DARING JAIL DELIVERY.

It is Now Believed That the Four Liberated Prisoners Had Assistance from the Outside.

HONESDALE, Pa., July 22.—

Four prisoners, Dennis O'Donnell, John Fitzpatrick, Thomas Connell and Albert Fletcher, broke out of the county jail Friday night and made their escape. Over the rear door in the corridor of the jail is a heavy iron grating. One of the bars forming this grating and measuring 2 1/2 by 1 inch, was sawed into at one end and partly at the other and then broken; the 1-inch cross rod was sawed into at both ends. When this piece was taken out it left a place 11 inches square, through which the prisoners escaped.

Prisoners are allowed free use of the corridor, and this fact is due their escape. There must have been outside help, as the bars are neatly sawed into and indicate more than one day's work. Tallow was used on the saw. A projection of the stone wall served as a place to stand on and brought the person sawing within five feet of the aperture.

To crawl down this small hole and down the outside was a difficult piece of work. A fence fourteen or fifteen feet high surrounds the jail, but this is easily mounted. When the scene of escape was visited by THE TRIBUNE reporter, a hat belonging to Albert Fletcher was found on the inside of the fence, probably dropped off while climbing over it. The footprints made in jumping over the outside were plainly visible.

Thomas Connell is about 5 feet 4 inches tall, slight mustache, dark hair, 40 years old. He is suspected of being connected with the murder of Groceryman Henderson at Newburg. Albert Fletcher, 5 feet 7 inches tall, smooth face, dark complexion and dark hair, was arrested for vagrancy. Connell and Fletcher were seen near Seeleyville shortly after midnight. They had neither coats nor hats on and were barefooted.

OUR MILITARY LETTER

Critic Pays a Deserved Tribute to the Worth of Lieutenant Madison.

COLONEL E. H. RIPPLE'S ORDER

It Reviews the Officer's Military Career—Company B and the Officers of the Thirteenth Regiment Will Take Part in the Funeral. Progress That Has Been Made in Qualifying Marksmen—Other Notes.

In the death of Harman (better known as Harry R. Madison, the Thirteenth regiment has lost one of its brightest gems. He had been identified with the regiment since its organization, Aug. 14, 1877. His character and life was so pure that he was truly beloved by every member of the regiment. He was the same true gentleman and genial friend in uniform or citizen's dress. His sunny, happy disposition so characteristic of the man, and which made him so popular with the regiment, remained with him till the last.

As a non-commissioned and commissioned officer he never shirked a duty, cheerfully obeying all orders of his superiors. The regiment has never been formed for drill, parade, inspection, camp or active service but what he was present. The ambition of his military life was to wear miss a duty, and even twenty-four hours before his death he feebly grasped the adjutant's hand and said, "Adjutant, I will surely be with my company in camp at Gettysburg next month." He was a true soldier that every member in the regiment was proud of.

He was the ranking first lieutenant in the National Guard of Pennsylvania and an officer of excellent ability. The state will never possess a more faithful sergeant, nor the regiment a more affable, courteous, gentlemanly officer. The regimental order of Colonel Ripple, 1877, is as follows: Captain Kellow, published below, and which speaks so fully of the man and soldier, is but an echo of the lieutenant's worth. We will indeed miss him, but his memory can never be effaced from our thoughts. He died as he lived, a Christian soldier. He fell asleep at the throne of God.

COLONEL E. H. RIPPLE'S ORDER. HEADQUARTERS 13TH REGIMENT, THIRD BRIGADE, N. G. P., SCRANTON, Pa., July 21, 1894. Regimental orders No. 20.

With deep sorrow the colonel announces to the regiment the death of our beloved comrade, First Lieutenant Harman R. Madison, Company B, at Moses Taylor hospital, this city, at 11:45 p. m., Friday, July 20. Lieutenant Madison was one of the original members of the Scranton City guard, having enlisted Aug. 14, 1877; was appointed sergeant Aug. 15, 1877; first sergeant, Nov. 18, 1878; elected second lieutenant, Oct. 20, 1879; first lieutenant, Nov. 30, 1881; re-elected first lieutenant, Nov. 27, 1885, and again re-elected Dec. 9, 1891, at which time he was appointed ranking first lieutenant in the National guard of the state. In his seventeen years of service in the National guard he has never been found wanting in any of the requirements that mark the perfect soldier, upright and manly at all times, affable and courteous to his inferiors, willing and prompt himself to obey, his was a character for all true soldiers to emulate.

The officers of the regiment will assemble at the Scranton City guard armory Tuesday, July 24, at 1:30 p. m., to take part in the funeral services. The usual badge of mourning will be worn by the officers on the sword hilt for the space of thirty days and the national colors displayed on the armory on the day of the funeral.

By order of COLONEL EMMA H. RIPPLE, W. S. MILLAR, Adjutant. QUARTERS OF COMPANY B, THIRTEENTH REGIMENT, N. G. P., SCRANTON, Pa., July 21, 1894. Company order No. 1.

It becomes my sorrowful duty to announce to the company the death of our beloved comrade, First Lieutenant Harman R. Madison, this city, July 20, 1894. Lieutenant Madison has been connected with this company since its organization, as part of the Scranton City guard, August 14, 1877, at which time he was appointed first sergeant and promoted first sergeant November 18, 1878. He filled these two positions faithfully and on November 18, 1881, was elected first lieutenant and received attention to his duties of sergeant. To second lieutenant on November 9, 1885, he was elected first lieutenant and re-elected Dec. 9, 1891. For nearly thirteen years he has held the rank of first lieutenant and for the past three years he has been the senior first lieutenant in the National guard of Pennsylvania, a distinction only attained by few. In the death of Lieutenant Madison we lose a faithful friend and comrade, the regiment a true and upright, truthful and efficient officer. We may all strive to emulate his example. He was faithful to every friend and duty; in his nearly seventeen years of service up to the time his health became impaired, he never missed a single roll call or shirked a single duty. He has answered his last roll call. The long roll has been called. He has gone to his reward and sleeps the sleep of the just and brave comrades. We will miss him. No more shall we hear his voice in our councils. We will take part in our duties as soldiers; miss him in our homes and around our camp fires. We mourn our loss and bid him a soldier's farewell.

At attention to the company B will assemble at the armory on Tuesday afternoon, July 24, 1894, at 1 o'clock, in full uniform, white gloves, to accompany the remains to its last resting place. Any member of the regiment desiring to attend the funeral with Company B, they are hereby cordially invited to do so. By order of CAPTAIN WILLIAM KELLOW, Commanding the Company.

QUALIFYING THE MEN. Considerable progress has been made in the past week in qualifying the regiment. Two more weeks of good work will result in every man being qualified and the regiment will go into camp for the first time with such a record. The whole number qualified up to days is 217, twenty-nine of whom are sharpshooters. Company B still is the lead among the city companies, while Company E has qualified its entire membership.

The following table gives the number qualified in each company:

THE BOARD of officers of the Thirteenth regiment will meet in quarterly session at the Scranton City guard's armory next Monday evening July 30. This will be the last meeting of the board before camp, therefore necessarily an important one.

Adjutant Millar conducted an interesting school in "guard duty" at Honesdale and Montross the past week. The interest and intelligence of the non-coms displayed at this school was very manifest, which if it is demonstrated at camp next month must rate E and G every superior.

Colonel Ripple desires the presence of his entire staff at headquarters to night and as many line officers as can conveniently be present.

Company G has been obliged to close its range for the past two weeks owing to the danger to the haymakers, who have been cutting hay in the close vicinity of the range. The company will resume qualifying today and will qualify every man within the next two weeks.

FIRST COMPANY TO QUALIFY. To Company E belongs the honor of the first company in the regiment qualifying its entire membership for this year. This company has had the record for several years of going to camp with every man qualified.

Major Whitney and Adjutant Millar exercised the mounts they expect to ride in camp this year, in the early morning of Thursday, at the hill of Wyoming. Major Whitney rode a handsome chestnut named Byron, while Adjutant Millar rode Major Whitney's bay pacer named Dandy. The adjutant is much pleased with his mount, which is a counterpart of the d-cased and always popular Billy. He is as satisfied with his horse as he is with his camp. The regimental and brigade matches will be shot this year at the state range, Mount Gretna, from Aug. 27 to Aug. 31. This is following rather closely the annual encampment and does not give the teams much time to recover from the fatigue of camp life. The Thirteenth's team has not been practicing together very much the past summer, and if it is proposed to win the cup next month some hard work will have to be done in the interval.

The non-commissioned staff has not yet received the new knapsacks for the new buttons. There is some disposition upon the part of the state to avoid equipping the non-commissioned staff.

Pointers for inspection and the coming encampment: No enlistments will be valid that are dated after July 18, 1894, unless presented to the adjutant before the departure of the regiment for camp, as it is possible the regiment will be inspected the first day in camp.

Be sure to have the new buttons sewed on the coat. Every enlisted man must wear the state shoe.

Every company should be provided with new white gloves, to be issued to the men at assembly for inspection. The gloves should not be put on until after the knapsack has been slung.

Every officer and man must be present at inspection—100 per cent. presence is necessary—in order to give the regiment first place.

This being a division encampment the sergeant in guard will be inspected every day, and as "guard duty" is one of the prominent features in the ratings every non-com and private should understand and intelligently explain his duties as a member of the guard.

At inspection of quarters see that no sergeant, boot black, or other person is lounging or loafing around the mess tent or kitchen.

Have your hair cut and beard neatly trimmed before going to camp. Scour the tin cup both inside and out the morning of inspection, and have the belt plate bright and gun clean.

THE DIFFERENCE. Minicappis is Times. Thousands of men have thrown up good situations and regular salaries at the call of Debs, and are regretting, as they should, that a large portion of them will be looking in vain for work after the strike is over, no matter what disposition is made of the original cause of the trouble. In Pullman, Debs is drawing his little $50,000 a week with commendable regularity just the same, while his vice president is standing on starvation with $38.40 a week and his seven side contractors now $20.50 at the end of over seven days.
