THE TEACHER QUESTION

Another Public School Principal Gives Opinion About Controller's Remarks.

BELIEVES THEY ARE UNJUST

Says That if the Board of Control Paid Reasonable Salaries It Could Command the Entire Time of Those They Employ as Teachers—Proceeds to Make Some Comparisons on the Salary Question.

The recent interview in THE TRIBUNE in which the remarks of a member of the board of control was quoted to the effect that it was the intention of the board to increase the salaries of principals, but that it would be accompanied by a weeding out of those who do not devote their whole time to teaching, caused no end of comment among the principals of the city schools.

All manner of comments were indulged in, many of which were not favorable to the wisdom of the controller, whose remarks, it might be well to have understood here, were directed against those principals who, in his opinion, neglected the duties of their positions because they were so very grossed in other occupations in which they were engaged as side issues.

Saturday's TRIBUNE contained an earnest protest from one of the principals of the city concerning the remarks of the controller. Another gentleman, who is one of the best known educators in the city, was met yesterday by a TRIBUNE reporter and in the course of a discussion on the merits of the controller's position this teacher said:

THINKS CONTROLLER UNJUST.

"For school controller to boldly assert that there are many incompetent teachers employed as principals in our city schools, without giving facts is unjust and unfair. If his assertion has an element of truth in it why not make a sweeping reform now? The task will be just as difficult and unpleasant a year hence as it would be to-day. A controller who knows that incompetent teachers are employed, even for a year, is unjust to himself and the ward he represents, if he holds his silence in the face of control. Newspaper talk about the incompetency of teachers is not what the people want. They want a man who has the courage to act when he faces incompetency work.

"Procrastination is the thief of time, and the man who employs knowingly incompetent workmen robs the public wallet. Are these charges correct and founded on fact? Let us see. Every teacher holds a certificate which affirms his competency and which the board cannot disregard. Second, the superintendent has put the stamp of his approval on our work by not condemning it. He is the judge and overseer, and is long to be commended for work he is the responsible party and not us.

OUTSIDE OCCUPATIONS. "There is more truth than poetry in his statement concerning work done outside of the school doors. Some of us are in building and loan associations, some in law, some in real estate, some in stocks and bonds, some in newspaper work, in fact all but one or two are engaged in work not strictly pedagogical. But, my friend, the great number employed in other work than school teaching argues conclusively the absolute necessity of such work. If 95 per cent. of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western workmen were to engage in work outside of their regular employment for the sake of a few extra dollars, you would not, owing to the number doing such work, draw the conclusion that the foremen were pious men and money-makers, but in reason you would see that their compensation was not enough.

"If a lawyer engages in real estate it is because his practice does not pay. If a physician begins to lecture around the country it is because his business does not pay. Let reason enter into the case. Prove to the people that we are as well paid as teachers doing similar work in cities of 90,000 or 90,000, and they will demand our whole time, but as long as we are 20 per cent. below the average salary made from twenty cents nearly our own size, they are willing to let us justify. The people want good schools and are willing to pay for them, and were it not for the active opposition of one member of the board, the salaries of many principals would have been raised several years ago.

"I voice the sentiment of our teachers just as correctly as the member of the board voiced the sentiment of controllers when he said they wanted a sweeping reform. I give you the best thought of our best teachers, gleaned in work and conversation."

The Pitiful Case of Mrs. Lydia Flaning, of Price Street.

DESERTED BY HER HUSBAND

She is Doing Her Utmost to Support Herself and Her Children—Marriage of Miss Ellen Markwick to William Morgan—Painful Accident That Mrs. Lee Met with—Elsinore Camping Club to Go to Lake Winola.

Mrs. Lydia Flaning, who has for the last few days been occupying the small one story dwelling next to the Salvation Army barracks on Price street, tells a pitiful tale of woe and suffering. Three days ago she was abandoned by her husband, leaving her on this side. She was accompanied by her two children and they were penniless and homeless. A TRIBUNE reporter called at Mrs. Flaning's home last evening and heard from her the tale of her sufferings.

She married Sylvester Flaning in Wilkes-Barre five years ago, and since that time her trials have been severe. He was employed as a stationary engineer in Wilkes-Barre at a good salary, yet he claimed he was unable to support his wife and children. The children were also of superior ability throughout.

GOOD REPOSITORY.

Old Neptune Hand Engine Presented to the Volunteer Fire Association.

The old Neptune engine, a relic of anti-bellum fire fighting, which did duty for several years in Philadelphia and which has been in this city since 1862 is now the property of the Volunteer Firemen's association, a most fitting repository for this revered monument.

The presentation exercises occurred last night in Durr's hall, in which place the old Neptune engine was in session. When the engine was received in this city G. W. Roseler, who was foreman of the company and who went to Philadelphia to purchase the engine, the engine was accepted at last night in the name of the firemen's association. Robert Reeves, the near friend and executor of the estate of the late Dr. George S. Toroop, who before he died purchased the engine for the association, made the presentation speech. Secretary Ziegler, of the firemen's association, read the letter from Dr. and Mrs. B. H. Toroop donating the engine.

It was an event which fired the spirit of the old volunteers present and made everybody feel enthusiastic. Fitting eulogies were paid to the one who had bequeathed the engine and the story of the old machine was told with enthusiasm by Alderman Roseler. The evening was closed with a social session at which refreshments were served.

In the parlor she discovered two men soundly sleeping on the floor. Special Officer Spellman, who lives next door, was quickly summoned, and when the unwelcome lodgers awoke they found themselves in the grasp of the law.

They were permitted to finish their nap in the station house and at the hearing in the morning they were allowed to go, after proving conclusively that they had no evil intentions in entering the house. They gave their names as Michael Harding and James Moran, and stated that they had no knowledge of how they got into the house or what brought them into that neighborhood. It is supposed that while drunk they wandered in there and fell asleep.
