THE SCRANTON OF TODAY.

Come and inspect our city. Elevation above the tide, 740 feet. Extremely healthy. Estimated population, 1894, 103,000. Registered voters, 20,500. Value of school property, $750,000. Number of school children, 12,000. Average amount of bank deposits, $10,000,000. It is the metropolis of northeastern Pennsylvania.

Can produce electric power cheaper than Niagara.

No better point in the United States at which to establish new industries. See how we grow:

Population in 1890.....	9,223
Population in 1870.....	35,000
Population in 1880.....	45,350
Population in 1890.....	75,215
Population in 1894 (estimated).....	103,000

And the end is not yet.

A word of explanation is due regarding the paper upon which this edition of THE TRIBUNE is printed. An order for a superior quality of new paper was filled one month ago; the paper was shipped from the paper mill four days ago, but it failed to reach us. The paper used this morning is not up to the standard which will hereafter prevail in this office.

About Ourselves.

With this issue, THE TRIBUNE appears in a new dress of type, and with enlarged facilities that represent an extra, recent investment exceeding $25,000. With a few exceptions, this entire paper is composed on Mergenthaler Linotype machines, four of which, of the latest improved design, have been purchased and placed in THE TRIBUNE'S composing rooms—the first machines of their kind used in Northeastern Pennsylvania. Operated in each instance by the same men who used to set our type by hand, these wonderful mechanisms seem almost human in their speed, precision and ease of motion; while in quality of work they are much superior to the old style, giving the paper a brand new type-face every day and thus obviating a blurred appearance, which, while it lasted, has caused THE TRIBUNE much annoyance.

By the use of these machines, and through other improvements which are in contemplation, this paper will, when its new appliances get to running smoothly, be able to print not only the best and neatest morning newspaper in northeastern Pennsylvania, but also the largest paper in point of actual reading matter furnished. It is our modest expectation that the same diligent enterprise which, during even Democratic times, has made the past three months the most profitable and successful ones in this journal's history will, under enlarged facilities, be permitted to move ahead until Scranton and its surroundings shall possess the truly representative morning newspaper that they have long deserved.

In a few days we shall take pleasure in exhibiting to our friends the modus operandi of typesetting by machinery. In the meantime, we call attention to this issue as a first step.

Democratic Bushwhacking.

"Billy" Hines is up to his old tricks. The Democratic organs are reprinting the texts of the fake laws that "Billy" introduced while in the state senate, and are lauding them as great and wonderful achievements in the interest of labor. The latest bill thus honored is the semi-monthly pay law, which the Wilkes-Barre Leader says John Leisenring is violating. This law makes it mandatory upon employers to pay twice a month, when requested by employees. The enforcement of the law is placed in the hands of the factory inspector and his deputies; or, failing them, any citizen of the commonwealth.

Now if the Wilkes-Barre Leader has knowledge that John Leisenring has ever refused to pay his employees twice a month, when so requested, why does it not hunt up the Democratic factory inspector or one of his Democratic deputies and have Mr. Leisenring arrested and fined $200? Or, if these Democratic factory inspectors are like most Democratic officials this year, in competent, why doesn't the publisher of the Leader, himself, as a "citizen of the commonwealth," whose large heart throbs with solicitude for laboring men, do his duty in the premises? This would be a much more manly course than, without a syllable of evidence, to accuse an honest man of a crime against the commonwealth.

As for Hines, the people have taken his measure. Labor knows him as a fake friend; capital, as a deceitful individual who is not in politics for his health.

SOME CHANGES in the arrangement of our news pages have been necessitated by the new type setting machines. Hereafter, page 2 will contain industrial and commercial news, enlarged market reports and telegraphic news; while the news of Hyde Park, South Side, Providence, Green Ridge and Dunmore will hereafter appear regularly on page 3. All local news, therefore, may be found, with and after today, on pages 3, 5 and 6, thus giving the largest array of genuine news to be found in any paper published in Northeastern Pennsylvania. A large addition is also made to our telegraphic news. Bear in mind, this is only a first step.

Clemons for Sheriff.

Among the candidates of the Republican party of Lackawanna county there is none who presents a cleaner record of faithful and unassuming citizenship than Frank H. Clemons, the next sheriff. We are aware that the Democratic party managers, having "fried" all the "fat" to be obtained from the bulk of their county candidates, are massing almost their whole battle upon Mr. Clemons. Nor are we forgetful of the fact that in this purpose they profess to be receiving encouragement from certain influences in this county which ought this year to be the last to give even so much as momentary heed to Democratic overtures.

Admitting all this, there is no real reason why Mr. Clemons, representing, as he undoubtedly does, the level-headed, business-like citizenship of the county, and personally clean, able and deserving, as he concededly is, should not receive the cordial vote of every genuine Republican, and many votes from those who, although Democratic once, are this year unwilling to lend their tacit assistance to the mercenary schemes of the present unscrupulous Democratic bosses. A comparison of his record with that of his Democratic opponent, Mr. Bailey, will disclose abundant corroboration of the belief that he is at least the latter's equal in individual business enterprise and sagacity, and certainly his superior in a careful mastery of the details of local government. To the sheriff's office—one of the most important in the whole range of county administrative trusts—he will bring system, method and straightforward devotion to the people's interests. There will be no need of checks and spies upon his official work. His integrity, whether as private citizen or public servant, is above reproach.

The only reason we have heard advanced from Democratic sources in support of the enemy's hopes in this political direction is that Mr. Clemons is "not known." This is a queer charge to bring against a gentleman whose entire career of 37 years has been passed in this county, most of it in active and creditable business pursuits; who, in politics, displayed the quality of his generalship in the signal success that attended his conduct of the campaigns that elected Hon. John H. Fellows and Hon. W. L. Connell mayor; and who has, since that time, been one of the most efficient and energetic Republican members of common and select council, a busy worker in the Central Republican club and one of the stalwart examples of the live young Republicanism which has securely anchored Lackawanna county in the Republican column.

The supposition that any true Republican would refuse to support a candidacy of such admirable qualities is too violent for belief. Mr. Clemons will be elected, receiving the normal vote of his party and plenty of Democratic votes besides.

"MR. SINGLERLY asks why don't we discuss state issues? Discuss state issues when the whole country is prostrate! Discuss state issues? Why this tariff question is a state issue, a county issue, a township issue. It affects every man, woman and child in the country. We cannot be talked into neglecting a great state issue like this for some little side show. That reminds me of a fire that was raging in a little town on the prairies. Men were rushing, engines were clattering, bells ringing and numerous streams of water were being thrown on the burning building, when a little old maid appeared and asked what caused the great racket. She wanted it stopped at once, because it affected her nerves."—General Hastings.

It is no more than fair to say that the pressure to naturalize persons indiscriminately in this county has at various times been strongly resisted by judges of both political faiths. Judge Archbold has repeatedly subjected candidates for naturalization to rigid examinations, while the rulings of the late Judge Connolly upon this subject are fresh in memory. It is a mistake to introduce this evil into partisan politics. One party is probably just as guilty as the other. American citizenship, if it is worth anything at all, ought to be worth enough to those who already possess it to make them unitedly anxious not to see it cheapened.

BEAR IN MIND, as General Hastings well says, that "every time a suit of American is imported and bought by an American it takes so much labor from another American citizen. And every ton of coal brought in from Nova Scotia takes so much labor from our Pennsylvania miners." We should look after the interests of our own household first; then if there is a margin for the practice of international philanthropy, so much the better.

THE CUSTOM which exacts of judicial candidates forced pilgrimages on the partisan stump is more honored in the breach than in the observance.

THE FIELD OF POLITICS.

There is a remarkable coincidence in candidates for district attorney of Luzerne county on the Republican ticket, and his opponent on the Democratic ticket, P. A. Boyle. Boyle says the Hamilton Plain-Speaker, Both gentlemen were born on the same date, read law together and were admitted to the bar on the same day, were married on the same day, were candidates for the appointment of assistant district attorney in the same year, Boyle getting the plum by reason of McCarthy's selfishness. He cannot assure him that Mr. Cleveland will not be taken at his word, and another attempt made to revise the tariff, thereby continuing business depression. He will be able to make some personal appeal to some of his rich friends, if he has a number, and Mr. Whitney if he is really desirous of the success of the state ticket, may also be able to raise some money, but "Holland" thinks he will have to plead a good deal harder than he did when he set forth on his money begging mission in the fall of 1892.

Here is a bon mot from one of David B. Hill's recent speeches. Mr. Hill, it should be remembered, is a bachelor. "I recollect that that famous humorist, Mark Twain, did for that section of the country where I used to live, in the city of Elmira, where he passes his summers, although his winter residence is in Hartford, Conn. With characteristic liberality he concluded to do something for the community in which he lived. For this purpose, on the occasion of the birth of each child, he had erected by the roadside a stone watering trough, and had caused upon the stone the first and middle of the child and the year of the birth—a most generous act on his part—and he has thus far had three or four, I forget which, of those watering troughs. I recollect that in that section near Elmira, much to the gratification of the traveling community. The people in that section are hoping that Mrs. Twain will be able to do something for the community in which she lives. For this purpose, after the fair was over a gentleman stepped up to me and said: "Senator, that is all very well about the watering trough, but what are you doing for the watering troughs of your country? It is needless to say I declined to answer the impertinent question."

There can be no better authority upon protection's value to farmers than Governor Nelson, of Minnesota, who has reared upon a western farm and who has made American agriculture a life study. Governor Nelson says: "The large industrial army fostered and maintained under our tariff laws, has been the great consumer of our farm products, and has furnished us our great home market, which has absorbed more than 90 per cent. of all our farm products. This market has not only been by far our greatest market, but it has also been our steady, most certain and most remunerative market. The farmer's surplus is much better in the home market than in the foreign market. While we export a large surplus of wheat and flour, our product of oats, hay, clover, potatoes, cattle, hogs, sheep, cheese, butter and eggs is mainly consumed at home, and the price is much better and more favorable to the farmer than the price of wheat, which is fixed by the export price of our surplus." If western crops were more intelligently and systematically diversified, Governor Nelson thinks there would soon be an end to the decline recently noticed in the value of American farm products.

According to Washington advices the Republican congressional committee is actively engaged in extensively circulating what might be called "Democratic boomerangs." The Republicans are appropriating Democratic speeches and turning it upon the Democracy. They are using Democratic speeches and statements of all kinds as supporting Republican doctrines and to the undoing of the Democrats. Something like one million copies of the president's famous letter to Mr. Wilson have been circulated by the Republicans. Half a million copies of Bourke Cockran's "Democratic" speech on the final passage of the tariff bill will be sent out. About a million copies of the paragraph from Senator Vest's speech in the senate after the publication of the Wilson letter will be used. That paragraph is as follows: "The best campaign document furnished the Republican party, of which we will not hear the last until the approaching canvass is ended, will be the letter of the president denouncing the senate without exception for having framed a bill the provisions of which are now necessary, according to the secretary of the treasury, to prevent the issue of interest-bearing bonds to carry on the government." The Republican text book abounds with quotations from Democratic statesmen, which, in the view of the committee, tend to support Republican principles.

Six tickets have been placed in the field for the state offices to be filled at the approaching election in Pennsylvania. Besides the regular nominees of the Democratic and Republican parties, candidates have been nominated by the Prohibitionists, People's party, Independent Republicans and the Socialist Labor party. The state candidates of the Independent Republicans are identically the same as those of the regular Republican party, although the name of John P. Blair, the Democratic nominee in the Fourth judicial district, has been added. The Independent Republican movement is endorsed by the independent voters of the district opposed to the re-election of Judge Harry White, who has been renominated by the Republicans. The nomination papers of the Independent Republicans contain the signatures of a large number of voters in Allegheny county, the names of the prominent residents of the county. The minority parties have complete nominations in many of the congressional, senatorial, legislative and judicial districts in which elections for these offices are to be held in November. In one-third of the counties of the state the Prohibitionists have named full legislative tickets. There is no thorough organization back of any of these tickets, though, and no possible chance of the election of a single one of the candidates. The congressional nominees of the Prohibitionists for which nomination papers have been filed are: Brinton Walter, of Christiana, in the Tenth; William A. McIlhenny, of Adams county, in the Nineteenth; George N. Hocking, of Moyersdale, in the Twentieth; and William H. Stanton, of Scranton, in the Eleventh. George A. Deltz, of Columbia, is the Prohibitionist nominee in the Fourteenth senatorial district; A. J. Atkinson, of Scranton, in the Twentieth; and Abraham B. Scott, of Freedom, Adams county, in the Thirty-second. Some of the candidates of the Prohibition party for judgeships are Cornelius Smith, of Scranton, in the Forty-fifth judicial district; F. Harry Hoffer, of Carlisle, in the Ninth; and Herbert T. Ames, of Williamsport, in the Forty-ninth. The People's party has named full legislative tickets in Dauphin, Berks, Sullivan and a few other counties. In the Twenty-sixth congressional district the Populists have endorsed Congressman Sibley, who has been unanimously renominated by the Democrats. Nomination papers containing the signatures of 2,001 Independent Republican electors of the district have also been filed in behalf of Mr. Sibley. In a few congressional districts in western Pennsylvania the People's party have candidates. Deputy Secretary Tilden will issue a circular regarding the form of the official ballot after all the nomination papers have been filed. The ballot will contain seven columns and will be about twenty inches wide. The length will be regulated by the number of candidates in the several counties.
