

HON. R. W. ARCHBALD.

Sketches of Two of the Prominent Candidates for Re-Election.

Success of One of Lackawanna County's Most Able Attorneys Upon the Bench, John H. Thomas, the Popular Clerk of the Courts of Lackawanna.

Probably no candidate before the peo ple of Lackawanna county this fall can look back upon a more excellent official record than the subject of this sketch, Hon. R. W. Archbald, president judge of the Lackawanna county courts, and unanimous choice of the Republican party for re-election. Robert Wordrow Archbald was born John J. O'Boyle, who was one of teh in Carbondale on Sept. 10, 1848, and John J. O'Boyle, who was one of the is of combined Scotch and New England ancestry. His father, James Archbald, was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, bald, was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, and his mother was a daughter of Major Frothingham, of the Continental army, rully guarded the trust imposed by the who was born at Charlestown, Mass. Judge Archbald's father, the late Hon. James Archbald, removed to Carbondale in 1829, shortly after which he was made superintendent of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company's works there, in which position he remained for thirty years. When Carbondale became a city in 1851 James Archbald became its first mayor. When the subject of this sketch was in his ninth year his father removed with him to Scranton, so that he grew up in the midst of the remarkable development of this city and vicinity.

Judge Archbald was favored with the highest educational advantages. His first leanings were toward the calling of a city engineer, so he spent two seasons with an only of the seasons with an only of the seasons with an only of the seasons with an only of this part of the seasons with an only of the seasons with an only of the seasons with a season of the seasons with a season of the seasons of the season of the seasons with a season of the season with an engineering corps. His fleas having undergone a change in the meantime, he prepared for college at Flushing institute and entered the freshman's class at Yale in 1867, graduating four years later with high honors. He immediately began the study of law in the office of Hand & Peer and in 1873 was also. office of Hand & Post and in 1873 was admitted to the bar.

He continued the practice of law in the courts of Luzerne and Lackawanna until 1884, when he was nominated by the Republicans of Lackawanna county as additional law judge. He was triumphantly elected by a plurality of unbut 2000. "Did you ever have a terrible cold?" said a little chatterbox to us the other day. "Of course you have, but I hope you were not ninny enough to try every remedy that was recommended, as I did. The result of the dosing was ten times worse than the cold that was the innocent cause of my double suffering. You see, the first day, when he was appointed by Mayor Battle to a vacancy on the Carbondale police force. His appointment was unanimously confirmed by the city council, notwithstanding the fact that that body had a Democratic majority at the time. For nine successive years he held his position on the police force. While on the police force he served. CAREER OF R. W. ARCHBALD While on the police force he served good dose of quinine. Nothing Is Cheap. There is nothing cheap under the sun. Good woolen is good woolen and has its current rate, and good cotton is good cotton, and good food is good food, and good tables and chairs are good tables and chairs, and in these days of competitive labor and trusts and tariffs known to all, prices vary hardly a hair's worth and nothing but secondhand goods can be bought at a bargain. A piece of silver, with an initial marked upon it, a table which has had one dinner served on its surface is 'old stuff" and has almost no market value. It must be nearly given away. change in the plan of representation at the next Republican National convention. It has been thought for years that it was unjust to the north, where the Poundian over the forther than the poundian over the proposed than the plan of representation at the plan of representatio Everything else fetches its value, fictitions or otherwise, the value at which it is held

And if one thing is undersold to catch business, another is oversold to offset it, and you must get up very early in the morning indeed and be a very old, old shopper to know which you are purchasing. A great mark down sale is also a great mark up sale unless indeed a fire or a bankruptcy has precipitated matters.

And even then real bargains are rare.—

A Tender Hearted Dog. A sick dog took up his abode in the field behind our house, and after seeing the poor thing lying there for some time I took it food and milk and water. The next day it was still there, and when I was going out to feed it I saw that a small pug was running about it, so I took a whip out ments, and as soon as he felt quite assured that my intentions toward the sick dog were friendly it ran to me wagging its tail, leaped up to my shoulder and licked my face and hands, nor would it touch the water till the invalid had had all it wanted. I suppose that it was satisfied that its companion was in good hands, for it trotted happily away, and did not appear upon the scene again.-Cor. London Spectator.

Building for Time.

"Americans build for time, Europeans for eternity," said Emil Hansick, a guest of the Laclede. "Go through the European towns and cities and you will find buildings still in use that were old when Columbus sailed from Palos. With us the usual life of a building is forty or fifty years. If it does not fall down of its own accord by that time we get tired of seeing it, pull it down and put up another, more showy, but even less substantial. We build for the day and let the future take care of itself. The European builds not only for himself, but for his decendants to the tenth generation. We are little better than Arabs as yet, pitching our tents, and but half deciding whether we will remain. Later we will build more substantially."-St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Deterioration of India Rubber. In an investigation of the decay of rubber W. Thompson has found that copper salts, which are sometimes even used for dyeing rubber goods black, have a very in-jurious effect. Metallic copper causes ox-idation and hardening of rubber in contact with it. Oils containing traces of copper quickly destroy rubber, and linseed oil contains an acid that rots rubber cloth. Only castor oil, in fact, is harmless. Volatile substances are emitted during the oxidation and hardening of rubber, as is shown by the odor and by the discoloraentitled to twenty-four delegates in a national convention, even though it did not cast 1,000 Republican votes at the last presidential election.
