SIXTH STRAIGHT.

Reason Why We Failed to Defeat Providence Yesterday.

The would-have been champions of the State league went down again be-fore the snap-shot field play and the whack-ety-whack willow music of the tuighty men from Providence yesterday, "it's a long road that has no turn," but the home team has been turning so long in the same direction that we have fears for the future.

The score of 11 to 2 might have been reduced if Donovan bad presented the Providence men with fewer basses on balls, if the team work had been stronger or if the hits had been less disposed to fall into the ever-waiting paws of the other fellows. That's the story. Aside from Donovan's predisposition to put the ball anywhere but over the plate, he pitched as good a game as Sullivan until the eighth inning, when he was fallen upon for four long hits, each of which was good for two bases and which netted three runs for the visitors. The local nine individually played good ball, though Cahill might be criticised for letting two hot ground-

Cabill found the leather every time he was at bat, with one exception, but he either flew out or could not beat the ball to first, and the same hard criticise the playing, but refrained from Cabili found the leather every time luck fell to the lot of Donovan. Rogers was left on the bases four times, and to his good stick work, and that of Sidewheeler, Massey and Staltz, belongs most of the credit for the work at bat. In the sixth, eighth and ninth innings the home team was retired in one, two and three order, and in the seventh but four had the chance to rap at the ball After the fifth inning we were not in the game.

The work of the big men from the small state was excellent without ex cepting any player. Knight, left field, caught the grand stand by several difficult catches, and Stricker, second base, and Rogers, first base, made dif-

In the seventh inning Rogers, of Scranton, scratched third on Dixon's poor throw, and everybody drew a long breath when big Massey moved him-self to the plate. He spat upon his hands and after two vicious and ineffectual swipes the crowd made ready to swoon. Massey gave an extra hitch to his trousers and knocked the third and good ball out of sight over far left field. When it came down Knightpulled it in after a running jump in the air. It was one of the best exhibitions of a fielder's judgment seen this year. Here is the agony:

Barre Loses to Buffalo. WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 8.— Wilkes-Barre lost today's game with Buffalo by errors at critical points and failure to hit the ball when hits were badly needed. Keenan pitched very effectively for the home team, but he did not receive the support that Hoffer did. Attendance, 600. Weather fine.

GLINTS FROM THE DIAMOND.

Scranton vs. Springfield today.

Two gilt-edged running stops by Siricker yesterday put the bleachers on doing so. Sullivan and Donovan are alike in one respect. Off-colored judgment on balls and strikes doesn't seem to trouble them.

Sullivan's invariable answer to the worst end of it is a broad grin. One of the best games of base ball ever witnessed at Taylor was played there yesteriny between teams representing the Loyal Knights of America and the Ameri-can Mechanics, and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 12 to 10. Howells and Davis were in the points for the Knights and Morris and Lydon were the Mechanic's battery. Murray, who covers right fleid for Prov-Murray, who covers right field for Providence, is a good ball player and at heart a clover fellow, but he shows poor judgment in wrangling with the umpire for the adfication of the grand stand. The crowd yesterday was ready to dub him many ngly names until near the end of the game when a little fellow inside the ropes was hit in the ribs by a foul ball. Murray coddled him and the crowd "wus wid 'im' afterward. Such is base ball.

Following the meet it is proposed to organize a tour of the wheelmen from Denver to Colorado Springs and Maniton.

WHIRLS OF THE WHEEL.

The one thing which prevents Sanger from utilizing his extraordinary physical atrength and undoubtedly great speed is lack of judgment. A well known expert says of him that all his riding is done with his legs-that his head counts for nothing. -Exchange.

Another bicyclist will attempt to dupli-cate the trip of Thomas Stevens by riding around the world on a bicycle. R. I. Wilmarth, a physician, has started from New York to girdle the globe. Mr. Wilmarth has been riding for some time, and takes this trip with the object of becoming bet-ter acquainted with the various countries. He expects to consume about three years in making the trip, and, as his plans are now outlined, he expects to visit every country excepting China.

It will be a great surprise to cyclists to learn their revered Mol. Champion Arthur Zimmerman, has decided to turn his tal-lents to the stage. This is the case, how-ever, and if his plans are not changed, New York will see him in a cycling comedy about Christmas time. Leander Richardson is writing the play, in which the great pedaler will make his debut, and as soon as the work is completed it will be forwarded to Zimmerman for approval. The play will be in four acts.

For the good name of cycling it is to be hoped that some of the half-baked riders perk. If they only jeopardized their own needs in their wild flights of speed, their performances could be regarded with downright composure by the public in general and the law-abiding wheelmen in particular, but they don't. They are needed about by a luck which appears to save both their bones and their whoels in the event of a collision. It is well, perhaps for the great body of local wheelmen that Philaderphia has such a liberal-minded director of public sarety as Mr. Bettler. Otherwise they might find their privileges curtailed. The pend find their privileges curtailed. The pending ordinance in councils to restrain wheelmen from riding on Chestnut street dur-ing certain hours of the day is the logical ruicome of the indifference shown by a small—a very small—porcentage of cyclers for the rights of others. Chestuat street is too narrow a theroughfare for sprinting wheelmen to show off their attalnments, and during the day, when traf-fic between Broad street and the Delaware is generally congested, a speed faster than six or seven miles an hour is a menace to the life and limb of those who are compelled to go from one side of the street to the other. It took a long while for local wheelmen to live down to the opposition to their favorite pastime, and now that they enjoy all the privileges accorded to horse owners, they should demonstrate that they deserved those privileges by respecting the rights of others.—Philadel-phia Press.
