FRIGHTFUL EXPLOSION AT CHICAGO

Four Men and Eight Horses Killed--Many Others Wounded.

BOULEVARD BATHED WITH BLOOD

While Members of Battery B Are Out for Exercise the Ammunition Caisson of a Hotchkiss Gun Explodes, Sending Shot in Every Direction. Many of the Soldiers Are Seriously Wounded and Several Women and Men Who Were Watching the Parade Are Injured by the Flying Projectiles.

CHICAGO, July 16.—An exploding shot and shell wrought sickening havoc among soldiers, civilians and horses this afternoon on Grand boulevard, one of Chicago's finest thoroughfares. The bodies of three United States soldiers were pierced by projectiles and torn apart so that they died instantly, being blown far from the scene of slaughter. Two of the wounded soldiers are not expected to live; eight more were burned and struck with leaden and wooden missiles, and half a dozen or more civilians were injured.

KILLED

- EDWARD DOYLE, cannoner, Battery F; blown from caisson or ammunition chest which exploded.
- JEREMIAH DONOVAN, cannoner, same battery.
- JOSEPH GALLER, farrier, Seventh cavalry; body riddled and torn by shot and pieces of gun carriage.
- FRED LOPE, wheel horse driver, Battery E; second artillery; body pierced by shot and wood, died at 8 p. m.
- MORTALLY WOUNDED: MARTIN O'DONNELL, cannoner, Second artillery; body pierced by fragments of wood.
- SERIOUSLY LIT: same battery; injured similar to O'Donnell.
- INJURED: W. I. ANTH, bugler, Seventh cavalry; right shoulder shattered; recovery doubtful.
- J. W. ALLEN, cannoner, Second artillery; upper part of body burned.
- E. GEORGE HOFFMAN, sergeant, same battery.
- ASTORIAN KANE, cannoner, half of ear blown off.
- DRIVER ENKE, Battery F; blown from horse to ground; head hurt.
- DRIVER FINOWSKI, same battery; blown from horse; cut and bruised.
- CANONIER UNGER, same battery; face and neck burned; right foot pierced by bullet.
- THOMAS HUYCK, Seventh cavalry; blown off horse and rendered deaf, bruised and burned.
- RALPH M. EYERS, boy of 877 Oakland boulevard; leg paralyzed and blown off bicycle.
- MRS. F. A. HOWE, 3381 Grand boulevard; face and head cut by flying glass while sitting at window.
- MRS. C. C. GEORGE, 3360 Grand boulevard; knocked down by explosion, cut by glass.
- Unknown man and slater driving on Oakwood boulevard; blown from buggy; man's nose broke, woman's face cut.
- An unknown woman was seen lying on the stone sidewalk after the disaster, but she left the scene without waiting for medical aid.

CITIZEN THROWN TO THE GROUND

Other citizens who followed the military column were thrown to the ground, more or less bruised by contact with the ground and the caisson. It is reported that some of the caissons were damaged, principally by broken windows and door glass.

The ill-fated body of troops were proceeding south from the lake front camp along Grand boulevard at a trot. Having no rioters to quell or property to protect, the soldiers were out for drill and exercise.

YALE MEN ARE DEFEATED.

No Match for the Crack Athletes of Oxford. LONDON, July 16.—The crack athletes of Oxford triumphed over the champions of Yale at the Queen's club, West Kensington, today, winning five of the nine events. Rain poured down almost incessantly from noon until the programme was more than half-decided and the sudden condition of the track and infield played havoc with the form of the Americans.
