MADISON LAID TO REST

Impressive Funeral Services at the Elm Park Methodist Episcopal Church. EULOGY BY REV. J. G. ECKMAN

Accompanied by the muffled beat of drums and the subdued notes of the fife the body of Harry K. Madison was consigned to earth at Forest Hill cemetery Saturday afternoon.

The casket rested inside the altar rail and was draped with the stars and stripes. The sheathed sword of the deceased laid across the foot of the coffin.

SERVICES AT THE CHURCH. Owing to the absence from the city of Rev. W. H. Pearce, D.D., pastor of the Elm Park church, and Chaplain S. C. Logan, of the Thirteenth regiment, the services were conducted by Rev. J. G. Eckman, D.D., presiding elder of the Wyoming district, assisted by Rev. Richard H. Jones and Rev. John Davy.

After the Elm Park church quartette had sung "I'm a Stranger," Mr. H. Jones read from I Corinthians, fifteenth chapter: "There is but one glory of the man and one of the woman, who shall all sleep for we shall be changed."

Dr. Eckman intoned in his funeral sermon a fitting eulogy of the deceased. He said: "It was characteristic of Harry Madison to live for others, and his upright life, dignified bearing and correct deportment penetrated the departments and organizations with which he was connected."

WE HAVE HIS EXAMPLE. "The work is done, the pilgrimage ended, his joy is full, and now others have his example and can safely walk in the path which he trod. So, after knowing his where joy is everlasting, those words of comment on a life so well spent leave it unnecessary to attempt words of comfort to his friends and family."

The church services terminated with the singing of "Come, Ye Disciples," and after many a last fond look had been bestowed upon the remains, the casket was removed to the hearse and the procession moved to Forest Hill cemetery. Here a brief service was held and the final military farewell first ever accorded Harry Madison's last earthly resting place.

The pall bearers were from Company B and the Crystal Engine company as follows: Sergeants W. C. Scott and Charles Colwell, Corporals Fred Strengthen, Fred H. Babcock, John H. Sample and George Malott; Daniel Newman, Harry Wilcox, Charles Hines, Henry Kiefer, Isaac Tice and E. A. Newham.

HE WILL SETTLE ALL CLAIMS. Sheriff Will Do So Even if He Has to Sell His Property.

Contractor Frank Shiffer, who spent some time at the insane department of the Hillside home, was discharged from that institution on Sunday, and was met by a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday in the office of City Clerk Lavelle, at the municipal building.

MRS. STEWART BECAME EXCITED. Had the Bad Taste to Call a Plumber a Lard, Young Man.

In court room No. 1 yesterday the suit of Howley Bros. against Sarah Stewart, of Green Ridge, for a claim of $60 for material furnished and plumbing work done on Mrs. Stewart's house at the corner of Penn avenue and Green Ridge street, was heard before Arbitrator Robert J. Murray, Charles E. Oler and D. P. Roplogie, Attorney D. P. Reedy appeared for Howley Bros., and C. P. Davidson, represented the defendant.

FOR THE SHRIEVALTY

Brief Sketch of the Career of George Washington Okell. HE IS A MAN OF THE PEOPLE

After even so brief a comment on his public life and history it seems scarcely necessary to dwell upon Mr. Okell's character. It is sufficient to state that his name and character are clean and have been kept aloof from any under-takings which could reflect discredit upon his own.

The many friends of George W. Okell are watching with interest the campaign of that gentleman during his preliminary canvass for the advisory nomination at the next Republican county convention.

COUNCILMEN ON A JAUNT. They Inspected Burke Brothers Quarries Near No. 7 Reservoir and Were Afterward Dined.

At the invitation of Burke Bros., a party of city officials yesterday paid a visit to the large quarries on the East mountain operated by these pushing contractors, and enjoyed an afternoon of rare pleasure.

George Washington Okell was born in Scranton Nov. 27, 1846, on Mill street, and today lives but a few doors from the scene of his birth.

Mr. Okell's stock in trade was a common school education received in Scranton when he began his first work as a breaker boy at the old Diamond mine.

There is nothing to chronicle concerning the political offices held by Mr. Okell. He has never held any office, but he has been a member of the Republican party, where he has always been found as the man who would labor indefatigably to promote any proper line of work which would redound to the benefit of his party.

STEPS ASIDE THREE YEARS AGO. There are not many candidates who could be induced to relinquish a nomination canvass as Mr. Okell did, under the circumstances which surround his survival nomination canvass in 1891.
