

JAMES C. VAUGHAN.

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATES

Four Worthy Young Men of Brilliant Attainments.

THEIR RECORDS ARE CLEAN

Brief Sketches of the Lives of Aspirants for official Honors Who May Be Trusted to Heed the Wishes of the People at All Times.

James C. Vaughan, Republican candidate for senator in the Twentieth senatorial district, comes before the people with an admirable record as an honest and upright citizen who has achieved success through earnest effort and straightforward dealing with his fellow men.

James C. Vaughan is a life-long resident of the Lackawanna valley, having been born in the city of Scranton, July 28, 1860. He graduated from the high school of that city in 1877, since which time he has been engaged as a teacher in the public schools. Being of a very studious nature and ambitious to raise himself in the academic life, he opened to men placed in his circumstances, and having but limited means, he became a student in the law office of Lieutenant Governor L. A. Watres, devoting all his spare moments to the study of law, and having accomplished his purpose with high honors, was admitted to the bar in 1882.

Mr. Vaughan is by nature, a thorough American, having a sincere and devoted attachment to the land of his birth, yet with all, he has an ardent love for the people of the land of his fathers, and never has he allowed an opportunity to pass, when his time or his money was required to aid the people of Ireland when he has not given both with his entire heart and soul. In the old Land League, when a mere boy, he was found to be an enthusiastic worker, and honored as such by his co-workers of the city, who repeatedly elected him to represent them in the national councils of Irishmen in America. In fact, in every movement for the amelioration of Irishmen abroad, or elevating the condition of the people of that race in America, we find him one of the first to join, and maintaining those principles to the last. As a member of the Phil Sheridan Rifles, Mr. Vaughan has gained a high name in military circles in this county, he being at present captain of that splendid organization in which every Irish American takes an especial pride. As captain of the company Mr. Vaughan has taken an active part in the Phil Sheridan memorial movement, and is secretary of the organization. His two-fold motive in the movement is, first, to honor a man, whose name is linked in deeds of valor on the pages of history with that of Grant and Sherman, and second, because the man having been of the same race of people from which he sprung, has caused Mr. Vaughan to doubly exert himself, and many have become interested who might have remained indifferent were it not for his efforts.

In the cause of total abstinence, Mr. Vaughan has always been an ardent worker, and some few years ago was instrumental in organizing the St. Peter's society, of Bellevue, which organization ranks high numerically and in financial standing. In 1888-89 Mr. Vaughan held the position of president of the Diocesan union, of Scranton, a position which he filled with credit and ability.

In politics, Mr. Vaughan is an enthusiastic Republican, and, as in every other movement in which he is engaged, he is sincere and honest, and makes friends of every one with whom he comes in contact, no matter how much they might differ with him in opinion, as all are impressed with his sincerity. In society he is well posted in parliamentary law, an excellent debater, although he is not of the boldest kind, knowing just when, where and how to gain the attention, respect and favorable decision of his auditors. In every sense of the word, Mr. Vaughan is one of nature's noblemen, and no one will ever have cause to regret having cast a ballot in his favor.

JOHN R. FARR.

As the author of the free school book law Hon. John R. Farr has one of the greatest claims upon every voter who has the welfare of the masses at heart.

John R. Farr is a native of Scranton. He was born on the West Side July 18, 1857, and has always resided in the city. After receiving a common school education Mr. Farr learned typesetting, and passing through the various grades of the business became city editor of the Republican. He served four years on the Scranton board of control and was one of the most progressive members of that organization. It was during his service on the school board that Mr. Farr gained the practical knowledge of school affairs that has been of great service to him in championing the cause of education in the legislative halls.

Several years ago Mr. Farr became proprietor of the Hyde Park Courier-Progress, and has been editor of the paper since. He was elected to the state legislature in 1891, and his services are best told in a campaign card which contains the following brief mention of his work as representative from the First legislative district: Alongside a good portrait of Mr. Farr

JOHN R. FARR.

The Farr free school book law, which provides a million school children with books, slates, paper, etc., free of charge and gives the poor man's children an equal chance in the school room with those of the rich.

The card thus continues to summarize Mr. Farr's additional services: "A million dollars secured from the state for free books, making unnecessary any local taxation for this purpose, also an appropriation of $32,566 for the Scranton Oral School for the Deaf and $27,000 for the Lackawanna hospital."

"Secured legislation that enables Moses Taylor hospital to spend $100,000 a year in our midst, rather than $50,000 under old laws.

"His bill to provide for the education of neglected children under 12 years of age, physically and mentally weak, passed, but was vetoed, as was also the mechanic's lien bill, which would have guaranteed the wages of the mechanic or laborer employed in or about a building. Workmen are now dependent on the honesty and responsibility of the contractors.

"Prevented the passage of a bill that would have taxed at half rates nearly 5,000 acres of unimproved land in Scranton."

Mr. Farr's record in the legislature is the best recommendation that he needs to secure the support of the intelligent voter.

ALEXANDER CONNELL.

The Republican candidate for the legislature from the Second district, Mr. Alexander Connell, is a young man who was born in Minooka, thirty-three years ago, in the heart of the working classes. At an early age he began the struggle of life. All his years have been spent in the society of those who toil, and there are few men in this vicinity today who are better posted and know more of the needs of labor than this bright young man. Mr. Connell is not a theorist, he is a practical man who has seen his way to the fore-most ranks of the eminent young men of the city and who has had experience in the art of law making. As an evidence of his popularity it may be mentioned that he is a resident of the Twentieth ward of this city; a ward that three years ago had a Democrat majority of 600. At that time Mr. Connell was brought into the field as a candidate to fill an unexpired term in the select council of the city. One of the ward's most popular Democrats was pitted against him. Mr. Connell was elected by a majority of twenty-two. Three years later when he again ran for the four years term that he is now filling in the select council, he was elected by a majority of ninety. It is a decided pleasure to refer to Mr. Con-

GOOD SPIRITS

Follow good health while you are young. Measles, mumps, influenza, impure blood, nervousness, morose, or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from pernicious, solitary practices often indulged in by the young, through ignorance of their fatal consequences. Nervous debility, and loss of memory, power, not infrequently result from such unnatural habits. To reach, maintain and restore such unfortunate to health and happiness, is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen, who have prepared a treatise, written in plain but concise language and treating of the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. A copy of this useful book will, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents in stamps, for postage, be mailed securely sealed in a plain envelope. OVERSEERS OF ELECTION

List of Appointees Handed Down by the Court Yesterday.

THE PURITY OF THE BALLOT

It is the Duty of Overseers to See That the Purity of the Ballot is Preserved Unassailed--Names of Those Who Will Act.

Overseers of election were appointed yesterday by the court. Appended is the list, the first name mentioned being that of the Republican overseer, and the second that of the Democrat.

CHARLES O'MALLEY.

Charles O'Malley, Republican candidate for legislative honors from the Fourth district, whose lively canvass up the valley has staggered the Democratic hosts in a typical self-made man. Charles O'Malley, like many other boys of the mine regions, was born of poor parents, and at an age when he would be scarcely admitted to the school room he was sent to the coal breaker. Here, amid the discordant rumbling of ponderous machinery, in nell's record as a councilman. It is one made up of courage, fearlessness and brilliancy.

Although a young man, Mr. Connell today stands foremost among the law makers of the city. He is active and persistent, sound and practical in debate, forcible in his argument and brilliant in his methods of statesmanship. He has given his ward representation, the likes of which it never had before; he has had his ward recognized, its streets improved, its public complaints listened to, and fair and equitable legislation for all. That is the kind of a young man that the people of the Second legislative district have running for the legislature. He will go to Harrisburg not only with the experience gained here, but with the support of the majority of the legislature and the state administration at his back. When he comes home it will not be to apologize for what he has not done, on the ground that he belonged to the minority party. He will come home, if you send him to Harrisburg, with the glad things that you, he and the measures he advocated, have received recognition at the state's capital. And what the laboring class want is recognition. That they will obtain through Alexander Connell.

Madison--C. C. Van Brunt, D.; Mayfield--John McCarty, Charles Quinn; Newton--J. D. Hopkins, John Ford. North Abington--William C. Smith, D.; Old Forge--First ward, Henry Courtright, Charles J. Keogh; Fourth ward, Samuel Broadhead, John Neary. Olyphant--First ward, W. R. Reese, Patrick Farrell; Second ward, John P. Farnham, P. E. Donohue; Third ward, M. P. O'Boyle; Fourth ward, Miss P. O'Boyle; Ransom--John Williams, William Oyster.

an atmosphere filled with grime and dirt, surrounded with dangers and hardships, we find him battling for the bread of life at an age when more fortunate children were yet in their swaddling clothes. To thousands of boys the hardships and trials of the dirty breaker are the death knell of their ambition. Not so with Charles O'Malley. He was made of sterner stuff. With grimy face and almost mailless fingers he studied under the rays of the midnight candle. He kept up the study until his parents were enabled to give him a few months' training in a business college. From here he dropped into the office of Willard & Warren as a stenographer, one of the best in the state. His ambition had not yet left him, and the next thing we hear is that he is admitted to practice at the bar of Lackawanna. Still ambitious, he is now the Republican nominee for the legislature in the district in which he was born, and where his struggles began. Who is so well qualified to represent this district as he? On whose heart is more indelibly printed the wants of the people of that district--from the slate picker to the miner--who would make a more creditable representative--who a more devout one? He is a Republican, because he knows that is the party through which his people can be benefited in this state. He will not come home from Harrisburg with the excuse that he could do nothing for his district because he did not belong to the party in power.

There is every reason to believe that the workingmen, irrespective of party, will go to the polls on Tuesday next and give Charles O'Malley a majority that will effectively rebuke the individual who failed to stand up for the cause of education when his services were most needed.

PROFESSIONAL SUCCESS.

Theatre-goers will recognize the above portraits as those of a young actress, of whom the world already knows much, and is destined to know more. The lady, Miss Ellen Vokey, was born in Baltimore, graduated in music from the Peabody Institute of that city, and finished her musical education at Leipzig in Germany. Even in childhood she gave evidence of possessing the dramatic instinct. Her earliest professional appearances were on the German stage, as "Mary Stuart" and "Julia" in this country as "Julia," "Parthenia," and "Lady Teazle"--with marked success. As a dramatic reader, she has won high praise, having given selections from Schiller and Goethe before the German Court. During the World's Fair in Chicago, she created a sensation in her performances in the Woman's building, and also at the Calumet Theatre. Since then she has repeated her success in New York and elsewhere. In Washington, where she resides, Miss Vokey is a great favorite, being as charitable as she is talented. We gladly make room for the following letter, showing her good fortune in a hygienic, as well as a dramatic direction.

THE PRE-DIGESTED FOOD CO., 29 READE ST., NEW YORK.

Gentlemen--I beg leave to inform you that I have used your Paskola, and find it an excellent thing as a flesh and strength producer. I heard of it through a friend, and also from my brother, who is a patient. Both recommended me to try it, and I did so. As my work is hard and exhausting, I often felt faint after a performance. Indeed, half the time I had no appetite, but since I began the use of Paskola, I have a lovely appetite, and have gained flesh. It is an excellent stomachic food, and the stomach always is easily. I can only speak of it in the highest terms, and shall continue its use during the hot weather. I recommend it to the profession, for use both before and after a performance. I hope what I here say may induce our weak and nervous women to try Paskola. Yours truly, ELLEN VOKEY.

Such a food (and the only one in existence) is Paskola. Being pre-digested, it spares the stomach the labor imposed by ordinary food, enters the blood, and is at once taken up by the hungry and needy body. It virtually rests the stomach. That is both science and sense.

People who were wan, tired, feeble, low-spirited, dyspepsia-curbed and constipated, write us daily from Maine to Mexico, saying they are getting fat and hearty on Paskola, after a weary and useless dosing with drugs and colic-iver oil. And with reason. Paskola stands for the true story--the right practice.

PROFESSIONAL SUCCESS.

A reporter recently called on Sergeant Elias R. Dunn, New York's weather prophet, to talk with him about the matter. He was found in his office, looking exceedingly well. In response to an inquiry he said: "I have used the pre-digested food, Paskola, myself, and in my family, and I must say that I have found it just what is claimed for it. In fact, I have been chanting the praises of it very steadily ever since I first began to use it. Why shouldn't I? It has built me up and made a new man of me. You see how fresh and rosy I am, and I intend to keep so."

All brain workers--doctors, lawyers, doctors, inventors, artists, clergymen, authors, editors, merchants, financiers, etc., etc., are almost certain to suffer from indigestion and dyspepsia, with its attendant nervous prostration. They become anaemic and weak. Lacking necessary nourishment, body and mind run down together. Drugs do no good. At best drugs in such cases are mere poisons to stir the dying embers. What is wanted is more fuel; that is, food which the system can receive and assimilate without taxing the digestive organs.

Such a food (and the only one in existence) is Paskola. Being pre-digested, it spares the stomach the labor imposed by ordinary food, enters the blood, and is at once taken up by the hungry and needy body. It virtually rests the stomach. That is both science and sense.
