

BASE BALL

Reading and Scranton Indulge in an Old Time Slugging Match.

FORMER WON BY STEADIER WORK

Harrisburg, with a Local Pitcher in the Box, Easily Defeats Easton. Hazleton Struck a Snag at Pottsville—Game at Altoona Postponed on Account of Wet Grounds. Standing of the Clubs in the Pennant Race—Base Ball and Various Other Sporting News Notes.

BASE ball enthusiasts who had hoped to see Allentown close up the gap between itself and Harrisburg the past week were doomed to disappointment.

As the standing of the clubs in the State league now foot up Harrisburg seems to have a hold upon the first series which it is almost impossible to overcome in the meanwhile King Kelly will have to keep his eyes on the ball, also he will be compelled to go into third place, Manager Hanlon's sturdy young players from Hazleton being intent on robbing him of second honors.

GLINTS FROM THE DIAMOND.

Farewell to hopes for fourth place. Griffin captains the Syracuse team since Jay Fassett was released. Garrison of Rome, N. Y., an amateur, has been signed by Buffalo to play center field. Captain John Ward of New York, is not stealing bases this year as he did last year, nor is he playing his former game. The fine base play of Tom Tucker, of the Boston, this season has never been sur-

CORNELL WON BY FIVE LENGTHS.

The Pennsylvania Boys no Match for the Oarman from Ithaca. PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—The four-mile eight-oared shell race between Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania on the Delaware river yesterday afternoon, was won by Cornell by five lengths in 21 minutes 18 1/2 seconds. Pennsylvania's time was 21 minutes 34 1/2 seconds. Cornell rowed a magnificent race from start to finish, while Pennsylvania's ragged work more than offset their strength.

The referees was to have been Captain Bob Cook, the Yale coach, but as Mr. Cook was compelled to go to New Haven, Thomas G. Hunter, of the University of Pennsylvania, acted in his place. The Cornell judge on the water was Charles Francis and the timer Benjamin J. Wheeler. The Pennsylvania judge was John C. Hall and the timer C. Pemberton, jr. R. C. Hare was Cornell's judge at the finish and James Bond was Pennsylvania's judge. Whatever advantage there was in the course was Pennsylvania's, but it was very slight. The river bank afforded some slight protection at the start from the wind, and the water was a little smoother in Pennsylvania's territory.

When the bows of the two shells were almost upon a line, Referee Hunter gave the signal, and at 6:57 o'clock the two crews got off. Pennsylvania took the water first, and their shell shot ahead of the Cornellians for half a length. It was the first and last time Pennsylvania led in the race. Cornell quickly settled down to work and shot their shell after their opponents. Pennsylvania pulled a 34 stroke to the minute and Cornell 35. At the half mile Cornell had drawn away from Pennsylvania by half a length, and their stroke had gone up to 37, while Pennsylvania was still at 36.

The work of the Ithaca men was beautiful. Every man in the boat took the short, quick stroke in rhythmic unison, and the shell glided through the water with hardly the perceptible splash of an oar.

From the half-mile stake the race was only a question of how many lengths Cornell would win by. They gradually drew away and at the two-and-a-half-mile stake were a length and a half ahead. Pennsylvania stuck doggedly to the work, however, and pulled steadily on.

At the three-mile post Cornell was 2 1/2 lengths ahead. Both crews had averaged a 26 stroke up to this time, but now Pennsylvania made its last valiant effort. Coxswain Perkins threw up his hand and called to his men to spurt.

They responded and ran the stroke up to 42, but Cornell quickly increased to 40, and maintained the distance between them at 20. Pennsylvania, from here on it was only a procession, and Cornell crossed the line at the five-lengths ahead of Pennsylvania. Both crews finished strong. The Cornellians rowed their shell ashore and jumped out and carried it up on the beach. After the race Trainer Woodruff of the Pennsylvania team and Captain Wagonhurst said that they had no excuses to make, and that they were fairly and squarely beaten.

The oarman who made up the crews, their height, weight and age is as follows:

PENNSYLVANIA.

Table with columns: Name, Weight, Height, Age. Includes J. Wagonhurst, Beck, Marshall, Farrar, W. Woodruff, Shope, Perkins, Allen, Coxswain.

The race today was the fifth eight-oared shell race that Cornell and Pennsylvania have rowed together, and Cornell has won all. They rowed on Cayuga lake in 1893 and Cornell won by five lengths.

The race last year was rowed on Lake Minnetonka, and Cornell won by two lengths in 23:40. The Cornellians beat the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia at New London before that, and they also defeated them once before on the Schuylkill.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS OF SPORTS.

At the American Athletic club in Philadelphia Saturday night Joe Willschek, well known to Scrantonians, and Dore Mack, had the final bout for the Bailey medals.

Next Friday night Joe Walcott, of Boston, and Mike Harris, of New York, will come together with the gloves at Boston, and on July 2 Joe Walcott will meet Dick O'Brien, of Levittown, Me., in a contest for the gate receipts.

After the funeral of his wife in Toronto Wednesday afternoon champion sculler Jake Gearty declared that he would engage in no more rowing contests. His friends say he is completely prostrated over his wife's sudden death.

M. M. Mayer, the Denver sprinter, went to secure a 100 yards sprinting contest for the championship of America, to occur in Denver in August. T. C. Morris, champion of America, and Stephen J. Farrell, the Sheffield (Eng.) runner, will enter.

Some fine racing is expected Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at West Side park, Wilkes-Barre. Among the horses entered are Scranton Belle and Maxson E., owned by Eli Ager, of this city, and Honest Jake, owned by Fred Cook, also of this city.

There will be ten sweepstakes each day. Five targets will be shot each day, thus facilitating matters. The marksmen will change targets after each shot, thus trying a new angle at each shot.

MINNEAPOLIS TIMES.

The daily paper is the best illustration of the way in which American life goes forward. The newspaper furnishes constant and living illustrations of political ethics and American principles and the whole social movement. The newspaper is citizen-ship in action; here are the questions of the day in process toward solution; hence it is important for the younger readers to learn to estimate the relative value of news. It makes a difference with the whole fabric of life and with the way in which they get the drift of political and social questions, and they learn to know the news of the day based upon fundamental principles.
