The ease in question was made as a test by City Solicitor Torrey by instruction of councils. The city wished to file a lein for $18.06 against Bush's property for grading Luzerne street.

The assessment was made by the foot-front rule, and deeming it illegal, Mr.

The reasons his attorney, Mr. Burns, filed were that the assessment was made according to foot frontage in-stead of according to benefits as the law especially declares it should be;

that the grade was not according to the grade of the ordinance but according to one made by the city engineer and not approved by the councils; and that in the contract for grading it is expressly stated that the contractor must complete his work within sixty days or forfeit $3 a day for every day thereafter. He did not complete it in time, and therefore the city should collect $2,220 forfeiture, which would pay for the entire grading. The court here did not consider anything but the first point, that being upon the mauner of assessments. The court was undecided even about that, for the two judges who were available could not agree. Judge Archbald filed a short opinion, but did not enter into the merits of the case.

In this case the assessors indirectly followed the mandate of the law which directs that property shall be assessed equally benefited by the improvement and made their assessment accordingly.

George Kerl Pummels Dr. Haggerty on the Street-Prominent Men Mixed In the Melee-The Doctor at the Sight of a Gun-It Was Not Intended for Usa. FOOT FRONT SYSTEM

The pool room feud which has been the occasion of many interesting espi-That Way of Making Assessments to sodes since Virago won the race, cul-minated last night in a free fight on Penn avenue in which Dr. Haggerty who has been the central figure of the affair was badly beaten by George The supreme court yesterday, in affirming the opinion of Judge Archbald in the case of city of Scranton vs. Kerl.

The encounter took place about 11 o'clock. It appears that Dr. Haggerty and Kerl met in front of the Pacific Nicholas Bush, declared that the foot front rule of assessing properties for hotel and bandled some words about grading is illegal. As nearly all the grading that has been done or is about Kerl's recent arrest at the instigation of the doctor. The doctor went inside to be done in this city is assessed ac- and was followed by Kerl and a large crowd which had been attracted to the scene by the talking in front of the hotel. Kerl was accompanied by John Niland, of the Budget; W. A. St. John, who recently had a little personal en-counter with the doctor; P. P. Jordan, Si Coffee and John Geoghan, agent for Feury & Co., of New York. The doc-tor was accompanied by Mike Keeley, who was his co-defendant in the pool room cases.

> HAGGERTY RAISED HIS CANE. Dr. Haggerty and his friend had a drink together and went outside, Kerl following and then the other parties walked outside. When the sidewalk was reached Dr. Haggerty raised his cane and warned Kerl to keep away from him. Kerl attacked the doctor. Keeley grabbed Kerl by the throat, Goeghan in turn throttled Keeley and the others buisted themselves getting the principals away from each other. Released from Kerl the doctor beat a hasty retreat down Penn avenue to-ward Lackawanna lustily yelling for the police. The struggling crowd in front of the Pacific upon discovering that the doctor had escaped subsided and followed in the doctor's trail. Kerl overtook Haggerty in front of the Fulton market where he made a stand with his cane uplifted. Kerl picked up an empty barrel which was standing along the curb, and propelled it in the direction of the doctor. The doctor went down, and half a minute later when he came up his nose was broken, his eye swollen, his face gashed, according to the benefits. They behis arm bruised and his clothes busmeared with mud.

The doctor washed the blood from his face in the Coyne House and with the assistance of his friend Kelley went to his home on Wyoming avenu-to have his wounds dressed. Kerl disappeared and could not be found.

HAGGERTY REAPPEARS. The other interested parties lounged about the St. Charles talking the affair over until the doctor with his face almost hidden by bandages and bearing a revolver in his hard slighted from his carriage in front of the hotel. Niland and Coffee, and a number of the boarders who were enjoying an evening siests on the porch thought there was going to be some fireworks and concluded to decamp. Niland and Coffee escaped through a rear window and did not return until they had secured police protection. John B. Collings, B. B. Megarges, Coroner Kelly and a number of other prominent men who happened to be on the porch at the time hastily decided that distance would lend enchantment to what was expected to follow and they forthwith put distance between themselves and the St. Charles porch. Their alarm was all for naught, for the doctor had merely drawn his revol-ver to protect himself in case of assault. His mission to the St. Charles was to find Alderman Fitzsimmons, who boards there. He said he would have Kerl, Niland, St. John, Coffee, Geo-ghan and Jordan arrested for waylaying him and he intended to lose no time in having the warrants issued. While the alleys and celiarways in the vicinity were filled with fleeing men the doctor, find-ing that the alderman was not at the St. Charles, quietly drove off in the direction of Lackswanns avenue, prob-

The young boys along the line have the bad habit of jumping on and off the cars while they are in motion, and Dr. Haggerty was seen by a TRIBUNG reporter as he was driving down Wyoming avenue after having his wounds dressed. When asked to give his version of the affair he said :

"I was standing in front of the Pacific hotel when this man Kerl approached me and said, I hear you intend to drive me out of town.' I said that I wished to have no conversation with him and went inside to telephone for my horse. When I came out I was followed by Kerl. Si Coffee, St. John and an agent who works for Feury & Co. of New York. Before I knew their intentions this Kerl struck me a blow. Mr. Keeley, here, grabbed him to keep him from striking me again, but a bartender whose name I have forgotten grabbed Keeley and with the assistance of the others dragged him away. They then followed me and near the Coyne house Kerl caught up to me. He struck me on the head with barrel and when I was down kisked to repeatedly in the face and body. & and restand that Kerl made his brage the St. Charles that he was going down to whip me. Kerl could not be seen but Coffee was found at the St. Charles after Dr. Haggerty and his gun had disappeared from the locality. He said that Dr. Haggerty carries a sword cane and that it was his attempt to draw the sword that ineited Kerl to toss the bar rel at him. The Kerl crowd also claim that the doctor was injured about the face by falling over the barrel and on to the street car track.

It was rumored late in the night that Kerl had left town. Niland could be seen parading Penn avenus looking both ways for Doctor Haggerty. He would not have assaulted the doctor, however, had he seen him. Nor is it likely the doctor would have shot Niland unless he is a good wing shot. At 1 o'clock everything was quiet about the scene of the conflict, even Si Coffee having gone to bed. The bostilities will be reopened no doubt this morning before some alder-

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE. Last night's fues is all the result of a horse race. Kerl and another young man named Connors took some 50 to 1 money on Virago in Keeley's pool shop on Lackawanna avenue. Others had bet heavily on the same herse and when the long shot won the pool shop people suspected that there had been some wire tapping ### going on and refused to pay the beta. Keeley was arrested by two out-oftown parties who had backed Virsgo and settled the case with them. Kerl and Connors would not settle on the same basis as the others, but instead had warrants issued for Keeley, to-gether with Dr. Haggerty, whom they charged with running a policy shop. Haggerty was exoner-ated from all connection with the shop by Alderman Morgan, but notwithstanding this Niland, the Scranton correspondent of the Elmira Budget, made the doctor the principal charac-ter of the affair in his account of the Badly Injured-Lively Scampering hearing and put out a large bulletin at the Sight of a Gun It Was Not board announcing that he intended to do so. For obstructing the sidewalk with the aforesaid Niland had to pay a fine of $5, the doctor being his accuser.

The doctor is also determined to stop the sale of the Budget and is now engaged in arresting everybody who handles it on Sunday. Kerl, who is a bartender at the Conway House, was arrested for selling liquor on Sunday by Dr. Haggerty and when Mr. Conway refused to discharge Kerl, the doctor also had him arrested on the same charge.

DR. HAGGERTY DISARMED. At 2 30 this morning Dr. Haggerty was brandishing his gun on the street in the vicinity of the Coyne House, Officer Jack Moir, who was standing at the old postoffice corner, saw the flash of cold steel and ran down the street and disarmed the doctor.

TREASURY WATCHERS

Councilmanic Auditing Committee Wary of Imposition-Bills That Were High and One Low One.

Every member of the auditing com-mittee of councils was present at the semi-monthly meeting last night and such was armed with a double edged axe. When they got through weilding them the heap of bills, which had run the gauntles, presented a rather dilapidated appearance.

The members seemed to be under the impression that each of the city's creditors was trying to beat the municipality and that some of the heads of departments were not as sharp sighted as they should be in scanning the items of the various bills which come under their supervision.

One large batch of bills for various kinds of supplies and work was referred to the building committee with the recommendation that that body make a thorough investigation before they are paid.

The committee also objected to a bill because it was too small. This was the bill of the park commissioners. One of the items was for the services of three taborers at $1,25 per day. The committee said a laborer ought to receive at least $1.50 per day and as that number of reasons, but chiefly because is the amount the city has fixed for la-borers' pay, the clerk was instructed to charge the bill accordingly.

Without disparaging the prospects of the large number of candidacies for office before the coming Republican county convention, no exceptions can be taken to the statement that indications point to the probable nomination of William K. Bick, of Moscow, for the office of county treasurer. The arguments advanced by his friends and political supporters are various and point strongly toward Mr. Beck's nomination and election. A discussion of this particular candidacy seems opportune at this time.

Mr. Beck was born at Lockport Northampton county, Aug. 13, 1849, and has since remained a citizen of the Keystone state. After acquiring an academic education at the Easton academy and Wyoming seminary he lost no time in entering on a career in business which has been as successful as it has been varied.

The election of Mr. Back to the legislature from the Third district to serve during 1898 and 1894 was attended by circumstances similar to those surrounding his present canvass. A man was wanted who was stalwart, honest and popular enough to win. Mr. Beck entered the beech and was elected with a flattering majority.

His identity with his party, so far as office holding is concerned, is confined to his service in the legislative hall in larrisburg. His term has been marked by strict attention to his duty, regu-larity in being found in his seat and an alertness to labor for the public good generally and for his district particu-

SERVICES FOR THE PARTY. Of Mr. Beck's work within the party lines, much could be written if space were available. Yet it seems unneces-sary from the fact that his interest in the party and unselfishness in advancing its interests are well known to those who have followed the advance of the Republican organization in the county. He has been a worker in all apper and lower branches of council the word implies and this statement the ranks. There are men who have labored at times, but it can be truthfully said of Mr. Beck that he has worked earnestly all the time. No one fact so forcibly establishes man's reputation as his position in the community where he lives, and if this evidence alone were applied to Mr. Back it would be sufficient to stamp tegrity, public spiritedness and popularity in that borough, has won for himself an enviable position.

From the lumber coal, mercantile

Post Office Inspector Owing Is in City Working on Case-A Most Mysterious Affair.

An air of mystery yet surrounds the recent stamp robbery at the post office. Post Office Inspector Owing is in charge of the case and his investigations have not reached a point where it can be stated that the job was performed by professional cracksmen or amateurs. Mr. Owing pronounces the robbery a most daring and clever piece of work from the fact of its being performed in so large an office and at a time when two clerks were in the large main working room nearly adjacent.
The inspector intimates that
