesetting machine is coming to the printers. The march of labor-saving machinery is as steady as the movement of the world and no one with intelligence would wish to resist it, because the fields of industry always have and doubtless always will supply work for all to do, unless interfered with by unnatural laws of man's making.

Not Amazing When You Know 'Em.

Wilkes-Barre News Dealer. The bold assertions made against Leisner in the editorial columns of the Record, and the slobbering, evasive way they attempted to crawl down under a denial, shows a lack of judgment and good sense that is amazing in a journal of such lofty pretensions.

NOTES OF SOUTH SIDE

Board of Trade Take Action on the Project for Lake at Connell Park.

BURLEIGH OBTAINED HIS SEAT

The Expected Wrangle at the Meeting of the Lackawanna Township School Board Did Not Materialize. John Hughes Arrested on a Serious Charge—Children's Day at the Cedar Avenue Church.

The South Side board of trade held its regular monthly meeting last night. After the passage of preliminary routine business, C. G. Boland, always an earnest champion of street improvement, took the floor and advocated some means whereby the wretched condition of many streets would be bettered. An informal discussion among the members resulted from Mr. Boland's introduction, and the matter was disposed of by a motion to stir up the streets and bridges committee of council. In the discussion on the street question the proposed improvement of Mather street was the earnest sentiment of the board that the case is in need of attention in a hurry.

A few bills were read and approved and new business was taken up. Under this head the poor attendance at meetings received attention. All present were of the opinion that if the meeting night were changed to some other date many that are now compelled to attend other meetings on the same night would be present. Accordingly the date of meeting was changed from the first Tuesday night of each month to the second Friday night, the change to take effect at the next meeting, which will be assembled on Friday, July 13.

Park Commissioner T. J. Moore then brought up the lake project, and it was enthusiastically received. The members met the idea in a business like way and by motion and unanimous consent it was decided to agitate it before both councils and also labor with the park commissioners in co-operating to secure a lake for Connell park.

ENDED IN A LOVE FEAST.

Speculators at a School Board Meeting Expected, However, to See Troubles. What promised to be a stormy session of the new organization of the Lackawanna township school board last night in No. 3 school, Minooka, disappointed the expectant ones, as it resulted in just the opposite. The cause of the anticipated billows arose from the claim of Robert Burleigh that he was entitled to a seat, being elected school director for three years over his opponent, Michael Sheehan. Burleigh included in his total vote the vote cast in Bellevue, which was a part of the city of Scranton. For that reason the Democrats on the board objected to seating him. Burleigh met their objections with the point that if anything irregular happened a contest within the time specified by law should be instituted against him. No contest was proceeded with and the thirty days' limit to bring contests, had expired and for that reason, he was declared elected on the face of the returns, he was entitled to the seat. That convinced the Democratic members and he was admitted as a member. The board then completed its organization. Phillip Roach was elected chairman; Griffith T. Davis, treasurer, and Patrick Higgins, secretary.

HUGHES A GAY DECEIVER.

He Is Now Under Bail for His Appearance at Court. John Hughes, of Cedar avenue, a youth who had not yet passed his majority, is under bail before Alderman Fuller to answer the charge of betraying Mary McHale of Pear street. Hughes kept company with the girl for some time and was very attentive to her. When their relations became known a warrant was sworn out against Hughes. He managed to elude the constables for some time, but Monday evening Constable Thurston, of the Twentieth ward, captured him and brought him to police headquarters, where he spent the night. Yesterday morning he was taken before Alderman Fuller, who held him in $500 bail to appear at court. Edward Mabur, of Cedar avenue, became his surety.

SOUTH SIDE JOTTINGS.

Miss Maria Murray, of Pittston avenue and Fig street, is ill of la grippe.

Mrs. Connell, of Breck street, is suffering from a serious attack of quinsy.

Mrs. Mary Ann Gannon, of Prospect avenue, is dangerously ill of pneumonia.

The funeral of Mrs. John Kelleman, of Willow street, will occur this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Industrial Building and Loan association will hold a directors' meeting Friday night.

The funeral of James Merrick, of Greenway street, will occur this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services at St. Joseph's church, Minooka. Interment in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Edward V. Jones, Jr., of Pittston avenue, was a pest on the eye at the Scranton eye works from a flying piece of glass. Dr. Fisher finds his eyesight dangerously impaired.

Next Sunday will be Children's Day at the Cedar Avenue Methodist Episcopal church.

WANT READING ROOMS. Hebrew Young Men Meet in the interest of a Library.

A meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew Aid association of Scranton was held last evening in Raub's hall, on Wyoming avenue, for the purpose of taking steps toward the formation of a Hebrew young men's library. B. Leibman was made chairman of the meeting and briefly stated the purpose for which they had assembled.

Considerable discussion as to the value of a free library and how best to proceed to start the project took place, and finally culminated in the appointment of a committee of three whose duty it will be to solicit financial aid.

The members of the committee are Simon Seigel, M. J. Cohen and B. Leibman.

TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK.

Elmhurst Boulevard Association Decides on Such Action. It was decided by the Elmhurst Boulevard association yesterday to increase its capital stock from $25,000 to $35,000.

From 200 to 300 men are now engaged on the grading of the thoroughfare, and for about five miles from Elmhurst it is possible for conveyances. On any pleasant day a drive out from the Elmhurst terminus would be productive of sightseeing and is worth the trip.

The bridge at Nay Aug falls and the boulevard itself will probably be completed Aug. 1.

In Mayor's Court.

Patrick McInnis, for sleeping off a drunk in Railroad alley was let off with a fine of $2.

Mary O'Hara and her daughter Bridget, of New street, arrested for disorderly conduct, were sent up to the county jail for thirty days.

Patrick Schofield, arrested for quarreling on a street car and leaving the conductor's coat, was fined $10 and ordered to reimburse the conductor for the damage done his clothing. The cost of repairs on the coat was placed at $4. The defendant paid the fine and costs.
