WALL DECORATION.

APPROPRIATE METHODS OF INTERIOR MURAL ORNAMENTATION.

Desirable New Patterns In Both Hand and Machine Made Wall Papers-Pearl Leathers and Genuine Silks-Pleasing Specialties Among the Stamped Papers.

Decorator and Furnisher says: Nothing is more barbarous in interior decoration than covering wall space with an all over wall paper pattern, leaving the frieze and ceiling devoid of ornament. This method is pursued by those who know nothing of decerative art and have never made a study of decorative with 4 ounces of treacle in an earthen requirements of an interior. The ceiling jar, to which add an onnee of sulphuric of an interior, not being required to support furniture or pictures, and being Then pour in 2 teaspoonfuls of clive oil, always in evidence, is naturally the spot where the finest decorative effects should obtain, and the frieze for this reason also requires decorative treatment. In fact, the real principle of decorating an to ladies' fine boots is made by mixing interior is to start with a plainly tinted dado, increasing the effects of form and color as we approach the frieze, culmiblack and applying with a spenge. nating our greatest effects in the frieze, cove and border of ceiling panel, and allowing the decorative wave to die off at the center of the ceiling. This is the most appropriate, classic and altogether desirable method of interior mural dec-

Some of the pressed papers are colored to imitate flock papers. There are rich renaissance designs in walnut leather colorings that would be very suitable for the decoration of dining rooms. Their white pressed papers are similar to lignomur and suchlike fabries. Some of the papers are not to be distinguished from real ivory carving or real silks, and while admiring the wonderful beauty of the goods we are shown others equally beautiful of a totally different character.

There are papers reproducing the effects of metal ceilings, glittering in all the hues of burnished lacquer, and papers in tile effects.

To meet the demands for a striped goods which is essentially refined and suitable for bedroom decorations, there is produced a line of colored mica stripes of varying widths. But a most beautiful stripe in wall paper is a pattern whereby the silk stripes are reproduced, tied in a crushed manner at intervals with delicate bouquets of flowers. Striped goods, with bold floral frieze and ceilings to match, are much in evidence. Watteau effects, with garlands of flowers in the frieze, make beautiful decorations. In fact, the garland as a motive has pretty much everything its own way in modern decoration, and such motives are interspersed with aflover floral stencilings, embroidery and lace effects, floral medallions in the heraldic style and papers of the empire order, re-enforced with empire dec-

A pretty example described in the New York San is of fancy black straw adorned with black lace tastefully arranged in the shape of a fan, having at its stem a cluster of pink begonias, and on the other side is a banch of the same flowers in a deeper shade. It is impossible to say which color is most preferred, for all colors are worn on hats, the strongest shades being mingled accord- prev ing to taste. So it is safe to choose that gists which is most becoming.

The Quality of Tone. If we strike a pianciorte key with sufficient force to produce even a mezzo force effect, a knocking sound is occasioned as the finger touches the key, and the hammer strikes the string in a way to jar it. In this case the vibrations cannot be those only which are necessary to produce a pure quality of tone, the effect changing as if it were trying to right itself. A steady pure tone results if we use a particular kind of pressure touch which is noticeable throughout Paderewski's playing, and the touch causes the strings to vibrate as they should. We can easily produce a poor quality of tone on a good pianoforte if we use a poor kind of touch, and we can readily change the quality of tone without touching the pedals. Certainly the quality of tone depends upon the way that the keys are put down-upon the "touch"-says C. F.
