importers, who need their goods to supply their largely increased demand for consumption and cannot get them released because of the short force of men at the disposal of the customs officials.

At whose expense is all this activity at the custom house? Sugar being a necessity which we do not produce here in America to sufficient extent to supply the home market, this $91,600 duty on the Java raw sugar will eventually come, not out of the pockets of the importer, but out of those of the American consumer.

CHARLES P. O'MALLEY, who at Saturday's Fourth district primaries won such a notable political victory, is a newcomer to state politics, but he is one of the class of recruits who thoroughly deserve promotion.

SINGELY SOUNDS A RETREAT.

From this time forth the canvass should be waged throughout the state with a view to the election of as many congressmen, senators, representatives and county officials as possible, without special effort for the state ticket.

THE SCRANTON board of trade was not organized for the purpose of fostering Wilmington industries.

When Friends Fall Out.

One of the sad spectacles of current politics just now is Colonel McClure cruelly turning his back upon his erstwhile friend and beloved one, Commodore Singery, and accompanying that act with a bitter taunt of derision and disdain.

"Peanut political leader," indeed! Unless the dogs of war. Draw, colonel. Draw, commodore. After this insult, war; cruel and horrid war, alone can suffice.

The Democracy of Pennsylvania understand the peanut politics of the Third congressional district too well to take pause for a moment in the work of the campaign. They understand that individuals are of little moment, even if meritorious, when a great battle is to be fought for the assertion of vital political principles.

After this rib-smasher, delivered in the colonel's suavest manner, let no man say that the colonel is the commodore's friend. "A friend should bear a friend's infirmities," he should remember in this instance, the commodore's proneness to fierce explosions, to sudden gusts of passion and wrath which, one second furious and terrible, are the next moment like a storm that is spent, leaving the genial and bucolic pacificator all smiles and contrition.

COMMODORE SINGELY has cooled off sufficiently to admit that "probably if the rascally aggregation that defeated Mr. Aler had desired or expected to elect their nominee they would have selected a man of their own kidney. McCullen in congress would not suit the enemies of McAlister any better than McCullen suited them."

THE EFFORT of Huntington county Republicans to elect the Republicans of Center county whom the latter should select as their candidate for judge finds few defenders. Mr. Love was fairly nominated at the center primaries; Mr. Lovell has obstinately refused fair offers of comproagain; and the farce will go on to its second Waterloo.

THE UTTER collapse of the charges of M. W. Donnelly against Professor Robert Shiel, principal of the public schools of Pittston, while not unexpected, is instructive. Donnelly, it is believed, tried to damage Professor Shiel, who is a capable educator, because the latter took no stock in Donnelly's pretensions as a political reformer.

The Scheme Won't Work.

The Republican national campaign committee is short of funds and can not carry on as vigorous a campaign in states like Pennsylvania as it could wish, but will rely largely upon the efforts of the state committee and local managers. In this respect the Democrats are in superior shape. Their congressional campaign committee has virtually unlimited credit with the sugar trust, the Nova Scotian coal trust and the whisky trust; and can readily afford such managerial luxuries as new or revised Democratic newspapers in every close district, even though the cost, as in an instance with which Scrantonians are familiar, should reach $1,000 each week.

POLITICAL NOTES

Smarting under the blistering characterizations of Candidate Singery, who passionately cast them "ringsters, roosters and ruffians," Thomas J. Ryan, Matthew Dittman and Peter Monroe, the three Philadelphiaans who unburied William McAlister, have begun to explain their course. Monroe says: "Our constituents wanted us to nominate a man for whom they could vote. McAlister had done everything possible against the interests of the party in this district, and I would have been ashamed to face the voters after having aided to renominate him. McCullen will be elected by a large majority."

The political organ of the new Democratic revenue collector of Erie County, Mr. Singery in the following course of fashion: "We do not understand the ins and outs of Philadelphia ward and district politics and are happy in this state of ignorance. But we do understand one thing perfectly, as Democrats generally will, that Mr. Singery assumed a great deal for granted when he sent out his address to the state Democracy, viz., advising the party to take no further account of the state ticket in the pending canvass; let the election go by default and concentrate their energies on local candidates. It was most ill-advised and foolish. There are other candidates on the state ticket besides Mr. Singery who have all the claims he has on the support of the Democracy, and whose names on the state ticket lend fully as much strength to it as the honored name of Mr. Singery. Why were they not consulted? Why should the candidate for governor assume the functions and powers of the whole party, of its state convention, its state candidates and state committee, and because of miserable wrangle in Philadelphia gutter politics advise, as he virtually does, that Quay's ticket should have a clear and unopposed sweep in the state and that those who interfere with Democracy by their own party going their own ways, the Democracy of Pennsylvania do not owe their existence to do or they revolve about the happenings in three or four wards in Philadelphia. Candidate Singery should open his mind to this knowledge. Isn't it a jolly scrap?"

Preparations for the big Republican ratification mass meeting in the Frothingham theater Oct. 2 are progressing admirably. In addition to Hon. George B. Orady, the Huntington Demosthenes, and Linn Hartman, ex-Governor Hartman, son of ex-Governor Hartman, the list of speakers will include that peerless Scranton favorite, Galusha A. Grow. Mr. Grow, although not speaking a great deal in this campaign, because of some throat trouble contracted in his younger days, has paid a special compliment to the Republicans of Lackawanna county by going to considerable trouble to promise to present with them one week from tomorrow night. After the meeting in the theater a reception will be tendered in the Central Republican club rooms to the speakers and to the various candidates. Speaking of Mr. Grow, it may be interesting to note that the little paragraph in this issue of the Tribune recently quoting John S. Tarbell in a favorable comment upon Mr. Grow's availability for the Republican presidential nomination in 1896, has brought scores of commendatory letters from all over the west.

Of Charles P. O'Malley of Glyphant, who promises to be the Republican nominee in the fourth legislative district of the Jermyn convention to-morrow, the Carbonada Leader says: "He is a self-educated young man, and a few short years ago was a little black breaker boy. He received his education at night schools, and for a brief time attended school in Scranton. He made the most of these opportunities, and passed a highly creditable examination before his admission. He is ambitious to rank among the first of his profession and though a lawyer, now intends to take a further course in law at the University of Pennsylvania. He will first, however, endeavor to reach the state legislature."

The 25th inefficient ballot has been taken in the Sixteenth district Republican congressional conference deadlock. The vote now stands: Paeker, 6; Lewis, 6; Hopkins, however, may again figure in the balloting at any time. The struggle will be renewed tomorrow in Williamsport.

mise, including the proposition of a second appeal to the people, and it is now for the voters of the district to say which is the better qualified man to sit on the bench. From this distance it doesn't look as if they would have much difficulty in determining.

THOSE BOULEVARD APPROACHES.

Public indignation is almost at fever heat at Scranton against the Traction company for delaying the grading of the approaches to the Elmhurst boulevard. If the Scranton press knew the condition of the Elmhurst approaches to this boulevard and were aware of the utter indifference of the people here to their improvement, we are of the opinion they would handle this place, and especially our borough officials, without gloves. This boulevard, which the public-spirited citizens of Scranton have built into our borough, shortening the distance to Scranton two and one-half miles and providing a safe and beautiful road, means much more to Elmhurst in proportion to its interests than it does to the city of Scranton, and it is an unardonable disgrace to this place that no interest is manifested by those in authority in the matter of providing suitable approaches.

A PAID FIRE DEPARTMENT.

A paid fire department equipped to extinguish fires and protect property from damage by water should be established and maintained in Scranton. The present voluntary department is deserving of praise and gratitude, but it is too much to ask, too much to expect that the devotedness to duty characteristic of our firemen and so freely and generously given should be continued. Men can not be expected to continue to be animated by sentiment to the sacrifice of ease of their own interests, often of health and occasionally of life, especially when they begin to realize that the property to be protected could afford to maintain a permanent fire department to the benefit of worthy men, who would thus obtain lucrative employment.

HAVE HAD ENOUGH.

A number of our Democratic contemporaries are quite decided as to the propriety and advisability of running President Cleveland for a third term. Such a course would be neither proper nor advisable. A third term ambition is a larger man than President Cleveland will ever be to his knees and to his senses at the same time. No "We had enough of 'Cleveland' and of 'Grover' too."

WE DON'T THINK YOU CAN.

"How can we face the people after indulging in such outrageous discriminations and violations of principle?"

Do not be deceived.

Strictly Pure White Lead

The recommendation of "Atlantic," "Beymer-Bauman," "Jewett," "Davis-Chambers," "Fahnestock," "Armstrong & McKelvy," to you by your merchant is an evidence of his reliability, as he can sell you cheap ready-mixed paints and bogus White Lead and make a larger profit. Many short-sighted dealers do so.

GOLDSMITH'S BAZAAR

OUR TROUBLE this week is to find a place for the avalanche of new goods piled in upon us. Our place isn't as big as all out-doors and it is so full of stuff now that "standing room only" would be a proper sign. The only thing that we can do is to put such price on LAST SEASON'S GARMENTS that every household in this city will be glad to receive them as permanent guests. You have more room than we.

HERE'S THE GARMENTS THE PRICES

Table listing Ladies' Fall and Winter Jackets with original and new prices. Examples: Ladies' Fall Jackets, were $7.98, Now $3.98.

These are positively garments from 1893—and not from 1892—because it is against our business methods ever to carry over any garments more than one year. Seeing is believing, therefore an inspection is invited. Come early, as the quantity is not large.

THE CHEERFUL news in Miss Kaiser's letter on our first page that the Cambro-American concert tourists are in good health and that they are meeting with a fairly hospitable reception in the land of song will be welcome to our readers. This is the third of our correspondent's series of sprightly letters, and each one has been read with increasing appreciation.

Get Out of the Hole.

We repeat elsewhere our challenge of Saturday in the matter of the printing of the annual report of the Scranton board of trade, which has been farmed out by the committee on printing to an obscure firm of job printers down in Wilmington, Del. Our offer of Saturday is still open; if it is not sufficiently attractive we are willing to enlarge it.

It will be news to many printers in Philadelphia and Pittsburg, not to speak of the various establishments in this city, that they cannot do half-tone plate printing and that, therefore, the distinguished authority who presides over the deliberations of the printing committee of the Scranton board of trade is compelled to recommend to the board that it go, not only outside of Scranton, but also clear out the entire Keystone state for work in this easy line. Under the circumstances we do not wonder that the Scranton Typographical union, both through formal resolutions and through the communication from its president, printed on another page, should warmly resent this gratuitous and absolutely uncalled for reflection upon the printers and publishers of Scranton.

The amount of money involved in this particular transaction is trivial; but the principle is most important. The Scranton board of trade has been put in the unpleasant and indefensible position of announcing to the business world a deliberate and unqualified falsehood; namely, that there is not in this enterprising city a firm of publishers capable of doing one of the commonest forms of commercial printing. This is not only an untruth injurious to the printers of Scranton; it is one which renders every member of the board of trade inconsistent and hypocritical in asking Scrantonians to patronize and encourage home industries. The board cannot afford to remain in this embarrassing position.

WHEN THE building committee of the board of control unanimously reported in favor of a fireproof new high school building it reflected public sentiment in a manner which may be expected to be heartily ratified at tonight's meeting of the entire board. There is no division of sentiment among the people; there should be none among the people's representatives.

At Whose Expense?

Attention is called to the fact that on Friday last the receipts for custom duties at the port at Philadelphia aggregated $109,791.41, the largest amount collected in any single business day since February, 1891. Of the grand total the sum of $91,600 was paid on a cargo of raw sugar imported by W. J. McCahan & Co., and which arrived on the Norwegian steamer Fortuna from Sourabaya, Java. The balance was collected on general merchandise. "There have been unusually heavy arrivals of general merchandise under the new tariff," says a local report in the Philadelphia Record, "heavy cargoes having come from London, Swansea, Hamburg and Liverpool. So heavy have the imports been, in fact, that several tons of merchandise are now on the wharves, there being more work to do than there are wharves to attend to. This condition of affairs has proved exceedingly annoying to
