SCRANTON, OCTOBER 18, 1894.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

State. Governor, D. H. HASTINGS. Lieut.-Governor, WALTER L. LYN. Auditor-General, JOHN H. MYLEN. Sec'y Internal Affairs, JAMES W. LAITTA. Congressmen-at-large, GALESSA A. GREGG, GEORGE P. HUFF.

County. Judge, J. H. ARCHBOLD. Sheriff, FRANK B. CLEMONS. Clerk of the Courts, JOHN H. THOMAS. District Attorney, JOHN R. JONES. Recorder of Deeds, CHAS. HUESTER. Probationary, C. E. PRYOR. Register of Wills, W. M. S. HOPKINS. Jury Commissioner, T. J. MATTHEWS.

Legislative. First District, JOHN R. FARR. Second District, ALEX. T. CONNELL. Third District, P. J. GROVER. Fourth District, CHAS. P. O'MALLEY.

THE SCRANTON OF TODAY.

Come and inspect our city. Elevation above the tide, 140 feet. Extremely healthy. Estimated population, 1894, 100,000. Registered voters, 25,000. Value of school property, $750,000. Number of school children, 12,000. Average amount of bank deposits, $10,000,000. It is the metropolis of northeastern Pennsylvania. Can produce electric power cheaper than Niagara. No better point in the United States than to establish new industries. See how we grow: Population in 1860, 10,000. Population in 1870, 20,000. Population in 1880, 45,000. Population in 1890, 75,000. Population in 1894 (estimated), 100,000. And the end is not yet.

JUDGE ARCHBOLD has been one of the most conservative court officials of northeastern Pennsylvania during his career on the bench. The experience of one term, as well as a residence in Lackawanna county the greater portion of his life, has given Hon. R. W. Archbald a knowledge of the affairs of this section of the state that cannot be obtained at a glance. Laying all partisan questions aside, Judge Archbald is by experience and by faithful service in the administration of justice entitled to a re-election.

The Hastings Reception.

As the growing metropolis of the anthracite region and the central city of the third largest community in the state, Scranton will need to bestir itself in order to give fitting welcome to Pennsylvania's next governor, upon the occasion of his forthcoming visit. The hub of an industrial section which has felt with particular keenness the hurtful effects of Democratic misadministration would be recreant to its past and indifferent to its future were it not to pay uncommon honor to the magnificent candidate who at once typifies individual valor and economic sanity. The visit of General Hastings will be important in every respect. It will be important because it will give the people of Lackawanna county, irrespective of party, a chance to meet and greet the chivalric gentleman who so ably pleads in their behalf against the ruin-breeders and day dreamers at Washington. It will be important, too, from the fact that it will constitute the one opportunity of the campaign to evince the general gratitude of Pennsylvania Republicans at the return of wise counsels in the party, as evidenced in the well-nigh unanimous nomination of clean and worthy men. As a county which has always been noted for its ready appreciation of merit, Lackawanna owes to General Hastings' candidacy an ovation which will correspond with its admiration for his sterling qualities, and fairly eclipse even the superb receptions which have hitherto been his uniform greeting.

There is yet another reason why this visit should be made notable. It is the visit's quickening effect upon the entire local canvass. General Hastings' magnetic influence upon the people is a familiar fact. It adds greatly to the strength of his logic and the power of his well-voiced arguments. The result of his tour of this section, brief though it must necessarily be, can hardly fail to add perceptibly to the momentum of protection's cause, and augment by several hundred the majority of each Republican candidate on the county ticket.

THE ARGUMENT that this or that follower of the free trade element should be supported for a local office because he is a "good fellow," should have no weight with an intelligent Republican voter. An opportunity is at hand to again teach the "good fellows" that they are in bad company.

An Ideal Servant.

The ability, experience and integrity of Clarence E. Pryor have long been conceded, even by his political opponents, who in nominating Sheriff Fahey as his antagonist in this campaign gave evidence of their appreciation of Mr. Pryor's strength. There is abundant reason for this popularity of the present Republican probationary, however. No predecessor in that difficult and responsible office has ever excelled Mr. Pryor in the accuracy, system and method governing his conduct of that trust. He has been an ideal servant of the people; careful, courteous, honest and always good natured.

The people of Lackawanna county, irrespective of party, will retain Mr. Pryor in office.

AFTER NOV. 6 they won't be holding free trade ratification meetings over in London, don't you know.

MR. STRAUS, Tammany's decoy candidate for mayor, is not objected to by any decent man because he is a Hebrew in race or a Jew in religion. The objection to him is that he, consciously or unconsciously, is being made the good tool of an evil purpose. Underneath the mantle of his benevolence Tammany hides designs too vile for utterance; and if he persists in maintaining an incongruous alliance, he must prepare himself to accept the consequences.

WHAT HAS Judge Merrifield ever done for the people of Lackawanna county that they should be asked to send him to congress? Don't all answer at once.

Vote for John R. Jones.

There is no position in the county government which so largely invites the aggressive traits that are almost indispensable in the district attorneyship. Into this office center, as into the central station of a telegraph or telephone system, all the various threads of crime and evidence which comprise the bulk of the growing business of our county courts. Not only must the ideal district attorney be, as an attorney, thoroughly in touch with every moving phase of that exacting and progressive profession, but he must be, in addition, a shrewd student of human nature, a ready judge of fact and fiction, and a man fired with the ambition to excel which lies at the bottom of all true industry.

In our own county with its shifting and composite population, the best results in the district attorneyship are to be obtained only by one who is in daily contact with the people, who is in ready and instant sympathy with all law-abiding citizens, regardless of race, class or creed, and who has had years of experience in the ferreting out of crime and in the detailed business of criminal litigation. The greater the energies of the man, the better for the people; for if he be but moderately diligent and only partially awake, the opportunity for unnecessary expenses and needlessly crowded criminal dockets will almost certainly be improved.

As against the present courteous but ordinary official, the Republicans of Lackawanna county have nominated, in John R. Jones, a man whose name is the synonym for energy and enterprise. He is known to every man, woman and child, almost within the county's borders. There is not, in all the county, a person who doubts that if elected, he would invest the office of district attorney with a new force and a new meaning. The vim, determination and varied resources which he has shown as a private practitioner at the bar, in difficult cases his handling of which has given him a state reputation, would stimulate that department of the county government with new life, new activity and new usefulness to the people.

A vote for John R. Jones will be a discriminating ballot, which the voter will not afterward regret.

THOSE IDLE factories in the South Side carry their own visible and palpable demonstration that we want no more "Democratic times."

SNOW CAPS on Mars have disappeared, according to recent astronomical reports, and the planet gives every indication of having undergone a thaw. It is possible that a wave of Populism has struck Mars and that the fiery oratory of its whiskered advocates is having its effect upon the country at large.

THEY can say what they please about Thomas D. Davies, but the people know him to be an honest man, who as county treasurer can be depended upon, every day in the week.

Democratic Anxiety.

The Democratic cause in Lackawanna county will not profit from the abuse which certain Democratic influences are venting upon Republican candidates of Irish descent. There is no law in this country which makes it a crime for an upright Irish-American like James C. Vaughn, or another like Charles P. O'Malley to seek for political preferment on the Republican ticket. It is not treason to the republic for the Republican party to nominate such men; neither does their acceptance of such a nomination violate any contract with the Democratic bosses nor do injustice to any moral obligation.

The Democratic party has never filed in any court of record such a legal document as would justify its pretended mortgage on Irish-American voters. Upon the contrary, there is no other class of American citizens which has greater reason to shun the Democratic party and which is acquiring a more hopeful and intelligent independence of that deceitful party organization than these same citizens whose ancestors have come to this country from the land which English economic bull dozing has ruined.

Seeing the mistake in their first line of attack, the Democratic bosses are trying to make the candidates believe that they were accorded empty honors in convention. If this be true, why is the Democracy troubled? Upon what theory does it beat the earth and tear its hair? The nominations tendered to Mr. Vaughn and to Mr. O'Malley were the nominations that each was willing to accept, and that each is today confident of turning into a glorious victory next month. The Democratic bosses, in making so much fuss along this line, are guilty of exceedingly poor judgment, for upon its face it gives their whole case away.

MODERATE BUT evenly distributed protection, sustained by its friends and grounded in benevolence rather than in hate, would make this nation once more the leading nation in the world in point of diversified prosperity. And if to that we could add a practical system of genuine bi-metalism, our territory would literally overflow with milk and honey.

WE WONDER how Commodore Singery will relish the idea of having to occupy the same platform, when in this city, that will be occupied by Candida, Edward Merrifield, a self-styled Protection Democrat, and therefore, according to Mr. Singery's own classification, a political fraud.

MANY SOUTHERN people are beginning to see the folly of free trade which must indirectly affect all of their interests in future, and now the authorities of Florida object to having the state made the fighting ground of all the toughs of the fighting. Is the millennium at hand?

EVEN DEMOCRATS admit that a one-sided government is not desirable. With the present Democratic for at least two more years, the best that the people can do for themselves is to make the house emphatically Republican.

REPRESENTATIVE SCRANTON is a protectionist whose fealty to protection is not conjunctural. That fact alone warrants his election and justifies Edward Merrifield's defeat.

THE FIELD OF POLITICS.

It is asserted by those who know that politics has never been in any manner worked in the Pennsylvania Granite. The master of the granite, Mr. Rhoads, is a Democrat of free silver, coinage proclivities; the lecturer, Mr. Allman, is the candidate of the People's party for governor; Mr. Nevitt, the treasurer, is a spot-basis Democrat, and the secretary, R. H. Thomas, is a straight-out Republican of the stalwart stripe.

Inquirer—Yes, Representative M. T. Burke did oppose the Farr free text book bill, notwithstanding his present assertions to the contrary. Nobody knows this better than Mr. Burke himself. Ask Representative Farr, Q. We do not know whether Mr. Burke rides upon a pass or not; but as he is the professed friend of labor and a professional foe to corporations we should imagine not. You might ask him.

Judges Kirkpatrick and Reeder, who have been conducting a live canvass of Pike county, report the tie being against Hart, Democratic congressional nominee, even in his own home, is very bitter. The tide in favor of Republicanism in the Eighth grows stronger every day. Hart is getting frightened.

Judge Mayer, of Clinton county, has the right idea. He will not naturalize aliens who cannot speak English. He believes with the better class of judges of both parties nowadays, that there's such a thing as being too confoundedly generous with the privileges of American citizenship.

John R. Jones' candidacy up the valley is a revelation in enthusiastic campaigning. The ovation he receives among his neighbors and friends evinces a popularity surpassed by few candidates for political office. It is simply a question of plurality in the case of Mr. Jones.

John R. Farr is not doing much loud talking over in the First district; but he is winning over a lively lot of votes. The parent of the free text book law doesn't have to blow a trumpet in this campaign. His works speak for him.

Peter O'Boyle, the Democratic candidate for district attorney in Luzerne, is conducting a quiet canvass; but the Republicans would do well to keep an eye upon him.

The local Democratic organette sticks to its dollar-a-day lie with all the grim tenacity that a drowning man clings to a straw. And it's such an old lie, too.

Results count. Representative Scranton gains for results.

FORGING AHEAD.

The Best Equipped Plant. Wilkes-Barre News-Dealer, Oct. 16: "The Scranton Tribune appeared in a new dress of type on Saturday and also made the announcement that in the future the composition work on the paper would be done by machinery. The improvements mean an outlay of $25,000. The Tribune plant is now, beyond question, the best equipped in this section of the state. And the paper itself has long occupied a place in the front rank. The News-Dealer congratulates its contemporary on its success."

Making Important Strides. Philadelphia Times, Oct. 16: "The Scranton Tribune is making important strides in a business way, its enterprising proprietors having invested $25,000 in new typesetting machines and type, adding largely to the facilities for getting out a metropolitan newspaper. The Tribune is a truly representative morning journal, every page replete with the best product of excellent management and magnificent support."

Typographical Appearance Excellent. Williamsport Times, Oct. 15: "The Scranton Tribune has purchased Mergenthaler linotype machines, and appeared on Saturday almost entirely composed on them. The new dress was most satisfactory, the typographical appearance of the paper being excellent. The Tribune is up to the times in this and many other respects, and has our heartiest congratulations."

Prosperous and Progressive. Troy, N. Y. Times, Oct. 15: "The Scranton Tribune is both prosperous and progressive. Its latest improvement is the introduction of typesetting machines of the pattern in use in the Troy T-mes-composing room. The Tribune in its new dress is attractive, and is in better shape than ever to brighten the ideas of the dwellers in northeastern Pennsylvania."

Will Have Machines Like 'Em. Wilkes-Barre Times, Oct. 15: "The Scranton Tribune is printed entirely from the linotypes set up and cast by the Mergenthaler machines and it is now a handsomer paper than ever. The Times' quota of the same machines will be here in a few weeks, having to be made to order, and then we promise a few sensations. Each machine does the work of three men and while their employment will necessarily throw out of work a few men there is no doubt that the greatly increased amount of matter required by the readers of our morning paper will justify the employment of enough additional machines to set the men all at work again."

The American Position. From the Lebanon Daily News. The press of this state is speaking out in no uncertain tones against the indifference, not to say recklessness, some judges of courts manifest in allowing native-born citizens to foreigners who have come into this country, many of whom simply desire their papers because it gives them the right to vote and in large cities the privilege of selling that vote to the highest bidder. The elective franchise is too sacred a trust to be dealt out promiscuously and for the mere asking. We want every citizen in this broad land to enjoy the full and untrammelled right of voting as he believes is best for himself and the whole country, but every one must first possess the qualifications and character-istics of a true patriot before he shall be endowed with the rights of citizenship under this government.

Bogus Reformers. From the Syracuse Post.

Civil service reform under this administration is a mockery and a sham, and is made a bridge over which the spoils system has been able to carry into the government service thousands of persons who otherwise could not have found places on the rolls of any department of government. The people are beginning to understand this also, and they will vote to rebuke the spoils system.

A Question of Wages. From the Chicago Mail.

The plate mills are shutting down all over the United States pending the adjustment of wages to the new Democratic tariff. The plate mills in Wales started up immediately after the passage of the Wilson-Gorman bill, and are said to be enjoying a prosperous season. Does anybody doubt, in view of these facts, that the tariff is mainly a question of wages?

It's Different Here. From the Globe-Democrat.

Since the passage of the Wilson tariff bill, the advance in the quotations of the shares of two English iron companies has been $75,000; but we do not hear of any such advance accruing to similar companies in this country.

Grover, You Cannot. From Cleveland's Letter.

How can we face the people after indulging in such outrageous discriminations and violations of principle?
