PARADE OR NOT TO PARADE

That is the Question That is Now Agitating Father Matthewmen.

LONG DEBATE ON THE QUESTION

Delegates to Yesterday's Convention Think That the Money Spent in Annual Parades Can be Used with Better Effect in Other Ways.

Rain and chiefly November weather put somewhat of a damper on the de-liberations of the seventh quarterly convention of the Second district of the Scranton Catholic Total Abstinence union, which assembled yesterday af-ternoon at St. John's hall, on Stone

When the convention adjourned at 4.30 to partake of supper, which was served in the outer hall by St. John's society and a committee of ladies, a subject that threatened to drift into a warm and heated debate, was introduced by President J. H. Devine, of the Diocesan union.

The convention was discussing the question, "Are diocesan parades beneficial to the cause of temperance?"
Mr. Barry believed that the money required to carry on a parade on Oct. 10 tively into the question of the time, the place, and the audience upon the occasion and followed with an eloquent dissertation upon the preacher and made comparative remarks as to the preaching of the present day. Speaking of the sermon, Dr. McLeod said:

"There was no silly gush about St. Peter's preaching. It contained no sickly sentimentalism. He did not preach a sham Christianity. The required to carry on a parade on Oct. 10 sham revival, it was not man-made, but When the convention adjourned at question, "Are diocesan parades benficial to the cause of temperance".

Mr. Barry believed that the money required to carry on a parade on Oct. 10 might be turned to a better purpose if appropriated for lectures on temperance by speakers who could treat the subject with grace and eloquence. Another member favored the parades because it gave the union a chance to display its strength and this fact would

Danger of Excursions. Mr. Martin put forth the view that the danger incident to big excursions ought to amount to consideration. Men leaving home in the morning with smil-ing faces had been brought home life-less, and the terrible catastrophe at Mud Run resulted so fearfully that the country was shocked by it. Mr.Lavan touched upon the benefit that liquor sellers derive from parades.

Mr. Devine branched into a different consideration of the question. He at-tacked the Delaware and Hudson company for refusing a reduction in fare for those who desired to attend the parade at Jermyn on Oct. 10.

After supper the convention reassem-bled and Mr. Devine resumed. He said that the railroads went into a combina-tion to close up the rates against the Government Ownership of Roads. Mr. McLean thought the proper thing to do is to advocate the government ownership of railroads, and then every-body would be treated alike. Mr. Devine's resolution that it be the sense of the convention of the Second district to enter a protest against railroad companies for not giving the tem-perance societies the same rates as other organizations, was enthusiasti-

Mr. McLean, who advocated the government ownership thought that the convention ought not to be behind the convention ought not to be beaund the Jessup convention in taking up the question, "Is treating a violation of the pledge?" Mr. Calvin, to bring the question before the house, put it in the form of a motion and the ball began rolling. Mr. Ferguson, of Green Ridge, said that he is a temperance man and had the health of treating his friends. had the habit of treating his friends when they came to his house, and he did not think there was any harm in it. Mr. Lavan said the moral injury done by treating resulted from the appetite it creates.

Mr. Devine's motion to refer the question to the next diocesan conventon was amended to refer it to the next quarterly convention and that the delegates will report to their societies. The amendment was carried and the much discussed question went over after an hour's debate pro and con.

Tribute to Father McManus-When the bills incident to the demonstration given to Father McManus on his return home were read, President J. H. Devine paid a proper tribute to Father McManus. He said that the money spent in honor of Father Mc-Manus went for a purpose that was a credit to the district. Father McManus is to the temperance movement of this city aguiding star, whose influence in the cause has been unselfish and untiring. The time will come, he said, when the Scranton Diocesan union will recognize the worth of men like Father McManus and give them the post of honor they deserve.

Mr. McCaffrey, of Jermyn, invited all temperannce workers to attend the pu-b lic entertainment which the St. Aloy-sius society, of Jermyn, will hold on Tuesday, Oct. 30. Under the head of reports from societies each society presented flourish-ing accounts of additions to member-ship. St. Paul's, of Green Ridge, came first with the creditable addition of thirty-five members since the last quarterly convention.

The convention did not take any steps The convention did not take any steps in regard to the organizing of a society in the central city. There used to be a society known as the Father Mathew society, and since that disintegrated there has been no society to represent the central city. The question was discussed at least the but was discussed. was discussed at length, but no action taken on it. Papers will be read at the next quarterly convention by M. J. O'Toole, of St. Peter's, and Peter F. Cusick, of Minooka.

BLIND EVANGELIST MAICE.

Prenched a Temperence Sermon Yester-day to a Large Audience. Yesterday was a busy day with Mr. Malce, who is conducting a series of revival meetings at the Evangelical church, Green Ridge. In the morning he conducted a "Union Gospel Wagon"

Feast," which is typical o the primitive Methodist "Icve feasts" of the old country, the home of stalwart Methodism and at 5 p. m. a grand compenance relly was held, when Mr. Make delivered an address full of telling points, and illustrated with incidents of his own life, which were strong arguments with his hearers.

Mr. Maice will continue the meetings for a few nights, so that an opportunity will be given those who are anxious to

ST. PETER'S FIRST SERMON.

Rev. Dr. McLeod Speaks Strongly on Re vival Work and Conversion.

Rev. Dr. McLeod continued his series of sermons upon "The Early Years of Christanity," his subject last evening being "St. Peter's First Sermon," which he remarked was his greatest sermon and, probably, the most effective sermon preached by any of the ministers of Christ since the days of Parites. Penitent. Dr. McLeod entered exhaus-tively into the question of the time, the

IN FINANCIAL TROUBLE.

Big Judgment Entered Up Against the Firm of H. Battin & Co.

The hardware business of Henry Battin on Penn avenue will probably be closed this morning by the sheriff, who will levy upon the stock to satisfy a judgment note for $16,140 in favor of Emeline C. Battin, the merchant's wife. The note is dated Aug. 18, 1892, and was filed in the prothonotary's office late Saturday afternoon by Attorney Diehl, of Watson & Diehl. A writ was issued and given to the sheriff for service. Execution, however, was postponed owing to the lateness of the hour, which prevented the sheriff procuring insur-ance and attending to other necessary

Mr. Battin is engaged in the business with James Holden, under the firm name of Henry Battin & Co. They reside in Elmhurst and Dunmore, respec-tively. Mr. Battin has been in Scranton for over a quarter of a century, and was for many years in partnership with William P. Connell and later with W.

I. Battin, a son.
The building at 126 Penn avenue is owned by Mr. Battin and is valued at $25,000. He also owns his residence at Elmhurst.

Deputy Sheriff Ryan, who has charge of the writ, told a Tribune reporter last night that the writ would be served this morning, unless some manner of settlement is made. From another source it is learned that the levy will positively be made and that Monday, Oct. 22, will be the day fixed for the sale.

BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE. Was in the City in Search of a Faithless Husband.

A broken-hearted wife was in the city Saturday afternoon and until late that night, acompanied by a Wilkes-Barre police sergeant, looking for a perfidious husband who had robbed and successful.

The woman was Mrs. William Gel-seke, who had once before been de-serted and robbed by her husband when they lived in Newark. She located him in Wilkes-Barre and finally joined him in that city under the prom ise that he would not again betray her confidence. She had some money and considerable valuable jewelry. Geiseke squandered a large amount of both and finally, on Friday, disappeared with $800. He was known to have left on Delaware and Hudson train, so Mrs. Geiseke, with Sergeant of Police Houck, of Wilkes-Barre, came to Scranton in the hope that they would find him here. That their quest proved fruitless is evidence that Geiseke and the money are hundreds of miles distant.

The deserted woman is said to be of the German nobility. She relinquished her title to marry a poor drug-gist named Engle, with whom she came to Newark, where Engle conducted a small pharmacy. Soon after his death his widow married Geiseke.

A team of horses owned by Frank M. Spencer, driven by the coachman and attached to a two-seated phaeton, became frightened during a slight colli-sion with a Dunmore car at the corner of Linden street and became unman-ageable. Two friends of the driver were in the carriage and safely alighted before the frightened team had made much headway. The harness became partly detached from the carriage in a sudden plunge over the curbing and onto the court house lawn, where the horses were freed from the conveyance and were caught after running a few blocks.

The driver was slightly hurt by being pulled over the dashboard. The team was not injured excepting a few small scratches.

DISAGREES WITH BLISS.

Opinion of Rev. D. M. Kinter, of Provi dence, on Conversion. The Rev. D. M. Kinter delivered an address on "Conversion" at the Providence Christian church last evening in which he declared that Evangelist Bliss was mistaken in his theory of "conversion" which he stated was entirely at variance with the Scriptures.

Mr. Kinter claims that the will of man had much to do with the question and that the teaching of the evangelist was misleading and was such as led him into a life of infidelity in his younger days. The subject will be continued on Sunday next, when Mr. Kinter will preach in the evening on "Faith; Its Relations to Conversion."

AN EX-MAYOR LAID TO REST

Funeral Services Over the Body of Hon. Robert McKune.

EULOGY OF REV. DR. S. C. LOGAN

Pronounced in the First Presbyterian Church-Remains Lay in State in the City Hall for Several Hours. Buried With Masonic Rites.

The remains of the late Robert H. Mc-Kune were burled yesterday and fun-eral services held in ceremony and manner befitting the memory of him as exner belitting the memory of him as ex-mayor of Scranton.

During the morning and until 2 o'clock the body lay in state in the municipal building. Public services were held in the First Presbyterian church, where the remains were taken at 2:15 o'clock, and the burial was made under Masonic auspices in Forest Hill cemetery.

under Masonic auspices in Forest Hill cemetery.

The corridor of the municipal building was divided by large flags into an apartment, where the remains rested in a plain black, cloth-covered casket. All morning and until the hour of the church services many took a last look at their deceased friend. It was remembered by those who knew him best that the facial expression was wonderfully lifelike and peaceful. Behind the casket on a table reposed many/floral remembrances. The guard of honor in the hallway and about the casket was composed of the following police officers and members of the Crystal Engine and members of the Crystal Engine company: Patrolmen Gurrell, Meinzer and Thomas, and G. A. Connor, H. P. Wilcox, Charles Gessler and Henry was nearly filled.

Rev. James McLeod, the pastor, offered prayer, an excerpt of the Scripture was read by Rev. S. C. Logan, and a male quartette sang "We Are Going Down the Valley." Dr. Logan's funeral address was from Psalms xivilii, 12, "Nevertheless man being in honor, abideth not." His remarks honor abideth not." His remarks were confined principally to the deceased's fortitude and courageous character during the Scranton riots of 1877, in his regime as mayor, and the lesson his actions offered the living. Dr. Logan said in part:

Rev. Dr. Logan's Remarks. "We are honoring today the remains belonging to a generation which will stand conspicuous in history. Robert McKune participated in three different kinds of revolution which are notable epochs in the history of the Unnited States. He was a forty-niner, a sol-dier in the civil war, and the defender of a city's stability. Of his character it is not necessary for me to speak. am here only in the capacity of his friend and one whom God permitted to associate with him."

Dr. Logan then called attention to the citizens' testimonial circular ar-chived in the Albright library. It related. he said, to a period which tested the character of officials and citizens, and when Robert McKune was the only representative the people of Scranton could look to for support and protec-tion. Allusion was made to the riots of '77. The circular was signed by Governor Hartrandft and staff, military officers, directors of public insti-tutions, officers of corporations, the Scranton City guard, citizens of Wilkes-Barre, Pittston, Bethlehem, Elmira, and others. Excerpts read by Dr. Logan from a copy of the circular al-luded to the patriotic and able adminstration of Robert McKune during the riots and the confidence and thanks he

"It is worth living." said Dr. Logan,
"If our fellow men find such testimony and if it can be announced as we lay away his body to rest until the day of judgment shall indicate the righteous-ness of God,"

His Wonderful Courage. Reference was made to the many worthy characteristics of the deceased, his love for children, true manhood and wonderful courage. His bravery was not known to its full extent until with a broken jaw, the roof of his mouth fractured and face covered with blood he dared to face on Lackawanna avenue a mob bereft of reason. Later he walked to meet another crowd of frenzied men on Washington avenue de-spite the admonitions of many friends. These acts showed the sub-strata of character and courage which were not previously known to be in him. For peace, righteousness and justice he nursed the city in its childhood for the people the speaker represented.

He fulfilled his trust with the strength God had given him. His spirit and en-deavor were worthy of emulation. Following the church services burial was made in Forest Hill cemetery under the auspices of Union lodge, Free and Accepted Masons. Senior Warden Charles H. Church officiated.
