WONDERFUL SANDOW

Marvelous Exhibition of His Powers That He Gave Yesterday.

EXHIBITION AT THE WYOMING

Medical and Newspaper Men Examine the Layers of Muscles That Cover His Body—Lifted a Two Hundred and Fifty Pound Man as if He Had Been a Child—He is Assisted by a Splendid Company.

Sandow gave an exhibition of his wonderful strength at the Frothingham last night. There is little doubt that he is the strongest man in the world and he is moreover perfectly and symmetrically developed. Last night he first gave an exhibition of the marvelous layers of muscles with which his body is covered, and then made the muscles of his arms and legs dance, concluding by toying with a 300-pound dumbbell, turning somersaults with a 56-

EXHIBITING CHEST MUSCLES. Sandow is assisted in the performance by one of the best readville companies ever seen in this city. Nothing in the line of high kicking seen here approaches the work of William Lucifer, and the aerial work of the Jordan family and Dunham on the bars and flying trapeze was remarkable.

Amann, a clever impersonator; Billy Van, the well-known black-face comedian; Tom Brown, whistler, and Jane Chantene, were loudly applauded for their fine work. It is not often that such a collection of vaudeville artists are found together. The company will appear at the Academy again this afternoon and evening.

SANDOW'S PRIVATE EXHIBITION. In his parlor at the Wyoming during yesterday afternoon Sandow gave a private exhibition of his wonderfully developed physique before an audience composed principally of medical and newspaper men. He had just returned from a bicycle spin and after a moment in his private apartment appeared before his critical audience with his upper body nude and wearing knee bicycle trousers and cord stockings.

He first showed the contraction of the principle muscles of the front and back which were more than wonderful and during the remainder of the exhibition the beauty of his development to the individual eye appeared in its symmetry and uniformity. Neither his arms nor legs are exceedingly large but were perfectly formed. When not contracted the muscles felt to the touch as smooth and pliable as the skin of a child, which condition, physical experts say, should appear in a beautiful body.

Sandow does not resemble any other style of "strong man," but represents rather the ordinary man of good physique. His neck, for instance, while not abnormally large, showed the faint tracings of small round muscles almost unknown in the medical profession.

ALMOST A PERFECT MAN. The chart of Dr. Sargent, the noted Boston physical critic, shows Sandow's development to exceed 93 per cent., and none of the former's anthropometric machines were strong enough to register the athlete's muscles. He is 37 years old, weighs 200 pounds and has a chest expansion of fourteen inches.

ches. He began a system of exercise when eighteen years of age, and is a firm believer that no man can be healthy without it. He never has cold, and attributes the fact to the cold shower baths which always follow his exercise.

A practical example of Sandow's great strength was shown during the private exhibition. He rested his right hand on the floor and Manager Laine, of the Frothingham, who weighs 250 pounds, while standing rigidly on the athlete's palm was lifted with the one hand to the level of an ordinary table upon which Mr. Laine was safely deposited. The feat was performed easily.

Those present were Dr. B. H. Troop, Dolan, Fisher and F. C. Johnson, representing the Wilkes-Barre Record; E. B. Sturges, W. R. Storrs, Physical Director Weston, of the Young Men's Christian association; B. H. Pratt, of Wilkes-Barre; Arthur Frothingham and Mr. Laine, John E. Barrett and James O'Connor, of the Truth; Captain Brady and J. J. Campbell, of the Times; J. F. Mitchell, of THE TRIBUNE.

Sandow says that in his youth he was rather delicate, and that he did not begin to develop his wonderful strength until he was eighteen years of age. He now takes little exercise save what he obtains in the stage exhibitions he gives. It is his opinion that no man can be healthy who does not Evangelist Schivera Tells How God Knocks at the Human Heart.

HIS GREAT CONDESCENSION

Speaker Asks Why We Should Flee from God Who is Our Best Friend. His Patience Far Exceeds that of Finite Beings—Man is Stubborn, Self-Willed and Sinful, and Does Not Obey.

The Schivera missions were attended by large crowds yesterday, despite the inclement weather. In the afternoon Mr. Schivera delivered a Bible reading which was attentively followed. In the evening he preached with his usual eloquence on the words: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock," and said:

Let us tonight consider the attitude of God toward man and the attitude of man toward God. Note the condescension of God; think but for one moment who is knocking at your heart tonight. Can you tonight realize that it is the great God, the great "I," who tonight is knocking at the heart of the creature this moment begging, yes, a beggar, to come in. What does he humbly stand at every heart that you have refused to obey and have insulted; this is the God who holds your lives in his hand. Is it not the height of insanity to rebel against him? If you rebel against him you are like the girl rendered insane by novel reading and who rushed from her mother in her insanity to the arms of those who constantly ill-used her.

Why should you flee from God, your best friend, into the arms of the rumseller, your worst enemy. Again, the Savior is loaded with blessing. He doesn't come to damn us, but comes as our friend loaded with his good things for our salvation. In the next place note that he says "I stand." See how humble, standing at every heart long enough to knock that he is there.

HOW EARNEST GOD IS. Then again, see his patience, not like human patience, which vanishes quickly. How earnest, also, is God to man. What brings all this crowding together night after night? Not curiosity; that has worn off something must attract you in face of the plays, theaters, and other amusements. It is the voice of God speaking to the people. He is earnest to reach through the conscience. God is willing also to forgive. I don't believe in gradual salvation, it is instantaneous; it only requires two seconds, and you are saved.

But man's attitude to God is different. Man is stubborn, self-willed, and sinful. I beg of you, hear God knocking at your heart tonight, you have kept him too long. Let the Master in now!

Mr. Welden then sang "Knocking, Knocking," in a pleasing style, and at the same time Mr. Schivera urged those who were yet unshaken and who felt concerned as to their souls to stand up. Many did so, and afterwards Mr. Welden sang "Almost Persuaded," while many others stood up. A considerable number were "preached and sang" into conversion.

SCHIVERA'S MISSION NOTES. Yesterday's "Schivera's foreign mission work" attracted an audience of over 800. Millions are and very poor, clad men figured in the service yesterday afternoon. Church members are urged not to attend tomorrow's meetings, as all the text is required for "the masses."

Professor Weston has an excellent lecture, taken at the Dickinson meeting. The papers have copies to dispose. Evangelist Schivera takes a course of exercise at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium each morning. Arrangements are being made to hold noon meetings at the Academy of Music on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Schivera says that he "is not gone" on photographs and regrets that he cannot supply the demand for a picture of what he terms his "physic."

Mrs. B. F. Jayne has rendered much valuable assistance at the gospel tent in relieving Mr. Welden from the strain upon him during the past few days. Today's services will be principally monopolized by the farewell address to men at the tent at 7.30 p. m. Tomorrow at 3.30 a meeting will be held at which those who have become converts will take part. An "inquiry meeting" will be held during the service.

CREATING NEW CITIZENS. Court Was Kept Busy at the Task Yesterday. The court house corridors, court rooms and offices of the clerk of courts, prothonotary and sheriff were besieged yesterday with prospective citizens and their witnesses. Judge Gunster devoted the greater part of the day to hold naturalization court in the main court room, but was unable to dispose of all of the applications during the regular court hours and a special session was held last night.

The greater part of applicants for honors as citizens are Poles, Hungarians and Italians. Within the last three weeks naturalization papers have been granted to more than 1,000 men.

BAPTISTS WILL CELEBRATE. To Commemorate Two Anniversaries in the Penn Avenue Church. On October 16 and 17 the Baptists of Scranton and vicinity will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of their denomination in Scranton, and the centennial of the beginning of Baptist history will be appropriately observed on this occasion. Among the visiting clergymen will be Rev. George L. Lorimer, D. D., of Boston; Rev. Edward Judson, D. D., of New York City; and Rev. W. P. Hellings, D. D., of Omaha, who was formerly pastor of the Penn avenue church. At the same time the Penn Avenue church will celebrate the thirty-fifth anniversary of the organization of their church, which was originally started in
