FORECAST OF THE RESULTS

Prospects of Democratic Defeat All Along the Line.

SOLID SOUTH IS WAVERING

Virginia Voters Are Unable to Repudiate the Author of the Wilson Bill--Louisiana Sugar Planters Have Also Had Enough of Democratic Rule.

New York, Nov. 4. The campaign of 1894 is at an end. It has been a stirring one in many states and the American people are aroused as seldom before in a year in which the presidency is not at stake.

The campaign of 1894 is at an end. It has been a stirring one in many states and the American people are aroused as seldom before in a year in which the presidency is not at stake. Issues of importance have been presented, and the verdict of the people at the polls on Tuesday is expected to practically determine which will be the dominant party in 1896.

Democratic Majorities Will Be Reduced. It is generally conceded by unbiased observers that the Democratic majority in the lower house will be decreased, while the Republicans and Populists will make gains.

The present house has 214 Democrats, 126 Republicans and 12 Populists. There will be 356 members in the next house, and either of the leading parties must elect 178 men to obtain control.

Great interest has been manifested in the fight for re-election of William L. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee. Both Republican and Democratic campaign committees have sent orators of national renown into his district in West Virginia, and the result of the election will be anxiously watched.

In Louisiana the stampeders of the sugar planters to the Republican party some weeks ago made a gain of three Republican congressmen in that state province. Recently the Democrats have injected the race issue into the campaign and now claim that they will hold the state delegation.

The states which will elect legislators on Tuesday which will have the naming of United States senators are California, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming.

In addition to the twenty-one new legislators which will elect United States senators, there is a possibility of New York's legislature having to name a successor to Senator Hill. His election as governor and the election of a Republican legislature at Albany would lose the Democrats a vote in the senate.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—Tuesday nine congressmen are to be elected. The legislature has already been elected, and the return of Senator Morgan is assured. The Republican managers conceded the election of seven Democratic representatives, but claim that two districts will be close, with a good show for the election of a Populist in one of them.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—Wisconsin will elect state officers and the legislature. The chairman of the Republican state committee says the state will go Republican by a plurality of from 15,000 to 22,000.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—Secretary of State Samuel M. Taylor claims that the Republicans will elect sixteen congressmen, six more than they elected in 1892, and that the Democrats will elect only five out of their delegation of twelve in the last congress. So far as the state ticket is concerned, it is conceded by the managers of the Democratic campaign that the outcome of one of the Republican plurality only. Last

THE CANDIDATES IN DEBATE

General Hastings and Colonel Singery Discuss the Issues.

GREAT EVENT AT NORRISTOWN

The Gubernatorial Aspirants Meet Before Thousands of Partisans and Discuss the Points of the Campaign in a Friendly Way--Great Enthusiasm.

By the United Press.

Norristown, Nov. 4. The most unique event in the history of political campaigning in Pennsylvania occurred in this city at the wind up of the gubernatorial canvass last evening. Two candidates for the highest office in the gift of the grand commonwealth of Pennsylvania faced each other before thousands of partisans in joint discussion of the issues of the day.

Such crowds were never seen in Norristown as gathered in her opera house and in Montgomery county's court house to hear the distinguished gentlemen speak. Men and women struggled, not for a place to stand or sit, but for a place to hear. Thousands were turned away, because as early as 6 o'clock the green about the stately palace of justice was dotted with eager groups of partisans, while crowds pressed close against the closed doors of the opera house and waited with the patience of expectation for them to swing inward two hours later.

The Democratic mass meeting at the court house first received the attention of the rival candidates. Colonel Singery arrived first, escorted by the Jefferson club and a brass band, whose music was illumined by a noontide blaze of red fire and rockets. General Hastings arrived shortly after, escorted by the Republican Invincibles and another band, while the darkness of the night was punctuated by blazing stars and the glare of cotton lights. Upon the arrival of Gen. Hastings Col. Singery quickly walked toward the handsome Republican, cordially took him by the hand, and the pair of candidates stood before the audience for a few seconds before the Democrat said, in a quiet, decisive way: "Now, I want the best order ever had in a Democratic meeting, out of respect to our guest. I ask that for myself." The assemblage came in the form of cheers of approval.

General Hastings spoke about half an hour and his speech yielded the floor to Colonel Singery, who addressed the hearers, who at times became enthusiastic, to save their applause for the last speech.

At the Republican Meeting. It was close to 9 o'clock when a commotion at the rear of the stage in the Opera House announced the coming of the candidates. As General Hastings appeared arm in arm with Colonel Singery, a great shout went up, and then from all over the house, from crowded orchestra to packed gallery a multitude of small flags flashed out. The audience was hidden beneath them. It seemed as if every man and woman in the audience had one of the tiny emblems and was bent on giving the distinguished guests a red, white and blue Chattanooga salute.

District Attorney George F. Graham and Major George B. Orsley, of Huntington, had been holding the audience till the coming of the candidates. On the outside General James W. Latta had been speaking to the disappointed thousands who could not get in doors.

Mr. Graham immediately closed his speech and called upon the audience to show to Colonel Singery the distinguished consideration which was due him as a gentleman and the candidate of a great party. The chairman of the meeting, Judge Stimson, then introduced Colonel Singery. His reception was a striking one, the audience burst into loud applause and cheers and the flags fluttered all over the house.

At the conclusion of his address at the Opera House before the Republican meeting, Colonel Singery and his party were driven to the Reading depot, where a special train was in waiting to carry them to Philadelphia. If Colonel Singery could have remained he would have heard a striking reply to his speech from Republican sources on the subject of a reduction of tariff duties. Colonel Singery quoted President Arthur, President Grant, Senator Merrill, Senator Allison and other Republicans as the subject, but General Hastings demonstrated from documents at hand that Colonel Singery had quoted only isolated extracts from speeches on modifications of certain tariff schedules, and he had not, therefore, given a true expression of sentiment on the subject. More than that, with masterful force General Hastings showed conclusively from documents that the Democratic leaders from President Jackson down had vigorously opposed the very doctrine which Colonel Singery advocated. His peroration forced the fact that no Republican president had ever spoken of his party as Grover Cleveland has done, charging it with acts of perfidy and dishonor.

General Hastings was followed by Hon. Charles Emory Smith, who gave an eloquent and logical review of the issues of the campaign. Charles H. Schadt, do you believe in libeling, lying about and slandering those who oppose you in politics? If not, why not say so like a man?

Russians Insist That Dr. Zacharin Poisoned the Czar.

By the United Press.

London, Nov. 5.—The Daily News correspondent in St. Petersburg says that Nicholas II is expected to reach St. Petersburg at the end of this week. A mob has been in front of Dr. Zacharin's house all day shouting that he is a poisoner and the murderer of the czar.

EARTHQUAKE IN MEXICO

The Most Severe Shocks Felt Since the Year 1886.

THIRTEEN PEOPLE ARE KILLED

Three Disturbances Take Place on a Festival Day Causing Panic in Theaters. People Kneel in the Streets While Bells Ring in Swaying Towers.

By the United Press.

City of Mexico, Nov. 4. The earthquake which visited this section of the republic Friday evening was the most severe which has been since 1886. Reports of damage to the and property are slow in being collected, but it is known that thirteen people were killed in this city, and at least three at outside points. Many roofs of old buildings fell and in some instances crushed to instant death the occupants of the houses. All of the killed are among the lower classes.

The earthquake was preceded by a rumbling subterranean noise followed by a movement of the ground from north to south. This was followed in a few seconds by another undulating and stronger vibration from west to east, which in turn was succeeded by a shock from northwest to southeast. The three shocks, coming as they did from different quarters, badly cracked the strongest buildings.

From telegraph advices from Central and Southern Mexico the disturbance is shown to have covered the state and federal District of Mexico, and lasted from one to four minutes. Being a holiday and one of the chief festival days of the year, the theaters were thronged and panics ensued. Several people were hurt in the rush of exit and many women went into hysterics. The songs on the stage were succeeded by impassioned prayers for forgiveness and confession of error. The plays were generally abandoned and the audience remained in the theaters kneeling in prayer.

Ringing of the Church Bells.

Drivers deserted the street cars and coachmen their backs to kneel in prayer along with the throng sending up their supplications. The threatened destruction was made more solemn by the ringing of bells in the swaying church tower. In prisons where many desperate criminals are confined the scenes witnessed were curious as the walled-up and the earth cracked, threatening to entomb the imprisoned inmates. The convicts almost without exception fell upon their knees on the floors of their cells with loud voices crying out prayers and supplication. Many, supposing their time had come, shouted out confessions of past crimes. This is one of the most dramatic passages in the passing of the event and may be of use to the officers of the law in unraveling a number of mysterious crimes in Mexico.

The supply of water pipes leading from Chapultepec were broken, and the city will suffer a water famine if the pipe is not repaired at an early hour.

FALL OF FONG WONG.

The Japanese Capture Arms, Ammunition and Supplies.

By the United Press.

London, Nov. 4.—The Central News has this dispatch dated at Kullenchao on Nov. 2: "After the capture of Kullenchao on Oct. 25 the Japanese headquarters were moved from Wu to this point. Two columns chased the Chinese to Sato and attacked Andong. The Chinese fled without fighting, throwing away arms and drums in their flight. General Tatsumi started for Fong Wong on the 27th and arrived there on the 31st. The garrison made no show of fight, but fled as soon as the Japanese approached. By the capture of Fong Wong the Japanese came into possession of 55 cannon, 20,000 rounds of ammunition, 1,500 muskets and 2,000 cartridges, besides an enormous quantity of miscellaneous supplies.

ANXIETY AT BUTTE CITY.

Troops Are Held in Readiness to Quell Disturbances at Election.

By the United Press.

Butte City, Mont., Nov. 4.—Nov. 6 will be a memorable day in Butte. The unprecedented bitterness which has been aroused in the city during the campaign will certainly culminate on election day and if bloodshed is avoided it will be most fortunate. In addition to this grave fears are entertained of a conflict between the Catholics and the American Protective Association.

COACHMAN HOWARD FREE.

Secretary Carlisle Reverses His Decision in the Case of the Stable Boy Engaged by Hon. Levi Morton.

By the United Press.

New York, Nov. 4.—Secretary Carlisle's decision in the case of John Howard, the coachman imported by Hon. Levi Morton and detained on Ellis Island as an alien contract laborer, was reversed yesterday. The secretary decided that after having examined the evidence taken by the board of special inquiry he was of the opinion that Howard's case came under the provision of the act which allowed the importation of personal or domestic servants, and ordered the immediate release of the coachman.

The commissioner of immigration immediately sent for Howard and told him of his release. He also purchased for him a ticket to Ellersville, near which is Ellersville, Mr. Morton's farm. Furthermore, he informed the little chap that the government would pay for the transportation of his baggage and for his meals at the Ellis Island restaurant during his detention.

The gentleman who has just left Ellis Island where privileges such as are given to political prisoners have been granted to him, was formerly associated with Lord Alfick, of England. He entered the service of Levi P. Morton in England as an under coachman. His duties were to clean the carriages, tend the horses and sometimes to drive a road wagon. He came over here to perform the same offices at Ellersville. He was arrested on a warrant issued by the secretary of the treasury charged with being an alien contract laborer. He was ordered to be deported. Mr. Morton instituted habeas corpus proceedings, and Judge Lacombe decided that the man was a domestic servant. As such he could not be a contract laborer within the meaning of the law. Judge Lacombe, however, said that the matter came only within the jurisdiction of the secretary of the treasury. Mr. Carlisle had the evidence taken and announced his decision yesterday, which agreed with that of Judge Lacombe. He reversed his own ruling and broke all the precedents of the department.

VICTIM OF FOOT BALL.

Princeton Freshman Suffering from Injury to His Spine.

By the United Press.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Bert E. D. Breckinridge, son of General J. C. Breckinridge, inspector general United States army, is confined at his home here with a severe injury to his spine. DESIRE WILLIAM'S SCALP

Pittston Iron Workers Repudiate Luzerne's Little Statesman.

By the United Press.

Pittston, Nov. 4. Hon. W. H. Hines, who desires re-election at the hands of the voters of Luzerne, seems to be unfortunate in encountering obstacles all along the line. The laboring classes, who fail to observe any benefit that they have received at the hands of Mr. Hines, do not seem to be backward in entering their protests against the course of their representative in the halls of congress.

GIVE HIM A STINGING REBUKE

They Are of the Opinion That Hines' Heart Does Not Bleed for the Workingman After Election and Think He Should Be Consigned to Oblivion.

By the United Press.

Pittston, Nov. 4. Hon. W. H. Hines, who desires re-election at the hands of the voters of Luzerne county, met this evening and adopted the following preamble and resolutions concerning the candidacy of Hon. W. H. Hines, who desires re-election at the hands of the voters of Luzerne county:

WHILE LABOR IS THE BASIS OF NATIONAL WEALTH AND MATERIAL ADVANCEMENT AND PROGRESS, ALL OF WHICH CAN BE FOSTERED AND MAINTAINED BY INTELLIGENT, HONEST AND SYMPATHETIC LEGISLATION AT WASHINGTON, AND

Whereas, The tone, spirit and trend of responsible so far as these relate to the interests of the working classes, care and ignoring the welfare of his own district and the state of Pennsylvania and

Whereas, The Hon. W. H. Hines, the congressional district has proved himself recreant to all business, professional and representative responsibilities so far as these relate to the interests of the working classes, care and ignoring the welfare of his own district and the state of Pennsylvania and

Whereas, We consider that a true representative of the people should not be guilty of the ineffable meanness and treachery of surrendering those interests into unworthy hands for the privilege of peddling political patronage to the highest bidder independently of all business, personal or political considerations of merit in the beneficiary, and

Whereas, We consider that the interests of labor would be better served by the election of an honest capitalist whose interests are inseparably connected with the true interests of labor rather than in the election of a tricky demagogue whose heart bleeds for the poor workingman until a convenient opportunity presents itself for selling them out. Therefore be it

Resolved, That we repudiate the candidacy of the Hon. W. H. Hines, who has aspires to represent this district in the national halls of legislation and recommend to the voters of Luzerne to rebuke his treacherous treatment of their interests and to conjoin him to their political conviction from which he should never have emerged.

Resolved, That this preamble and these resolutions be published in the newspapers circulating in the congressional district.

Signed: James Carney, W. Rutter, J. M. Fahy, P. Cowan, John J. Quinn, Tom Fleming, Tom Conroy, James Coyne, John Sullivan. Pittston, Pa., Nov. 4, 1894.

James G. Raffley, do you personally sanction the pirate policy which would let you into office over the remains of your antagonist's libelous reputation? If not, why not say so like a man?
