Presented With a Parlor Lamp.
Last evening a number of the Chi Upsilon society and the Omaha Ten, both connected with the Washburn Street Presbyterian church, called upon their pastor, Rev. D. W. Skellenger, at his home on Washburn street and presented him with a very beautiful parlor lamp. The affair was a complete surprise, but Mr. and Mrs. Skellenger soon recovered from their amazement and entertained their guests in a royal manner.

Solos were rendered by several of the talented members and the hours passed pleasantly. The lamp is set upon an ornate table and is very beautiful. It is worked in gold and a handsome white silk shade trimmed with lace adorns the top.

Arrested for Larceny.
James Pellico called at the shoe store of Thomas G. Evans last evening and requested the proprietor to show him some article of foot-wear. Pellico brought with him bundles which he laid down and then tried on a pair of shoes. There was an argument as to the price of the shoes and Pellico did not purchase them. He picked up his bundles and, while Mr. Evans was not looking, picked up the shoes and carried them out with him.
On discovering his loss Mr. Evans

NEWS OF THE SOUTH SIDE

Miss Sarah McNamara Married to Daniel J. Vaughan.

THE CUMMINGS-SHAW NUPTIALS

Ceremony Performed by Rev. E. J. Melley in the Parochial Residence—Little Boy Injured While Swinging on a Gate—Other Notes.

Rev. P. J. Golden, of the cathedral, pronounced the words yesterday morning that united in wedlock Miss Sarah McNamara, of South Washington avenue, and Daniel Vaughan, of Binghamton, both popular young people. The ceremony took place at 9 o'clock and was witnessed by numerous friends and acquaintances. Miss Louisa McNamara, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Jeremiah Desmond, of Washington, Pa., groomsmen. After the ceremony a wedding repast was served at the residence of John Kilcullen, Mrs. Vaughan's uncle. The presents were many and valuable. The bridal party left on the noon train for New York. After returning they will begin house-keeping in Binghamton.
At 7:30 last evening the marriage of Miss Mary Cummings, of Madison avenue, and William Shaw, of Cedar avenue, was celebrated by Rev. E. J. Melley at the parochial residence. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw left immediately after the ceremony for Philadelphia on their honeymoon.

South Side Jottings.
Miss Winifred Melvin, of Remington avenue, visited in Pittston yesterday. Tonight is the date of the ball of the William Connel Hose company at Workingmen's hall.
The return of William T. Smith's new store on South Washington avenue is started.
Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Merrick, of Prospect avenue, are congratulated on the advent of a baby boy to their household.
Willie Dunleavy, of Pittston avenue, is again able to walk around after being confined to the house with injuries recently sustained at the South mill.
James O'Donnell, of Upper Pittston avenue, visited in Pittston yesterday. Cedar avenue last night and was badly bruised. The ground was very hard and Mr. O'Donnell's face was stripped of much of its hair.
James Callaghan, of Prospect avenue, returned home last night after spending twenty-four hours in the central police station suffering from the slugging and clubbing he received in the fight on River street late Friday night.
A little Polish boy, whose parents live on Prospect avenue near Maple street, was swinging on the gate yesterday, when his weight broke the hinges and he fell on the sidewalk, breaking his left wrist and getting his scalp badly cut.

The remains of Mrs. Anna Bowers, of Hickory street, who died Tuesday, will be taken to Martinville, Monroe county, for burial at the Academy of Music, 9 a. m. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train this morning, aboard which the body will be placed.
The funeral of Mrs. Catharine Dippel, of Hickory street, yesterday morning, was a large one. Requiem mass was sung at St. Mary's church, and Rev. Father Christ preached a very touching sermon, giving notice to the wifely virtues of the departed woman. Interment was made in the Twentieth Ward cemetery.

IN LOCAL THEATERS.
After a long, long wait for spectacular, our theater-goers will have a chance to witness that magnificent spectacle, "The Black Crook." Manager Burgin has arranged to present it to his patrons Friday and Saturday, and it will no doubt attract immense audiences. It ran all of last winter in New York and the Academy of Music, and press and public voted that it was the most novel, ever seen in the Metropolis. The scenery arranges all for the efforts, and the ballets are particularly poetic and entrancing. The dramatic portion is exceedingly strong, and the vast amount of scenery and the large number of people carried insures a splendid production. There are sixty people in the company. A special matinee will be given on Saturday.
Peter F. Dalley, the popular provider of frothy fare for the million, is announced for Saturday night at the Frothingham in his capital musical comedy, "A Country Sport." The originality of Dalley's method and the vivacity of his nature render him a typical farce comedy brilliant and a "Country Sport" he has found a most congenial berth. The support includes such warm favorites as May Irwin, John G. Sparks, Andrew Mack, Ada Lewis, Harry M. Morse, Maud Harris, Maris Miller, James F. Callahan, Freda Depew and a score of others, and the piece abounds in taking novelties. Seats now on sale at the box office.

The present is what is termed the ninth edition of the very popular spectacular pantomime "Fantasma." The fairy queen, Zamaelle, King of Hades, Pico, the faithful but always unfortunate clown, the young lovers, imps, sprites, peasants, witches, ghosts, mermaids and all the vast array which attend upon Fantasma and Zamaelle will be seen in new costume. "Fantasma" will be at the Academy of Music on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The company this season is a very clever one and includes the following well known artists: George H. Adams as the funny clown, Pico; Miss Elsie Irving, the dramatic soprano; Leon E. Nell, baritone, and the McDonough brothers, grotesque artists.
