PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY.

Tendered to H. Davies, of Green Ridge, by His Friends.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered H. Davies, of Capouse avenue, on Saturday evening by his numerous friends upon the occasion of his birthday.

Mr. Davies occupies an important position with L. B. Powell & Co., of Wyoming avenue, and is prominent in many philanthropic and religious movements in Green Ridge. Among those present were Rev. W. J. and Mrs. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Johnson, S. V. Hall, of Larch street; H. H. Langham, of the Lace manufactory; Miss Biddal, of Philadelphia, and T. Owen Charles.

The guests were entertained royally by Mr. and Mrs. Davies, and many wishes were expressed for several happy returns of the day. A pleasant evening was pased with musical selections.

JANE AT FROTHINGHAM.

It Pleased Audiences at Afternoon and Evening Performances Saturday.

That mirth provoking comedy, "Jane," was produced at the Frothingham Saturday afternoon and evening before well pleased audiences.

Minerva Dyer as Jane proved that she has real ability for that line of work, and the work of Frank Norcross, Fred Mower, Bernice Sancton and Grace Huyck was also very good.

A clever curtain raiser entitled "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, preceded the comedy.

GREAT BAPTIST SERVICES

Celebration of the First Century of Baptist Work in Scranton.

CHURCH DEBT WAS WIPED OUT

Mortgages to be Burned at a Jubilee Meeting—Anniversary Services Tomorrow and Wednesday—Sermons Delivered Yesterday by Rev. W. P. Hellings.

A day of great importance in the history of the Baptist community of Scranton and its vicinity was ushered in yesterday morning, inasmuch as it inaugurated the celebration services of the completion of the first century of Baptist work in this important district, as well as the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Penn Avenue Baptist church. The members of that church, as well as their brethen in outlying churches of the same denomination, were determined that this important epoch in their spiritual life should be celebrated with that observance becoming its importance.

The services will continue on Tuesday and Wednesday, when eminent divines of the Baptist church will deliver sermons and addresses appropriate for the eventful occasion. The principal interest in yesterday's services centered upon the person of Rev. Dr. W. P. Hellings, who was pastor of the Penn Avenue Baptist church from 1870 to 1877, and who had journeyed from Omaha, Neb., to accept the invitation of his old congregation to participate in the dual anniversary.

The morning services opened with an organ prelude and was followed by a special song service which was excellently arranged and included the anthem, "Cantate Domini," by Chandler, which was sung with faultless taste by Professor J. T. Watkins' choir.

A Pastor of Long Ago.

Dr. Hellings prefaced his anniversary sermon by a few remarks in which he stated that when his people at Omaha understood last Sunday that he was going to visit his old friends in Scranton they desired him to convey their heartfelt Christian fraternal greeting. It was more than a formal expression of their sentiments; it was a warm and genuine sympathy. With regard to himself, after such a long period since his pastorate in this city, he could not express the emotion which stirred his heart when he reflected upon the seven and a half years of his life spent here; a time hallowed by the sacred memory of twenty years ago when he first came to them, under different conditions to those amid which they were now surrounded.

The reverend gentleman based his sermon upon Ephesians iii., 3-5, and spoke upon "the ultimate aim of the Christian" and the reproduction of Christ in ourselves. The sermon was eminently scholarly and treated of the purposes of Christ, which were to gather men and women into His church, to educate the convert, and to denominationalize, though not to sectarianize. The sermon was brimful of Christian precepts upon the paramount importance of unification in the work of God, and was aptly illustrated by the reverend gentlemen, who showed that the mighty force of the Niagara Falls was derived from the little rain drops descending from Heaven. In like manner the work of Christians should be joining together in carrying out the grand purposes of the gospel.

The Union of a Sinner.

To his mind the incarnation was most wonderful to God and man, yet the personality could not be distinguished. Another wonderful thing was the union of a sinner by faith and grace with Christ. To die with Christ, to live with Christ, and to dwell with Christ. Dealing with sceptisca, Dr. Hellings quoted a recent incident in which he was requested to speak to a sceptical young man who, as he thought, was quoting the Bible, but could not say a single text correctly. The speaker asked him what kind of a God desired, or what kind of a God he would make, whereupon the young man found that he had more than he could accomplish, and found how ignorant and puny he was in sitting in judgment upon the Almighty God.

Dr. Partridge, the pastor, made an interesting statement and said that he had very good news to proclaim. The mortgage upon the church property had been $35,000, and it was his ambition to reduce and clear the debt. It was reduced some time ago to $5,000, and $2,000 of that sum had since been paid, leaving a balance of $3,000, which he intended should be cleared today in commemoration of the anniversary of the church.

He had been working night and day during the past two weeks with this object in view and had received voluntary offers as follows: One of $500, three of $200, seven of $100, four of $50 and six of $25, or about a total of $2,400. Another $1,000 would be required to clear the mortgage and discharge the expenses of the anniversary and special repairs to the church, and he would impress upon his hearers that this was the last and final appearance upon the stage of the mortgage which would soon be burned at a jubilee meeting. He would, therefore, ask the deacons of the church to distribute among those present cards upon which they could specify their donations to make up the $1,000 deficiency.

Addressed the Sunday School.

This was done, and at an after meeting of the church officers, it was ascertained that the required amount was subscribed for. The subscriptions promised will be payable January next, and the Penn Avenue church will be declared free from debt. In the afternoon Dr. Hellings addressed the Sunday school, in which he so successfully labored twenty years ago.

A crowded church in the evening testified eloquently to the widespread interest in the anniversary. The special programme arranged was continued in the evening, a pleasing number being the solo, "My King," by Mr. Watkins.

Before the sermon the pastor announced the continuning services of Tuesday and Wednesday, referred to below, and urged the members of the church to attend the meetings held in the early part of the day. With regard to the promises made during the day, he was more than pleased to say that the total amount had been subscribed with the evening's promises and they would, therefore, soon have the pleasure of holding their jubilee meeting. He asked the congregation to sing the old hymn, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," in gratitude to God for the wonderful generosity of the day, and in thanks to Him for His help in removing the great burden from their shoulders. He was also glad to announce that arrangements had just been made by which all pews would be free on Sunday evenings in future. Evangelistic services would be conducted on Sunday evenings during the winter and a hearty invitation was extended to all. A song service, he said, would precede the evening meetings.

What Christian Conviction Is.

Dr. Hellings again preached and congratulated the members upon the practical effort they had made in clearing the debt, and he was delighted with the ease with which the effort had been made. The subject of the sermon was "Christian Conviction as Fundemental in Christian Life and Work," and urged the three ponts, what Christian conviction is, whence it comes and what conviction does.

Tomorrow the services will be as follows: 2:30 p. m., prayer and praise meeting, followed by an address of welcome by the pastor; addresses, "The Pastorate of the Rev. Dr. Isaac Bevan, D. D.," by his daughter, Miss Mary Bevan; "Reminiscences," by Rev. Dr. W. P. Hellings; "The Young People and the Sunday School," by Hon. Lemuel Amerman; and in the evening at 7:30 Rev. Edward Judson, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York, will deliver an anniversary address. Mr. Judson is one of the ornaments of the Baptist ministry, and is an eminent theologian whose standing is acknowledged by all religious bodies.

MURPHY WENT UP IN THE AIR

He Came Down Again and It Cost Him Five Dollars.

Hugh Murphy and Thomas Callahan, of the South Side, came to the central city Saturday night and on their way home indulged in a running fight from Lackawanna avenue to the Cedar avenue bridge.

There Callahan grabbed Murphy and threw him in the air. When he came down his face collided with the earth with serious results. Both men were arrested and yesterday in police court were compelled to pay $5 fines.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

Important Report is Expected from the Manufacturers' Committee.

This evening the board of trade will hold its regular monthly meeting.

It is expected that the manufacturers' committee will have something of interest to report.

FORGING AHEAD.

Bear Eloquent Testimony.

Scranton Truth, Oct. 13: "The Scranton Tribune has joined the procession of newspapers using machine composition, and the well-printed pages of this morning's issue bear eloquent testimony to the mechanical excellence of the new system. The Mergenthaler linotype machine is as great a revolution in typesetting as the web-perfecting press was in the printing of newspapers. Each machine, operated by a skillful workman, is capable of doing the work of three compositors, and its principal advantage to publishers will be in the line of increased facilities. It may derange the arrangements of composing rooms at the outset, but we do not believe that it will permanently retire from the business any appreciable number of competent mechanics. The machine will enable the newspapers using it to print more matter than they were able to print without it, and newspaper-making, generally speaking, will be correspondingly affected and improved thereby. The enterprising Tribune has recently been branching out in various directions and is now one of the best equipped newspapers in the state."

Is "Getting There."

Scranton Free Lance, Oct. 13: "The Scranton Tribune appeared in a new dress of type this morning, nearly the whole paper being composed on Mergenthaler linotype machines. It presented a very handsome appearance, and as better paper is hereafter to be used in getting out The Tribune, that journal is bound to preserve its present beauty. As a newspaper The Tribune is 'getting there' in great shape."

Others Sure to Follow.

Scranton Free Press, Oct. 14: "The Scranton Tribune came out yesterday for the first time set up in large part by the Mergenthaler linotype typesetting machine. It was the first machine-type-set paper ever issued in Scranton. We do not think that the typographical appearance of The Tribune has been improved by the change, but there is no deterioration, and The Tribune has practically eschewed plate matter, its twelve pages of yesterday having been all set at home. The machine sets only body type, and union printers are engaged in operating them. Heads and display advertisements must still be set by hand, and printers must be retained to set them. The strong competition among the daily papers of this city makes it almost certain that typesetting machines will be introduced in the other offices at an early day."

The Experiment Successful.

Pittston Gazette, Oct. 13: "To the Scranton Tribune is due the credit for introducing into this section of the country typesetting machines. The Mergenthaler linotype is the one adopted, and The Tribune appeared this morning with its matter set for the first time by machine. The success of the work, so far as the appearance of the paper is concerned, must be admitted. A very general objection against the use of machines made by readers, is the fact that the printing as a rule is not nearly so clear as when the type is set by hand, nor are the lines so regular, making the continuous reading of machine set matter ruinous to the eyesight. Readers of The Tribune, however, must be forced to admit that no such objection can be raised against its machine-set matter. It is, as printed this morning, fully equal to hand set type in point of clearness, while so far as regularity of setting and spacing is concerned, it is in our opinion superior. With neat new head letter also, The Tribune's pages this morning present a truly metropolitan appearance. It remains to be seen whether or not the typesetting machines will keep up their introductory record."

Finest Paper Ever Issued.

Carbondale Leader, Oct. 13: "The Scranton Tribune appeared this morning in an entire new dress of type which was composed on Mergenthaler linotype machines, four of which, of the latest improved design, have been purchased and placed in The Tribune's composing rooms—the first machines of their kind used in northeastern Pennsylvania. The edition of today consists of twelve pages and in make-up, completeness and variety of matter is the most metropolitan newspaper ever issued in this part of the state. The new dress of The Tribune represents a recent outlay of over $25,000."

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN

Indications All Point to a Sweeping Republican Victory.

THE MEETINGS ARRANGED FOR

General Hastings Will Be in the City One Week From Today and Address Voters—Other Distinguished Men Who Are Coming Here.

As the days that separate us from Nov. 6 grow fewer, evidence becomes more and more convincing that this will be a great Republican year in Pennsylvania. General Daniel H. Hastings and his colleagues on the Republican ticket will be elected by majorities such as were never before given to candidates on a state ticket in Pennsylvania. Indications point unerringly to this fact. In all portions of the state great enthusiasm is expressed for the able gentlemen who are acting as the standard bearers of the Republican party this fall.

The county ticket, too, will be elected, and every candidate have a good margin to spare.

The Democratic shouters throughout the county were, during the week, instructed to talk confidently of Democratic success in the county. They obeyed instructions, and are telling all with whom they come in contact how the Democrats are going to "clean out" the Republicans this fall. This is part of the plan of the Democratic leaders to restore confidence among those who, in the past, have acknowledged allegiance to the party of Jefferson and Jackson, and if possible awaken some degree of enthusiasm and interest. The task is a difficult one, and the ridiculous claims of the shouters is doing nothing to awaken the much desired enthusiasm for the local Democratic nominees.

Earnestness Pervades All.

At Republican headquarters dozens of interested party workers call daily, anxious to learn in what way they can best assist in piling up big Republican majorities. Never before, perhaps, have the individual members of the party shown a more earnest spirit or a greater desire to be of some assistance to the campaign managers. This is one of the best evidences of the interest the rank and file of the party take in the outcome of the battle of the ballots on Nov. 6.

Public meetings are being addressed nightly by Republican orators in different parts of the county, and at these the large attendance and enthusiasm furnishes additional proof of the sentiments of the voters.

More young men will vote the Republican ticket this fall than ever before. This is particularly true of Irish-American young men, who are turning in great numbers from the Democratic party, whose boast in the past has been that it owned them, body and soul. These young men feel that it is an insult to their manhood to be considered the chattel of any political party, and are voting for the candidates and principles which they believe will best subserve their true interests.

At the municipal election last spring the way these young men renounced the Democratic party in Dunmore and in boroughs north of the city caused consternation among the county leaders. They will have new cause for consternation when the votes are counted on Nov. 6.

The young men of today are bright and aggressive; they think and inquire And only the party of firm principles, framed for the good of the whole people, can command their suffrage.

Meetings and Speakers.

This week big meetings will be held at Petersburg, South Side, Archbald, Jermyn and Providence. Those who are billed to address these gatherings are Congressman C. W. Stone, of Warren; Charles B. Kreim, of Philadelphia; John R. Jones, C. E. Chittenden, C. W. Dawson, John M. Harris and R. A. Zimmerman. This galaxy of orators will not appear at each meeting. Mr. Stone is to address the voters at Jermyn and Providence, and Mr. Kreim at Petersburg, South Side and Archbald. He will speak in German. One or two of the other speakers named will also be heard at each of these meetings.

On Monday night, Oct. 22, General Daniel H. Hastings, Republican candidate for governor, will be in the city, and speak to the voters of Scranton at the Frothingham. General Hastings will be given a suitable demonstration, but the details with regard to it have not yet been decided upon. Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 23, General Hastings will speak at Carbondale and that night at Honesdale.

On Tuesday, Oct. 23, Congressman Marriott Brosius will deliver an address at Moscow, and the next night on the West Side of this city. Ex-Lieutenant Governor Davies will address a meeting at Olyphant on Oct. 25, and at Taylor on Oct. 26. The voters of Taylor are preparing to give Mr. Davies a splendid reception when he visits that place. Other meetings are now being arranged for the remainder of the campaign. At the public meetings held the issues are being squarely defined, and the result left to the calm consideration of the voters.

Singerly to Come.

At Democratic headquarters Chairman John E. Roche and Secretary M. F. Sando are doing their utmost to inject some of their own aggressiveness into the campaign, but the result is not particularly gratifying. Not many public meetings are held, but clubs are being formed in all parts of the county, principally among young men, whom it is particularly desired to interest.

Nov. 1 Candidate Singerly will be in the city and then it is the intention to mass the forces of the party in one big demonstration for the man who was willing to sacrifice himself on the altar of party defeat.

TEACHERS TO BE DIVIDED.

Instructors of City and County Will Not Meet Together This Year.

As foreshadowed in The Tribune some time ago, it has been decided that the teachers of the county will divide during the institute, which begins Monday, Oct. 29. The city teachers, in charge of Superintendent G. W. Phillips, will meet in Young Men's Christian Association hall, and the teachers of the remainder of the county are to hold their sessions in the court house. County Superintendent J. C. Taylor will be in charge of these sessions.

The instructors who will appear before the teachers are: Dr. E. E. White, of Columbus, O.; Dr. W. C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of schools; Professor Charles H. Albert, of Bloomsburg State Normal school; Dr. Samuel H. Albro, of Mansfield State Normal school; Dr. E. O. Lytle, of Millersville State Normal school; Miss Gertrude Edwards, of Stroudsburg State Normal school; Miss Lelia E. Partridge, of Westboro, Mass.; Professor F. M. Loomis, of Keystone academy, and Miss Louise Shardlow, who has charge of the physical culture work of the Young Women's Christian association in this city. Professor E. W. Newton, of Binghamton, will have charge of the music at the city institute and Professor Eppstein at the county.

The evening course will consist of two lectures at the Frothingham. One on Oct. 29 by Professor John De Motte, of Cambridge, Mass., and the other on Oct. 31 by Henry Watterson, of Louisville, Ky. His subject will probably be "Money and Morals."

LUTHERANS IN SESSION.

Third Regular Meeting of the Wilkes-Barre Conference Is Held.

The third regular meeting of the Wilkes-Barre conference, one of the local bodies of the Evangelical Lutheran ministerium of Pennsylvania, met last week in Bensalem church, Carbon county, Rev. W. H. Strauss, pastor.

The conference is composed of about twenty-five clerical and the same number of lay delegates, representing about forty congregations within the narrow strip of territory extending from Sayre to Lehighton. Rev. H. H. Bruning, Ph. D., of White Haven, is the presiding officer. Rev. F. Holter, pastor of Christ church; Rev. G. M. Scheidy, of St. Mark's; Rev John Randolph, of St. Peter's; Rev. E. L. Miller, of Holy Trinity; and Rev. Phillip F. Zizelman, of Zion's, all of this city, are members of that body.

A great deal of missionary activity in home fields is manifested, and new missions are constantly organized. The Lutheran church is the strongest Protestant church in the world, having over 30,000 pastors serving over 40,000 congregations with a total communicant membership of over 52,000,000. In Pennsylvania alone there are over 800 ministers serving over 1,300 congregations with a total membership of over 300,000.

BROOKS WILL LEAD.

The Popular Scranton Boy Will Captain the Tigers' Ball Team.

According to the Philadelphia papers Short Stop Brooks, '95, will lead the Tigers upon the diamond next spring. He was elected by the nine after the Princeton season closed last June, and it was rumored at the time that the selection was not a popular one and might not be confirmed by the graduate advisory committee. It was said that Otto and Payne, also seniors, were surer of their places.

All this was set at rest at the recent meeting of the graduate advisory committee in Princeton, when Brooks' election was unanimously approved. One thing that can be said of the new Tiger captain is that he is a hustler and should keep his men full of ginger from start to finish.

The Scranton Business College.

Another teacher will begin work in the day session on Monday. Twenty new tables were placed in the building Tuesday afternoon. They were badly needed. The shorthand department now occupies three rooms. Main study and practice room, dictation room and tpyewriting room.

At the solicitation of a number of parents, a special course has been arranged for young ladies and gentlemen. Special branches will be taught by a competent teacher. Pupils for this department will be received next week.

Two responsible positions were filled this week.

The new suits for the foot ball team came Wednesday. The boys are now practicing hard preparatory to a contest with a team in a neighboring city soon.
