GRAND JURY MEETS TODAY.

Large Amount of Business to Organize Its Attention.

Today the grand jury will meet for the October term and the constables of the county make their quarterly return to court.

While there will be a large number of cases to engage the attention of the jury this week, the stock of transcripts is not so large as that which confronted the grand jury after the summer vacation one year ago. In only a comparatively small number of cases are crimes of a grave character charged.

When court resumes today it will be in session almost continuously until Christmas.

FIXING UP THE SLATE

Democratic Leaders of the County Have a Serious Task Before Them.

GEORGE HOWELL FOR CONGRESS

He is Now the Favorite for the Nomination—P. P. Smith Will Oppose Judge Archbald for the Judgeship and James G. Bailey Will Be Tendered the Nomination for Sheriff—Sheriff Fahey May Be Placed on the Ticket.

There was a lively scurrying among Democratic politicians Saturday. The primaries of the party were being held but they received little or no attention from the bosses who were deeply intent on the task of constructing a slate so balanced that it would have a chance of weathering the big gale that is coming in November.

Much interest is centered in this congressional district this year and the result of the pending fight will be closely watched by William H. Harby and others who are high in the councils of the Democratic party of the state and nation. They want this district to point to an evidence that the recent tariff legislation by a Democratic congress is endorsed in great manufacturing centers, such as this. Ex-Sheriff Robinson has had the disposing of the federal patronage heretofore and to him was assigned the duty of swinging this county into the Democratic column as a proof that the offices doled out to him were not misplaced.

A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Mr. Robinson and the other Democratic leaders were not unmindful of the desperate task the national leaders assigned them to and for several weeks have been on the outlook for a candidate for congress. John E. Roche was approached on the subject, but refused to consider a proposition to be a candidate. He is not looking for office this year. W. H. Gearhart and Professor George Howell were also considered. A conference of the leaders was held Saturday morning, but adjourned until evening to give ex-Sheriff Robinson an opportunity to have a talk with ex-Judge Smith. It was Mr. Robinson's idea that Mr. Smith would make an excellent candidate for congress and he wanted the ex-judge to relinquinsh the office of again becoming a candidate for judge and instead accept the congressional nomination.

That was a proposition to which Mr. Smith would not agree. It would mean the endorsement of Judge Archbald and, as Mr. Smith put it, leave him open to the charge of having deserted when his party needed a candidate. If he accepted any nomination it would be that of judge, and Mr. Robinson thereupon went back to rejoin his colleagues a somewhat disappointed man. That was at 5 p.m.

THE EVENING CONFERENCE

Another conference was held in the Scranton House after supper. In the meantime the congressional field had been surveyed with all kinds of telegrams and the chief person who loomed up as a possibility was ex-Congressman Amerman. True, he had publicly stated that he would not be a candidate for the office, but it was thought he might be induced to reconsider his determination. He was sent for.

The relations between Mr. Robinson and Mr. Amerman have been somewhat strained since the latter's recommendations with regard to federal appointments were ignored in the interests of Mr. Robinson. At the conference between these notables, however, it was hoped the differences of the past would be bridged, and an agreement concerning the future entered into. This done, it was hoped Mr. Amerman would agree to become the candidate for congress. That disposed of the head of the ticket and P. P. Smith's name next went down on the slate after the office of judge. Next came ex-Sheriff and here was another rub. James G. Bailey would rather be a candidate for clerk of the courts, but John Durkin, another aspirant for that position, had made an earnest canvass for delegates and if set aside might bid a position to break the slate in the convention which would leave Mr. Bailey out in the cold.

BAILEY FOR SHERIFF

It was therefore resolved to slate Bailey for sheriff and Charles Schaubt will be the candidate for county treasurer as agreed upon weeks ago. The nomination for district attorney is accorded to John P. Kelly and James J. Healey will have no opposition for recorder. John Durkin is on the slate for clerk of the courts.

H. T. Koehler is slated for register of deeds although Frank Decker's name is still mentioned for the office. Notwithstanding Sheriff Fahey's oft repeated statement that he does not want a nomination this year he may be found on the ticket as candidate for prothonotary. Matthew Norton of Carbondale and John Lentus of the South Side are also mentioned for the office. Denis J. Roche will probably receive the nomination for jury commissioner.

Last night another conference was held at the Scranton House and the question of a candidate for congress discussed. It is highly probable that Professor George Howell, of the West Side, will be the man who will be decided upon. Mr. Howell is not pursuing the nomination, but the leaders think he would make a strong candidate.

Sheriff Fahey stated last night that he did not know whether or not he would accept the nomination for prothonotary. Saturday afternoon a certain condition of affairs had existed and he consented to take a place on the ticket. The aspect of affairs had altered later and he was not prepared last night to say what he would do.

There was little interest displayed in the primaries Saturday and in some districts only the form of an election was conducted. The convention will be called to order Tuesday morning at 10:30 in the court house by Sheriff Fahey who is chairman of the county committee.

BATTLE FOR SHERIFF

At a late hour last night the following card was received by THE TRIBUNE from D. P. Battle, of the Twentieth ward:

I do hereby declare myself a candidate for sheriff, subject to the will of the Democratic convention on Tuesday next.

D. P. BATTLE.

REFUSED GOOD ADVICE.

Officer Dyer Tried in Vain to Persuade a Drunken Man to go Home.

James Mulhern, of the West Side, was drunk, disorderly and blockading the sidewalk near the Lackawanna Valley house Saturday night. Officer Dyer was notified and advised Mulhern to get on a street car and go home.

He began to abuse the officer, called him insulting names and when placed under arrest attempted to assault the guardian of the peace. Officer Dyer received a couple of jabs in the face while trying to put the nippers on his prisoner. Constable Shea was near at hand and assisted in pinning Mulhern, who was fined $4 for his activity.

CAME TO PAINT THE TOWN.

Peter Finnelly, a Buffalo Carpenter, Was on That Mission Night.

At 8:45 Saturday night Officer Finnelly arrested a drunken man on Lackawanna avenue. At the police station he gave his name as Peter Finnelly, Buffalo. His sole purpose in coming here, he stated, was to get on a glorious drunk and paint the town a brighter red than any coat of carmine had pigment it had ever received in years.

Alderman Fuller charged him $3 for his board over night at police headquarters, which he paid after inquiring what time the Great Train Robbery at Wilkes-Barre. He considers that a better field for his artistic efforts in the decorating line.

A HUSBAND'S CRIME.

Luke Riley, of This City, Murdered at Berea, O., by Farmer John Beyers.

The following telegram was received by Chief of Police Simpson Saturday: CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 8.—Luke Riley of your city murdered. Please notify his father, who is a furnace keeper.

E. W. ARBUCKLE, Coroner.

The chief sent instructions to all police officers to make investigation in their precincts concerning the relatives of Riley, but at a late hour last night the police had been unable to locate any of them. The chief expects today to be able to find Riley's friends.

The following special dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from Cleveland, O., throws light on the affair:

A man who came to this city from Scranton, Pa., not more than a month ago, was murdered last night in a farm house northwest of Berea, near here, after which his murderer dragged his body to the yard and left him there over night, giving himself up to the authorities in the morning.

The murdered man was Luke Riley, of Scranton, Pa., and the murderer, a Cleveland, Lerrin and Wheeling extension.

The blow that ended Riley's life was dealt by John Beyers, a well known and well-to-do farmer living on Prospect road, between Strongsville and Great Lakes.

The story is that he was interrupted while milking his cows by a dog's furious bark. He followed the dog and as he entered his house he heard Riley making an insulting proposal to Mrs. Beyers. Without waiting for anything further Beyers picked up a whiff-stick and struck Riley a terrible blow on the head, killing him instantly.

The body was dragged to the kitchen and left till morning. Then Beyers took the remains to the cemetery and buried them over them and gave himself up to the Strongsville trustees.

A man named John Riley, who is known to have resided there since and is the only person by the name from Scranton who is known to be in that portion of the county.

PERSONAL CHIT CHAT.

Deputy Prothonotary Myron Kesson returned Saturday evening from Williamsport, where he attended the United States court as a juror. It was a short term and Mr. Kesson and his fellow jurors were correspondingly grateful.

Councilman E. E. Robathan and Druggist Thomas H. Jones, of the West Side, returned early Sunday morning from their European trip. They were coated with tan, but demonstrated their appreciation that the trip across the herring pond had been immeasurably beneficial. They speak in glowing terms of the pleasure derived from their trans-atlantic jaunt.

James Nalin, of New York, spent yesterday with his wife and children, who are the guest of his parents on Pittston avenue. Mr. Nalin learned telegraphically in his trip that there was another rub. James G. Bailey would rather be a candidate for clerk of the courts, but John Durkin, another aspirant for that position, had made an earnest canvass for delegates and if set aside might bid a position to break the slate in the convention which would leave Mr. Bailey out in the cold.

George C. Stebbins, who is in charge of the singing at the Moody meetings, is one of the leading composers of sacred music in the world. He was born in the western part of New York state and in 1859 moved to Chicago, where he entered the musical profession. During his residence there he became acquainted with Moody and Sankey and in 1876 became identified with them in evangelistic work. Since that time he has been one of the authors of the popular hymn series, his associates being Ira D. Sankey and James McGranahan. Mr. Stebbins' compositions have been uniformly popular. Some of his best known hymns are: "There is a Green Hill Far Away," "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," "Evening Prayer," "Jesus is Calling," "Come Unto Me," "In the Secret of His Presence," "I've Found a Friend," "Beyond the Sunning and Weeping," "Throw Out the Life Line," "Satisfied," "Trust in the Lord," "Heard of," and "Crown Him." Mr. Stebbins possesses a voice combining rare sweetness and power, his enunciation being so clear that his words can be readily recognized. Besides his talent as a singer, Mr. Stebbins is a zealous Christian worker and renders valuable service in the after meetings which are usually held in connection with Mr. Moody's services.

Ross Coghlan is stopping at the Wyoming, having arrived from Rochester with her company. During a chat with a "Times" reporter she said: "In presenting Saratoga's great play, 'Diplomacy,' at the Frothingham to-morrow evening my audience will see one of the most interesting plays from the pen of this great dramatist. It is his best play. It is a pronounced success as the Countess Zicka when it was produced for the first time in this country at Wallack's theatre, New York. I cannot give you a detailed description of my dress because I do not think that any description would adequately explain their beauty and elaborateness. Tuesday night I shall present 'The Wild West' and 'Woman of No Importance.' It is a strong play and presents many phases of character common in English society. My part in the play is more emotional than anything I have done of late and is in strong contrast to the character of the Countess Zicka in 'Diplomacy.' Miss Coghlan is looking in the best of health and says that her season, so far, which began at Saratoga week before last, has been very successful and up to her expectations.

The $40,000 School House for Columbia avenue has been let and will be commenced immediately. There are still a few lots left at a low price.

A TALK WITH LADIES

Evangelist Moody Speaks to Over 2,000 of them of God's Love.

PLAIN TALK TO AUDIENCE OF MEN

Mr. Moody Preaches on Sowing and Reaping—Popular Sins Powerfully Condemned—Sowing Lies and Reaping Lies—Sins of Trade Scathingly Denounced—Tallie Morgan's Choir of 100 Male Voices Assist at Evening Service.

The Frothingham theater was overcrowded at the men's services last night when Mr. Moody addressed over 3,000 men. Excellent music was provided by a special choir comprising 100 male voices selected from the Sacred Musical society and conducted by Tallie Morgan. George C. Stebbins, the musical colleague of Mr. Moody, and Caswallon Davis, of the Moody quartette, also contributed selections with their usual accuracy.

The preliminary services were conducted by Secretary Pearson of the Railroad Young Men's Christian association and Secretary Mahy of Young Men's Christian association.

Mr. Moody took his text from Galatians vi, 7: "Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap." The evangelist introduced his subject in the following language:

Nine years ago I did not see the truth of that verse as I see it tonight, and it has been burning deeper down in my heart ever since. It is astonishing how blind people must be that they don't see the gravity of this verse, which is one of God's fixed laws and one which meets man in every turn of his life, and from which no one is exempt—the priest at the altar, the peasant, the congressman or the president. We are all deceived by our sins, and to come nearer to home we may be deceived by our twin brother, and above all our own heart is more deceitful than any other part of us, and we are sure—the God that Bible never was and never will be deceitful. There are a class of people who, because they don't believe in the Bible, are certain to be deceived, but that makes no difference to the truth nevertheless. These men don't want to believe.

I am not in the habit of dividing my sermons into heads as I fear of getting lost before concluding, but this evening I propose to divide my sermon into four parts. (1) A man expects to reap where he sows. (2) A man who sows in righteousness will reap in righteousness. (3) A man who sows in unrighteousness will reap in unrighteousness. (4) A man who sows in the love of God will reap in the love of God.

WE REAP WHERE WE SOW.

The first head does not require any more explanation as you all understand its meaning, so I will pass over to the second. A man expects in the natural world to reap what he has sown. No man who plants wheat expects to get turnips, neither would a man sow wheat and expect to grow cucumbers. Neither would a man who has learned the trade of making a pair of shoes expect to get medicine, and just as true it is in the spiritual world, that a man is going to reap the same kind of seed he sows. If you sow in righteousness you will reap in righteousness. Storekeepers have asked me to account for the large number of dishonest clerks and I have told them that when they compel the clerks to handle their goods when they are half cotton, they are simply sowing the seed and reaping what they have sown, and is it there anything to be surprised at that if you touch them to check they are bound to cheat you? If you sow lies be certain that you shall reap lies. I wouldn't sell whiskey, and why? I am making a drunkard of your son and would I reap what I have sown? I challenge any run-seller if he is present to find me a man who has been in the whiskey business twenty years and who has not a family skeleton either in a drunkard's or near relative.

My friends you cannot afford to sell. Don't sell out, but stock in the stock of your whiskey barrels and empty it in the sewer. Rise as one man and keep the cursed thing out of the land. They are carrying the flag to the top of corruption. The same thing applies to the church member who rents his property for these purposes, or the man who holds stock in a saloon, and in that about the bush and devil. You will reap what you sow and had better look after your investments. Look whether this is not the truth and if it is not to be found in the Bible and if you don't care for it, go out, as I am going at it still harder.

TRUTHS PLAINLY TOLD.

Mr. Moody then faithfully carried out his promise and went at it very much harder and rung out plain truths which every man in the 3,000 men had felt their force in one respect or the other.

"Supposing," said he, "that a man steals my pocketbook what do I lose—a few greenbacks, what does he lose? He loses a clear conscience, he loses his soul and forfeits heaven."

After demonstrating how Jacob and David had repaid the sins they had sown and how audacity, rebellion and murder occurred in David's family and were just the sins he had sown the evangelist passed on to third head: a man will reap more than he sows. A farmer told him that from one bean he sowed he reaped no less than 1,000 beans. Jacob reaped for twenty years what he had sown for an hour and while he was preaching there were men in Scranton sowing sins which would take all their natural life in reaping. Young men talk about just sowing their "wild oats." Do they realize that in the reaping they will reap in shame involving a devoted wife, a sainted mother, the little innocent children. Where are the bank clerks, cashiers and president who by small sins developed their sowing until now we read of them reaping their harvest for ten, fifteen, say twenty

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN O'Rourke.

Expired at Her Home Yesterday After a Long Illness.

Mrs. John O'Rourke died yesterday at her home, 643 River street, after a long illness. Mrs. O'Rourke was 28 years of age and is survived by a husband and two children. She is mourned by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Her funeral will take place Tuesday morning at 9:30. A requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Peter's cathedral. Interment will be made in Hyde Park Catholic cemetery.

OFF FOR ALBANY.

Two Scrantonians Who Will Participate in a Reunion There.

S. H. Stevens and LeGrand Wright leave this morning for Albany, N. Y., to participate in the annual reunion of the One Hundred and Seventy-Seventh regiment, New York volunteers, which will be held today at The Abbey, a picturesque spot on one of the charming hills overlooking the Empire state capital.

Mr. Stevens is vice president of the regimental association.

ADDRESS TO LADIES.

The ladies' meeting at Elm Park church at 4 o'clock afternoon drew a large congregation of ladies to that magnificent church. It was crowded beyond its capacity with ladies of all ages, and the effect of the various pretty dresses and contrasting colors was not to be forgotten.

After several selections had been sung under the direction of Mr. Stebbins, prayer was offered by Mr. Moody in terms most impressive. He asked divine help for those women cursed with drunken husbands and for the blessing of the heavenly Father upon the young maidens who were entering the battle of life. In the course of an excellent address delivered by Mr. Moody for the special benefit of the ladies, he observed:

I shall speak on those words which are found in the epistle to St. John, chapter 4: "God is Love." The love of God is an unchangeable love and those who do not love, there are many that you would love a few years ago but who you would now pass on the streets unheeded and there is a decree between the human and divine love.

THE LOVE OF GOD.

When our friends betray us and prove deceitful, we cease to love them, but God's love is unchangeable, and He loves those who have sinned as those who do not. The strongest human love is the love of a mother. The love of a father to a son may be estranged, or the love of a wife to her husband may cease, but when it would be wide, wide world will you find a true mother who will cease to love her babe.

After this introduction which secured the close attention of his hearers, Mr. Moody proceeded to illustrate the many points of his eloquent address by thrilling incidents, which in similar language he applied with his usual incisiveness to his large audience. His plain method of applying his deductions made a powerful impression upon the ladies present and there is no doubt that while the address would afford consolation to many hungry souls there were many also to whom it would be instructing upon the great subject of love and particularly the duties of Christian people with regard to the love they should bear to one another as well as to their Heavenly Father.

SERVICES ON WEST SIDE.

A very large number gathered beneath the canvas tent on North Main avenue at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the services conducted by E. W. Bliss. The choir was in superb condition and rendered sweet music during the service. Professor William W. Jones conducted the singing and Miss Marian Hutchinson presided at the organ. After the regular song service Rev. T. J. Collins prayed.

Mr. Bliss took the text of his afternoon discourse from Paul to the Hebrews iv, 22. He said:

The Bible is a unit. There is no discord whatever in its construction. It is the same as an organ when touched by a skilled hand. The seeds of truth were sown in Genesis and developments following in the rest of its books. There is one very erroneous view which some people have, and that is when Christ comes, that it will be the end of the world. For 1,800 years the Jews have been blinded and the Gentiles illuminated. At the end of this age the most wonderful transformation scene will occur. Some say that Christ is only waiting for a certain development in the people to make them ready to receive him. He came into this world to put away sin, and it never was put away until he came. We now say, "How about the saints of the Old Testament?"

By virtue of the covenant of grace, God had only pictured to the minds of these Old Testament saints in such ways as the Passover and the spotted lamb, but the real action was taken when Christ appeared. He will return here and take his own. We shall see Him as He is. Hallelu the day and let it come quickly and God will take care of His disciples.

A prayer followed. The evening services were very largely attended. A service of song and prayer was held after which an eloquent sermon was preached by Mr. Bliss. A large number attended.
