LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

(Under this heading short letters of interest will be published when accompanied, for publication, by the writer's name. The Tribune will not be held responsible for opinions here expressed.)
John R. Farr as a Candidate.
Editor of the Tribune:
Sir—As one of the miners of this valley I wish to express my opinion in regard to John R. Farr as a candidate. What is the record of John R. Farr as a representative? Simply this one: A record of unimpeachable integrity and unswerving zeal. He has accomplished more for the workingmen than any of his predecessors. Since the day he was elected, his chief aim has been to alleviate and elevate the condition of the working class. His unprecedented record speaks for itself.
The miner brings home his pay, very small, and smilingly hands the money to his wife: there is room for it all, God knows. But thanks to John R. Farr, there is no $2 or $3 for books out of that pay any more. Mr. Editor, thousands of him throughout the state, by the passage of the free text bill, have been made happy. None but a workingman can tell how much the working class has been benefited through the efforts and accomplishments of John R. Farr in the legislature. When a man has won the esteem of his colleagues, when his opinion is authority in their deliberations, and his worth appreciated in their midst, it is the paramount duty of that legislative district that sent him there to send him again. John R. Farr is an ideal representative, and the workingmen of the district fully appreciate what he has done for them, and it is their duty to elect him again with an overwhelming majority.

LECTURE ON THE POET MILTON

Second of the Series of the University Extension Course—Dealt with the Public Career of the Poet—News Boiled Down.

The second series of the University extension lectures was given in the Welsh Calvinistic Methodist church last evening by Colonel Homer B. Sprague, Ph. D., of Orange, N. J., who pursued the course on Milton's life. He dwelt on Milton's public life and subsequent retirement. During his remarks he said Milton's life was divided into three periods. First his preparatory, then about twenty years lapse in which he wrote nothing but a few prose writings, and, lastly, his retirement and old age. In 1643 he strolled away from London to collect a debt of 500 pounds from a man named Powell. This Powell had a beautiful daughter who was more used to flattery than philosophy, and a better judge of bonnets than poetry. She was a Royalist; he a Republican. Yet he fell in love and married her. She was attracted with him, the best scholar in England, handsome and a schoolmaster. What a combination of charms.

In 1649 there was a scene which this planet had never seen before. For the first time a king is brought to justice. With dignity he refused to plead. The case proceeded, and he is sentenced to die. On Jan. 30 the head of Charles Stewart, which had worn the crown of Europe, rolled from the block. The would-be despot richly deserved his fate, but it was unpolitic. Pity followed hate, and the masses went back to royalty. The crown was now transferred to Charles II, and Milton published a book on the tenure of kings and magistrates. In 1649 he was appointed secretary of state. He wrote a treatise on Salmastius. Salmastius had written against the tenure of kings and magistrates. Milton to answer it. The work was of prodigious power, and in it he completely annihilated Salmastius. Milton had now become totally blind as a result of his arduous labors. He wrote two sonnets on his blindness, which were very touching. A sonnet was written by Milton on the massacre at Fiedmont and during this period Charles II was triumphantly enthroned. Opposition to monarchy was now in vain and Milton was in great danger. He sought shelter in a friend's home, and as he was supposed to be dead, a mock funeral paraded the streets with an empty coffin. His property was swept away. Now came the days of solitude and loyalty. The days of the covenant, bigot and slave. Milton next built that stupendous structure, "Paradise Lost." In 1671 he published "Paradise Regained," which was more symmetrical and less ornamental, with the exception of Athens. One day Charles II told Milton that his blindness was God's punishment. "Well," said Milton, "that is the case. I was not nearly as bad as your father, for I only lost my eyes, while he lost his head."

Brief Notes of Interest.
Henry Jacobs, of Lafayette street, is recovering from an illness.
Frank Stewart, of Chestnut street, has purchased a valuable horse.
Mrs. John Fowler, of Downingtown, is the guest of friends on this side.
Mr. and Mrs. John T. Jones, of Plymouth, are visiting friends in Bellevue.
William Jones, of Plymouth, is the guest of William Davies, of Bellevue street.
Joseph G. Cahoon and Guy Samuel, of this side, have returned from a hunting trip near Dimmock.
Robert Morris, Order of American True Iovites, is about to secure club rooms for the entertainment of its younger members.
The Manettes will banquet in their rooms on Nov. 14. The club has made several changes in the rooms and they are now the finest of the kind on this side.

The several castles of the order, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will visit each other once a month until spring. The next meeting of the kind will be at the Providence castle on Nov. 5.
Anthony Kubacki, a Hungarian, employed as a laborer in the Bellevue mine, was injured yesterday morning by a fall of coal, while at work. Kubacki was removed to his home on South Washington avenue, where his injuries received medical attention.
The following local talent will produce a drama under the auspices of the Old Union society at the Washburn Street Presbyterian church on Thanksgiving Day: Misses Margaret Gibbs, Ella Williams, Margaret Edwards, Bertha Powell, Myron Evans and others.
The "Fritz" act, by David N. Reese, of Olyphant, brother of Richard Reese, of Lafayette street, occurred yesterday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Davies, of the First Welsh Baptist church, at Olyphant. Interment was made in the Washburn Street cemetery.

IN LOCAL THEATERS.

Old favorites are always sure of a hearty welcome, and we know no actor who occupies a warmer place in the affections and esteem of our theater-goers than J. K. Emmet. His "Fritz" of pleasant memories. He will present the novel German hero in his new play called "Fritz in a Mad House" at the Frothingham tonight. Mr. Emmet will be supported by an excellent company of well-known players. The play will be produced on a scale of general excellence. The cast includes Miss Emily Lytton, Baby Spencer Slinnot, Florence Foster, Miss Germaine, Miss Wain; Messrs. Hudson Liston, Francis Kingston, George Middleton, Harry Coffin, David Rivers and others. The following beautiful songs will be sung by Mr. Emmet during the action of the play, all written by himself: "Schneider, How You Vas," "Laughing Jack," "Down by the Old Green Lane," "The Bubble Song," "Lullaby," "Come Love," etc. Seats now on sale.
The career of Fanny Rice, now one of America's foremost comedienne, is an illustration of the success that may be attained by any talented young woman who perseveres in the face of apparently insurmountable obstacles, and who, in a calling in which temptations are ever present, retains her self-respect and consequently gains the esteem of the entire theater-going public. Miss Rice has been on the stage but a comparatively brief time, but her position is secure and her popularity unquestioned. This season the gifted comedienne will be seen in the somewhat pretentious, though exceedingly humorous character of Molly Flower in her latest successful comedy, "Miss Innocence Abroad," in which she will be seen at the Academy of Music on Wednesday evening.

The attraction to be presented at the Academy of Music on Friday and Saturday evening next, with a special ladies' and children's matinee, is the world-famed spectacular romance, "The Black Crook." It has been played more times than any play known to American theater-goers. The scenery is alone worthy of special attention, and when the superb dramatic cast, the charming ballets, the dazzling costumes and the sumptuous transformation scenes are considered, not to speak of the numerous European specialties, it is easily the most imposing production that our citizens will have a chance to witness this season. Its long run at the Academy of Music, New York,

THE ELECTRIC ROAD TO MOOSIC

It is Practically Completed—Cars Will Be Running to Pittston in a Few Weeks.

The visitors scored a touchdown in each half of the game, but it required Herculean efforts on their part to do so. Both touchdowns were scored by Robinson, who failed each time to kick a goal.
The features of the game were the superior work of Brown, of the Rushers, and Robinson, of the visitors. The same teams have arranged a game for some day next week.

Street Cars to Moosic.
Contractor P. S. Page told a Tribune reporter yesterday that the extension of the Moosic and Greenwood street railway is ready to be operated and that a trial trip would probably be made today. The crossing of the Delaware and Hudson tracks at the Moosic depot is not yet put in place, neither is the road extended further than the beginning of Stark's Patch; but Mr. Page expects to have the line in operation by the end of the month. The cars will be ready to run to Pittston. Mechanics at the Linden street shops are fitting up three new cars to be used exclusively on the South Side and Pittston line.

FROM THE ALBURN BULLETIN, MAY 5, 1894.

One of the Most Remarkable Cures
That has been effected in years and for which the Bulletin can vouch, has just come to light through the agency of Dr. Potter's Rheumatic Pills. Thomas Brennan, a well known stone cutter of long standing, is the fortunate victim of this wonderful cure. A Bulletin called at the home of Mr. Brennan, 22 Harbor street, and found him only too willing to talk over his ailment, which he had for years in life he learned the stone cutter's trade, at which he has worked for the past twenty-eight years. He had without effect, ever since. Especially during winters and springs of each year he has been a patient sufferer, his joints growing more acute with each successive year. Some ten years ago he was taken with a most violent attack of an inflammatory nature, which confined him to the house that season. Preceding this attack, every known remedy that was on the market had been tried, but without effect. The best local medical attendance and specialists had been called in, but each successive year the pains grew more acute and painful, until last winter when he was attacked again he was so thoroughly prostrated that he had to remain in his bed during the entire winter and could only leave when assisted by members of his family. He had no means of doing anything for himself, and his food had to be fed to him like a child. Reading in the Bulletin of the remarkable cure of Mrs. Ella Nolan, of State street, who was also a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism and had been cured by the use of a few boxes of Dr. Potter's Rheumatic Pills, Mr. Brennan sent to the drugist for a box and commenced their use at once. The rest of the world is a nutshell. The cure was almost instantaneous. From a helpless cripple he is now able to go about the house and walk without the use of crutch or cane— hale, hearty and vigorous, a perfect picture of manly vigor.

In his interview with the Bulletin reporter, he said: I cannot say too much in favor of these pills. They have done everything for me. I feel as well as I ever did. Nothing helped me as they did. I tried all kinds of liniments and every known remedy recommended for rheumatism, but nothing gave me relief. The pain has not only left my joints, but I have an excellent appetite, while before I took them my stomach was all out of order. Now I rest at night undisturbed, without pain or ache. I can conscientiously recommend them to all suffering from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, etc. Dr. Potter's Rheumatic Pills are a radical cure for Rheumatism, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Gonorrhoea, both acute and chronic, and all diseases depending upon or having their origin in the urine and diathesis. Price 50c a box. For sale by Matthews Bros., Wholesale and Retail.
