

IN THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

Autumn Doings Among Prominent Leaders of the Season's Gaiety.

PARTIES, WEDDINGS AND TEAS The Gamut of the Week's Events Sounded in Short Paragraphs—Guests and Entertainers—Personal Mention Reduced to a Compact Compass.

By reason of the many weddings of the past week but little opportunity has been offered for other pleasantries of the social world. Here and there has been given a very small dinner or evening company, but large and formal affairs have been conspicuous only by their absence. From present indications society will not enliven itself generally until the eve of the holidays.

It is a curious fact that no one sign so clearly gives evidence of the prevailing flower than the boutonniere of the very proper young man, and, for that matter, the frayed lapel of the ordinarily dressed individual is very much in evidence just now. That this is the season of the tuffed chrysanthemum goes without saying. The feathered flower in all its many colorations is seen equally often on the precise frock of the matter-of-fact business man, clasped to the waist of the high beamed man or borne in all its cabbage-head proportions on the flat chest of the Charles of cigarette and kid glove inclinations. Everyone is loyal to the flower and everyone wears it.

If it be believed that the chrysanthemum craze is the product of a scheme advanced a few years ago by New York florists for the sole object of getting dollars and cents, the passion for the flower might be somewhat lessened. These New York florists, knowing the hardness of the blossom and the simple process which makes it bloom in any desired color brought it to the public's notice in an ingenious manner. They secured for a consideration the patronage and assistance of some of the impetuous New York journalists and advertised a "chrysanthemum show" to be given in the old Madison Square garden. The profits of the first show and that of the year following were divided between the practical florists and needy society. Each year following, the shows increased in splendor, variety and attendance until now it costs a pretty penny to gaze at society gazing at chrysanthemums.

The flower eventually became a fad and was even suggested as the national flower when the rose, lily-of-the-valley and daisy were set aside. That the graceful and natural red and white Indian birth should occupy the pinnacle of national floral worship. The failure of the florists in this last enterprise cast a damper on the people's enthusiasm. In horrid yellow, washed-out pink or in purple hue that gives an artist the nightmare it nods its feathered head in every conceivable style of dress and has come to the fore with all its misuse and abuse it is a handsome, graceful flower when a person of good taste knows how to wear it and in what shade of color.

T. Cramer von Storch and his bride, Miss Jessie J. Benson, who were married Oct. 4, in St. Lawrence street, returned from their wedding trip last week Friday by Mr. von Storch's mother, Mrs. Theresa von Storch, at the family homestead, 1699 North Main avenue. Superintendent J. L. Crawford, of the Simpson & Watkins Coal company, is probably one of the most enthusiastic connoisseurs of horsemanship in the city. Mr. Crawford is the owner of ten blooded animals, nearly every one with a record. Five of the steeds are kept in this city and the others are stabled near the mines at Simpson, above Carbondale. At the opening of the new boulevard this week Mr. Crawford's steeds were prominently on the driveway in the front rank one night. It would seem, gain a very good record for the night of the night of a cyclone when seated in a light buggy he had a pair of Mr. Crawford's trotters.

RALLY OF CHURCH WORKERS

They Met and Listened to Reports in Penn Avenue Church.

STRENGTH OF THE SOCIETIES A Few Churches Mentioned That Have None Whatever—Members of the Societies Urged to Go Forth and do Missionary Work.

A rally of young people from the Baptist churches of Lackawanna and a portion of Wayne county was held at the Penn Avenue Baptist church yesterday afternoon.

The rally was held in the evening session, which was very largely attended, and was presided over by Rev. D. C. Hughes, who delivered an excellent address to young people and gave an excellent illustration of the importance of human nature, by explaining that the organ they had just heard had been sharpened and tuned by others, in order to make a general compromise. The minister may be a little "sharp" and the deacons a little "flat," but all must combine together to make a harmonious whole. Speaking of societies that were represented before him, he made several suggestions as to how they should be organized, and pointed to objections which had been raised to the work of junior societies.

Rev. Frank L. Wilkins, general secretary of the Young People's union of the United States, said: "I bring you the greetings of the young Baptists of Ohio, West Virginia and also of the Empire state, and from the latter I bring a message from a glorious, consecrated man, who died at Rochester, N. Y., last night, and when I say that the meeting extended beyond 9:30, the time when the average Baptist would consider his night meeting at the club, you will know that the meeting which absorbed their attention."

There are in America over 2,000,000 Baptists and this shows the magnitude of the work that can be accomplished by our societies. Our work is continental and educational, and from the banners we will observe that it is divided into two departments, the junior section, including those up to 16 years of age, and the senior section, that of age as long as they can do anything, and the latter section is the more important one. A Catholic with this book under his arm going to church at the Protestant with the Sunday paper in his pocket. Which is the paper of this city, Brother Partridge?

Mr. Wilkins—No, I mean the secular paper, the best daily.

Mr. Partridge—Oh, it would not be better to read the Bible, but they claim that there are four.

Mr. Wilkins then gave an exhaustive address as to the details of the Baptist junior societies and his reasons for being a Baptist.

Letters from the people. (Under this heading short letters of interest will be published when accompanied, for publication, by the writer's name. The Tribune will not be held responsible for opinions here expressed.)

Imposition on the Public. Editor of the Tribune, Sir—I rode down to the city yesterday on a Laura Hill street car and took a seat on the car. I was surprised to find that the conductor would not let me ride on it, and so I had to pay another fare. He said that the car was full, but I had paid my fare and the conductor would not let me ride on it. I have been informed that both lines belong to the same company, and that it is an imposition, agreeing to give transfers and then not letting a man use them.

SILVER CREEK COAL DEAL

Further Hearing in the Injunction Case Before Judge Gunster.

THE MAN THAT MADE THE MAP'S He Was on the Stand Yesterday—Hearing Will Be Resumed Today—Common Pleas and Other Cases Argued by the Judges.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after the argument list had been disposed of in the hearing in the equity suit of the Silver Creek Mining company against D. E. Taylor, W. W. Patterson and J. Alton Davis was resumed before Judge Gunster.

When the hearing was discontinued at adjournment hour on Thursday W. H. Taylor, president of the Silver Creek Mining company, was being cross-examined by Major Everett Warren, counsel for the defendants. When the case was taken up again yesterday afternoon the continuation of Mr. Taylor's examination was not taken up at once.

W. A. Cochran, a Pottsville surveyor, was sworn and stated that he made maps of the Earp tract at the request of Mr. Patterson. He sent the bill to that gentleman, but it was made out by the Silver Creek Mining company. He afterwards sent a bill direct to that company. W. H. Taylor was then called to the stand and his cross-examination was continued until the hour of adjournment. It will be resumed today.

The Cases Argued. Three common pleas cases were argued yesterday. They were: Pennsylvania Globe Gas Light company vs. the city of Philadelphia, exceptions to Thomas Bell and others, rule to mould verdict; exceptions to report of viewers of section A, of Third sewer district. The case of James M. Cowling vs. Iron City Coal and Coke company, plea in abatement, was continued.

Quarter sessions cases were disposed of in the following manner: Commonwealth vs. McGarrath & Thomas, appeal from summary conviction, settled and stricken off list. Exceptions to report of viewers on road in Scott township, exceptions dismissed and report confirmed. In re: James M. Cowling vs. Iron City Coal and Coke company, plea in abatement, was continued.

The Petition Withdrawn. In the matter of the division of the First ward of the borough of Olyphant into two wards, rule to show cause why the petition should not be quashed was withdrawn. Commonwealth vs. Ezzard Darby, rule to show cause why forfeiture of residence shall not be remitted was argued.

Argument was heard in these orphan's court cases: Matter of estate of John T. Gilbride, deceased, rule to show cause why an allowance should not be made, and matter of estate of J. F. Kinback, deceased, exceptions to report of viewers of section A, of Third sewer district. The case of George W. Ward, deceased, rule to show cause why guardian should not be discharged was made absolute.
