SCRANTON, AUGUST 2, 1894. REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

For Governor: DANIEL H. HASTINGS, OF CENTRAL. For Lieutenant Governor: WALTER LYON, OF ALLEGHENY.

NOTHING IS too good for Scrantonia, not even Eastern league baseball.

Strikes Do Not Pay. Robert Layton, formerly immigrant inspector at Pittsburg, has made a close study of the labor problem.

Colonel Waterison suggests that the Democratic incompetents at Washington be soured in a horse pond.

Senator Cameron's presidential loom has won the unqualified indorsement of the Harrisburg Patriot, Dem.

Luzeine Republicans will nominate their county ticket next Tuesday and leave the rest to the people.

ONE DIFFICULTY with many politicians is that they ripen their politics in the sickle.

AT THE Pie Counter. A fashionable pie this season, which is delicious and effective to serve either with lemon juice and water.

FROM THE denials of reports coming from the east in reference to the battles between the Chinese and sons of Japan.

THE IDEA of the strike is fundamentally war-like. In its inevitable meaning and magnitude the modern strike is an act of war.

THE STATES' RIGHTS DOGMA. By a vote of 62 to 36 the New York constitutional convention has rejected an amendment declaring that the state of New York is an inseparable part of the nation.

of New York toward the Union. It can scarcely be called a reflection upon a state to put in words the conceded fact that it is loyal to the general government.

The people of today, to be sure, know where New York stands, without needing a diagram to instruct them; but the clear definition of that position might have a beneficial effect at some future time.

IF THE nomination of Senator Cameron for president affords the Democratic editors any amusement in this torrid August time, they are heartily welcome to keep right on.

Stronger Lottery Legislation. A lottery bill which promised to make serious inroads into the business of catching guineas would be something of a novelty.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that ex-Banker Rockefeller had promised a friend to write a formal statement explanatory of his business troubles is not credited by those who were once intimate with him.

mailing legislators have been introducing bills for the taxation of sleeping-car companies, express companies, and telegraph companies.

Such a condition of affairs can scarcely be tolerated perpetually. To be sure, the intention, in most cases of official pass-holding, is innocent.

When, several days ago, we charged the president of the Pittston borough council with having besought three Traction company passes, he at first admitted it, asking "where was the harm?"

But later deemed it sufficiently grave to justify threatening us with a libel suit. This, of itself, indicates the changing temper of the people.

No doubt the public once thought little or nothing about these things. But nowadays it is beginning to wonder why officials who, in the main, are well-paid, should expect something for nothing from the transportation companies.

Such a condition begins to look suspicious. Circumstances in legislation which without this knowledge would be inexplicable are easily accounted for when the passes are taken into account.

We do not know how far a prohibitory constitutional amendment would check this evil; but we do know that the right kind of public sentiment would check it; and that kind of sentiment is rapidly forming.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that ex-Banker Rockefeller had promised a friend to write a formal statement explanatory of his business troubles is not credited by those who were once intimate with him.

And yet, why not? Nobody believes that the Rockefeller thousands simply vanished by spontaneous disintegration; nor that any of the theories thus far devised in explanation of their disappearance is in all particulars thoroughly accurate.

In other words, there is much in Mr. Rockefeller's mind which has not yet reached the public ear. The tide of popular sympathy is unmistakably turning in his favor.

What better plan to accelerate it than to honestly confess all that there is to be said?

ably," he admitted, "but not hollow," and the lights went out in the dining room.—Detroit Free Press.

ENTIRELY TOO PRACTICAL: "No, Herbert," she said in a low tone, "it is impossible. I fear to trust my future with you."

"I have watched your conduct closely. It lacks the mark of such devotion as my soul craves."

"I do not come to see you four nights in the week?"

"Yes, but I have detected a calculating selfishness in your nature, which I fear."

"What do you mean?"

"You have never yet failed to leave in time to catch the last car."

THE GIRL OF MANY GARBS: Diamonds, emeralds, pearls, silk things, satin and lace.

So, no wonder my cranium whirls, And I groan at my slouching plight; I have to make love to ten girls All in one, from each morning till night.—Tom Hall in Life.

FOR DELEGATE ELECTIONS. Apportionment of Republican Representation Among the Various Districts.

Pursuant to a meeting of the Republican County committee held on July 14th, 1894, the County Convention will be held on Tuesday, September 4th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the court house at Scranton.

Each election district should elect at the said delegate election, two qualified persons to serve as vigilance committee for one year, and have their names certified to, on the credentials of delegates to the County Convention.

The representation of delegates to the County Convention is based upon the vote cast last fall for Fell, candidate for judge of supreme court, he being the highest polled for at said election.

Under this rule the several election districts are entitled to representation as follows, viz:

Table with 2 columns: District Name and Number of Delegates. Includes districts like Archbold borough, 1st ward, 2d ward, etc.

D. W. POWELL, Chairman. J. W. BROWNING, Secretary.

BABY CARRIAGES. There is a substratum of wisdom underneath this "modern fad" told by the Indianapolis Journal.

CRY OF THE MULTITUDE: Stephen, Stephen. Two years more of Stephen, We'll beg for bread, We'll wait for a bed, 'Till we get rid of Stephen.—Springfield Union.

There are more ways than one to kill a cat. The bright bride of four days who, while passing the honeymoon with her husband, had been at a Washington hotel, succeeded in preventing him from ordering wine for a male friend and thought she had achieved a notable moral triumph.

THE MODERN VERSION: Strike—till your unsmiling friend expires, Strike—till your altar and your fire, Strike—at the green graves of your sires, God-damn our native land.—Mississippi Journal.

A western editor, in answer to the complaint of a subscriber that he did not give news enough, advised him, when news was scarce, to read the Bible which he had no doubt would be news to him.

It was after dinner and he was saying something to the effect of "I think you are doing nothing but I think of you!" she asked in the pleased reproving tone women affect on such occasions.

"I hope it is nothing bad," he answered, after the manner of those who question in part to please. "Well, I think you are a hollow mockery." He folded his hands across himself composedly. "A mockery, pos-
