

WEST SIDE

WELCOMING A FRIEND. Henry F. Evans Given a Reception Last Evening.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, a large number were present in St. David's hall last evening for the reception tendered by the people of Hyde Park to Henry F. Evans, of Salt Lake city, a former resident of this side, who has been spending the summer in Europe, and is now visiting his many friends here.

The meeting was called to order by City Assessor Henry D. Jones, who announced Attorney W. Gaylord Thomas as chairman of the evening. Mr. Thomas made many very pleasant remarks in connection with the career of Mr. Evans. He stated that the latter was a resident here about twenty-seven years ago. After the late war Mr. Evans went west, and has risen greatly in the esteem of the residents in that section. Mr. Evans was the past grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

The able address of Mr. Thomas was followed with a vocal duet entitled "God My Beloved One," by the well known contralto, Mrs. Charles Metzgar. It was received with much applause. Benjamin Hughes, superintendent of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western mines, expressed himself very much gratified at meeting his old friend whom he knew in his boyhood days. Mr. Hughes in his witty manner stated that he was very particular in watching Mr. Evans because, "I had three daughters." Mr. Hughes told many anecdotes in connection with the career of Mr. Evans.

City Treasurer Reosa G. Brooks spoke of the boyish pranks of Assessor Jones and Mr. Evans at the home of Benjamin Hughes. He stated that the two Harrys once pretended to go to church, but did not go. When Mr. Brooks, on returning to the house, saw Harry holding the clock, the other Harry delivering a pathetic sermon from his perch on a chair, with an occasional amen from the crowd. He said that now Mr. Evans had proven himself a worthy man and he was very happy to congratulate him on his success in life.

Miss Juliana Jones, the elocutionist, delivered a pathetic declamation entitled "The Martyrs." She responded to an encore with a comic recitation entitled "Jimmy Butler and the Owl."

Miss Jennings gave a solo entitled "Queen of the Earth."

After a well delivered though short address by Hon. D. M. Jones, Thomas Allen, one of the oldest members of the Franklin Fire company, gave a very amusing song in German dialect.

The last speaker was Judge H. M. Edwards. He expressed great delight at being here to welcome Mr. Evans and spoke of the latter's career.

The closing selection was a solo by Mrs. Metzgar.

A response was made by Mr. Evans, and at the close refreshments were served and a social time indulged in. Mr. Evans will spend a few more days on this side.

A USEFUL INVENTION. New Appliances for the Franklin Engine Company.

A very useful appliance to the night permanent men at the Franklin Engine house has just been invented by John Kime, of the company, and when tested last evening was found to work remarkably well. It is a mechanical contrivance which raises the clothes from the beds of the men on night duty and also arouses the men from their slumbers.

The mechanism is attached to the stable doors, which open the alarm sounds. A lid has been placed over the opening where the sliding pole is kept, to prevent any accident by falling through it, and this is raised by means of this same contrivance.

In addition to these improvements, a patent rack for the horses' bedding was made by Sienback & Kline. By this means the bed is placed out of the way and thoroughly aired each day. It can well be said that the Franklin engine house is one of the finest in the city.

HONORING THE BRIDE. Mr. and Mrs. J. White Tendered a Reception.

A reception was tendered last evening to Mr. and Mrs. J. White of Carbondale at the home of Mrs. Ella Sayers of Price street. Mr. and Mrs. White were married about a week ago and are in the city on their wedding tour.

Among the guests were Miss Mamie Phillips, of this side, who was bridesmaid, and Frank Timmons, of Carbondale. The home was prettily decorated and was filled with the immediate friends of the bridal party. The evening

THE HOUSE WAS WITH HIM. Roland Reed Easily Captures a Scranton Convention.

Roland Reed ran for congress last night in the Academy of Music and was unanimously nominated. His platform was a strong declaration in favor of amusement only; and he had able lieutenants in Peter Woolley, of Woollyville; Charles Montgomery, of Catawissa street; Anna Woolley and Mrs. Susan Mullin. The resolutions were originally drafted by the late David D. Lloyd, who elected William C. Gray, of Cray, as his successor. These somewhat revised and modernized by Sidney Rowland. The convention at which Mr. Reed was nominated was strongly packed in his favor, prominent among his staunch supporters being a delegation from Franklin avenue, who are said to represent a secret organization. This introduction of the cash bond element into the politics of Manager Burgender's district, instead of being resented by the freemen of our city, appeared really to win their favor, and when Reed, at last, was nominated they actually tendered him an ovation.

It must be confessed that last evening's convention appeared, at certain places, to be on the order of cut and dried. There were no surprises, and the platform was, indeed, one could in places detect resemblances to the theatrical; yet when the convention broke from Meigs to Woolley, and General Lambert, the position of the progressive manner announced the returns, the massive audience spontaneously burst into tumultuous cheering.

Of Mr. Reed's election upon such a ticket there can be little doubt. He has a powerful auxiliary in the person of Miss Isadora Rush, and although his candidacy is frequently whimsical and more often ostentatious, the compromise candidate is good enough "Politician" to catch the masses and capture a second term.

Roland Reed and Company Feled by the Elks. After the performance of "The Politician" at the Academy of Music, the Scranton lodge of Elks gave a social session in honor of Roland Reed and company. Dr. P. F. Gunter acted as toastmaster. After the discussion of elaborate refreshments the session listened to a programme of much value, eloquently and mirth. Mr. Reed occupied the position of honor to the toastmaster's right. He was the first speaker. His remarks were highly complimentary to the new lodge rooms, which he pronounced the finest in the United States, without exception.

The music of the evening was supplied by Bauer's orchestra, the Elks' duet, and by solo numbers from Max Frankel, Will Watkins, and several others. Will Beard, of the Reed company, recited a very humorous anecdote. Postmaster Vandling was at this stage of the session fined $5 for coming in late. Dr. Letts then sang a humorous song, and there was another member of fine. A. F. Pennoyer, a charter member of Philadelphia lodge No. 2 was introduced. W. A. Bunney, of the Reed company, followed with humorous recitations in dialect. There were many other bright features, and at a late hour the social session was terminated, and the lines were flying fast and furiously.
